seed say that they will undoubtedly have a full crop this season, as it is now too late for them to be seriously injured.

THE Morisse Seed Co. has been organized in Tacoma, Wash., by Carl and Fred J. Morisse, with headquarters at 1131 South C street. A specialty will be made of sweet peas this season.

H. D. GARWOOD, who for the last three years was secretary and treasurer of the Ebbert Seed Co., Rocky Ford, Colo., having disposed of that interest last summer, is starting in business on his individual account as a grower of vine seeds.

THE Arizona land deals of the late D. M. Ferry and C. C. Bowen, of Detroit, come in for criticism in the report to the House by Representative Hensley, of Missouri, for the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of the Interior, which investigated the irrigation work on the Salt and Gila rivers.

WHEN the agricultural appropriation bill was taken up in the House February 7, Representative Mann, of Illinois, offered an amendment providing for the testing of lawn grass seed by the Department of Agriculture. "A lot of seed houses have gotten into the habit of mixing seed containing mainly the seed of weeds," Mr. Mann said. "I want them to feel that if they continue that they are

Boddington's Quality Cannas

Are true to name, have two to three good eyes, are well cured, sound and dormant, and give absolute satisfaction. Our sales last year were nearly 700,000, and not an overgrown kick. The Canna crop this year, however, is very short, and we advise placing orders early to secure stock. Delivery can be made at purchaser's option. Remember, you may deduct 5% if cash accompanies the order.

in danger of having their names published. I want the practice stopped." The amendment was adopted.

INVOICES in the usual commercial form may be enclosed in parcel post packages, under an order issued by the post-office department last week.

S. F. LEONARD, John C. Leonard and several travelers represented the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, at the canners' convention at Louisville this week.

THE southern seed trade, is opening well and all the seed houses in that section are busy. They say the business is largely in farm seeds thus far, the garden and flower seed business not having started in as yet.

IN the process of constructing its new west side plant in Chicago the Albert Dickinson Seed Co. has taken out a building permit for a 2-story brick warehouse at West Thirty-fifth street and South California avenue, to cost $65,000.

PEAS IN IDAHO.

"A. L. Stone, representing the D. M. Ferry Seed Co., one of the biggest eastern seed firms, has been in this city for the last week getting in touch with the ranchers who desire to raise seed peas. Mr. Stone states that he has so far placed about 2,500 acres on this tract, but desired to place acreage to the amount of at least 4,500 for this year. A new shipment of seed is expected in a short time and it is desired to place this seed with the ranchers before plans for the year's crop are made by the farmers. Mr. Stone has moved to this city to take up his residence. Last year a number of the Twin Falls ranchers tried the seed pea crop as an experiment, and realized a handsome profit and the demand for the seed will no doubt be heavy as soon as the information reaches the ranchers."

TO EXTEND IMPURE SEED LAW.

A bill to prohibit the interstate shipment of impure seeds has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Asle J. Gronna, of North Dakota. It is practically an extension of the law prohibiting certain imports, printed in The Review for February 6, as it provides that the shipment for seeding purposes from one state, territory or district of the United States into another state, territory or district of seeds of alfalfa, barley, Canadian blue grass, Kentucky blue grass, awnless brome grass, buckwheat, clover, field corn, kafir corn, meadow fescue, flax, oats, millet, orchard grass, rape, red-top, rye, sorghum, timothy, wheat, or any other cereal or grass seeds, or any vegetable seeds or flower seeds, or mixtures of seeds containing any of such seeds as one of the principal component parts, which are adulterated or unfit for seeding purposes, is prohibited. The secretary of agriculture is to make rules and regulations to prevent the shipment of such seed. The act shall not operate to prohibit the shipment of seeds for the purpose of cleaning them before offering them for sale, it is provided, but such shipments shall be made in accordance with regulations prescribed by the secretary of agriculture, to prevent the misuse of in danger of having their names published. I want the practice stopped." The amendment was adopted.

INVOICES in the usual commercial form may be enclosed in parcel post packages, under an order issued by the post-office department last week.

S. F. LEONARD, John C. Leonard and several travelers represented the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, at the canners' convention at Louisville this week.

THE southern seed trade is opening well and all the seed houses in that section are busy. They say the business is largely in farm seeds thus far, the garden and flower seed business not having started in as yet.

IN the process of constructing its new west side plant in Chicago the Albert Dickinson Seed Co. has taken out a building permit for a 2-story brick warehouse at West Thirty-fifth street and South California avenue, to cost $65,000.

PEAS IN IDAHO.

"A. L. Stone, representing the D. M. Ferry Seed Co., one of the biggest eastern seed firms, has been in this city for the last week getting in touch with the ranchers who desire to raise seed peas. Mr. Stone states that he has so far placed about 2,500 acres on this tract, but desired to place acreage to the amount of at least 4,500 for this year. A new shipment of seed is expected in a short time and it is desired to place this seed with the ranchers before plans for the year's crop are made by the farmers. Mr. Stone has moved to this city to take up his residence. Last year a number of the Twin Falls ranchers tried the seed pea crop as an experiment, and realized a handsome profit and the demand for the seed will no doubt be heavy as soon as the information reaches the ranchers."

TO EXTEND IMPURE SEED LAW.

A bill to prohibit the interstate shipment of impure seeds has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Asle J. Gronna, of North Dakota. It is practically an extension of the law prohibiting certain imports, printed in The Review for February 6, as it provides that the shipment for seeding purposes from one state, territory or district of the United States into another state, territory or district of seeds of alfalfa, barley, Canadian blue grass, Kentucky blue grass, awnless brome grass, buckwheat, clover, field corn, kafir corn, meadow fescue, flax, oats, millet, orchard grass, rape, red-top, rye, sorghum, timothy, wheat, or any other cereal or grass seeds, or any vegetable seeds or flower seeds, or mixtures of seeds containing any of such seeds as one of the principal component parts, which are adulterated or unfit for seeding purposes, is prohibited. The secretary of agriculture is to make rules and regulations to prevent the shipment of such seed. The act shall not operate to prohibit the shipment of seeds for the purpose of cleaning them before offering them for sale, it is provided, but such shipments shall be made in accordance with regulations prescribed by the secretary of agriculture, to prevent the misuse of

ANOTHER RANDALL BARGAIN OPPORTUNITY

All goods listed are regular stock quality. They will stand comparison with lines advertised at triple values and are true to description. The larger your order the more you will save. Here is your chance to merchandise on the same level as the big fellows. Close buying is one of the main factors in business success. "Grasp opportunity by the forelock, because she has no back hair"--so said one of the wisest.

Don't bemoan your inability to get in right after the proper period has passed. Unless your order reaches us before March 1, full catalogue prices will be charged.

"BLUE RIBBON" EASTER BASKETS

It should take precious little persuasion to get your order for some of these baskets. We have figured the prices down to about as low as we can make them. If we are sure of anything, it is that this is the best basket bargain opportunity that will be presented you for many a day. You will be missing a royal chance if you let it go by. Something is radically wrong if these baskets don't strike you right. They are our own manufacture, finished with extreme care, and represent basket-making at its best. We don't believe there are any Plant Baskets to touch them.

Our No. 76, for an 8-inch fern dish, is a close-woven reed basket with ivory willow handle. We offer it at 90c plain, $1.00 if colored. Our No. 53, nest of 4 baskets, we offer at $2.50 for the complete nest plain, $3.00 if colored. Baskets colored as specified. Nest consists of 4 baskets, for 6, 7, 8 and 9-inch pots, one of each size.

A GENERAL WORD ON BASKETS

If you have a special design in mind, why not send us a sketch and we will submit you a sample in a day or two? No matter how difficult the job, it won't scare us. Our basket-makers are thoroughly skilled men, accustomed to all varieties of reeds, willows and rattans. It will be a pleasure to serve you in this respect. We have made a number of elaborate Plant Stand, Vase, Plateau and other effects for prominent florists in the large centers. Don't overlook us the next time you need a special basket or kindred work.

America Gladiolus Bulbs

the privilege. The secretary may demand of the owner or consignee a bond that such seed, before offered for sale, will be cleaned to the standard of purity specified in the act or such standard as may subsequently be established by the secretary. Such bonded seed shall not be released until the screenings and other refuse shall have been disposed of in a manner prescribed by the secretary.

The bill prescribes that seed shall be adulterated if:

First. When seed of red clover contains more than three per cent by weight of seed of yellow trefoil or any other seed of similar appearance to and of lower market value than seed of red clover.

Second. When seed of alfalfa contains more than three per cent by weight of yellow trefoil, burr clover and sweet clover, singly or combined.

Third. When any kind or variety of the seeds or any mixture described in this act contains more than five per cent by weight of seed of another kind or variety of lower market value and of similar appearance. Provided, That the mixture of the seed of white and alsike clover, red and alsike clover, or alsike clover and timothy, shall not be deemed an adulteration.

Mr. Gronna's bill also provides that seed shall be considered unfit for seedling purposes, if:

First. When any kind or variety of clover or alfalfa seed contains more than one seed of dodder to five grams of clover or alfalfa seed, respectively.

Second. When any kind or variety of the seeds or any mixture described in this act contains more than three per cent by weight of seeds of weeds.

Third. When the percentage of germination of any of the seeds or mixtures described in the act is less than ninety.

"BLUE RIBBON" EASTER BASKETS

It should take precious little persuasion to get your order for some of these baskets. We have figured the prices down to about as low as we can make them. If we are sure of anything, it is that this is the best basket bargain opportunity that will be presented you for many a day. You will be missing a royal chance if you let it go by. Something is radically wrong if these baskets don't strike you right. They are our own manufacture, finished with extreme care, and represent basket-making at its best. We don't believe there are any Plant Baskets to touch them.

Our No. 76, for an 8-inch fern dish, is a close-woven reed basket with ivory willow handle. We offer it at 90c plain, $1.00 if colored. Our No. 53, nest of 4 baskets, we offer at $2.50 for the complete nest plain, $3.00 if colored. Baskets colored as specified. Nest consists of 4 baskets, for 6, 7, 8 and 9-inch pots, one of each size.

A GENERAL WORD ON BASKETS

If you have a special design in mind, why not send us a sketch and we will submit you a sample in a day or two? No matter how difficult the job, it won't scare us. Our basket-makers are thoroughly skilled men, accustomed to all varieties of reeds, willows and rattans. It will be a pleasure to serve you in this respect. We have made a number of elaborate Plant Stand, Vase, Plateau and other effects for prominent florists in the large centers. Don't overlook us the next time you need a special basket or kindred work.

America Gladiolus Bulbs

The great commercial Gladiolus. It will surely be the winner for seasons to come and is going to be more popular than ever. This is one of our bulb specialties—fine, healthy stock, large and solid.

First size per 100, $3.00; per 1000, $25.00

Stalita

The "something new" in prepared foliage. A novelty of surpassing worth. Will make a sure hit. Prove yourself a progressive florist by ordering a quantity. You need have no fear as to the results, and you will incidentally make money. A word to the wise is enough. Lavender, Purple, Green.

Per lb. $1.00

Green Carnation Dye

Because of its concentrated character, our Dye will go twice as far as any other make. You can rely on it being strictly fresh. None of it is held-over stuff.

Per pint $0.50

Per quart 1.00

33 1/3 per cent Special Discount.

Gold Letters

To meet certain "unfair" competition we are handling the Half Gold Letters, but are selling them at the Half Gold price and not at the price charged for Full Gold Letters.

Florists who use lots of letters will find these Half Gold letters entirely satisfactory, as they retain their finish and gloss for a fair period.

Only sold by the box in assortments of 500 and 1000.

Per 1000 No. 1, $4.50; No. 4, $3.50; No. 6, $2.50

Of course we carry Full Gold Letters and refer you to our Catalogue for prices.

Unless Half Gold Letters are stipulated we will supply the Full Gold.

the privilege. The secretary may demand of the owner or consignee a bond that such seed, before offered for sale, will be cleaned to the standard of purity specified in the act or such standard as may subsequently be established by the secretary. Such bonded seed shall not be released until the screenings and other refuse shall have been disposed of in a manner prescribed by the secretary.

The bill prescribes that seed shall be adulterated if:

First. When seed of red clover contains more than three per cent by weight of seed of yellow trefoil or any other seed of similar appearance to and of lower market value than seed of red clover.

Second. When seed of alfalfa contains more than three per cent by weight of yellow trefoil, burr clover and sweet clover, singly or combined.

Third. When any kind or variety of the seeds or any mixture described in this act contains more than five per cent by weight of seed of another kind or variety of lower market value and of similar appearance. Provided, That the mixture of the seed of white and alsike clover, red and alsike clover, or alsike clover and timothy, shall not be deemed an adulteration.

Mr. Gronna's bill also provides that seed shall be considered unfit for seeding purposes, if:

First. When any kind or variety of clover or alfalfa seed contains more than one seed of dodder to five grams of clover or alfalfa seed, respectively.

Second. When any kind or variety of the seeds or any mixture described in this act contains more than three per cent by weight of seeds of weeds.

Third. When the percentage of germination of any of the seeds or mixtures described in the act is less than ninety.

My Original SILVER PINK SNAPDRAGON

is a money-maker, being a grand variety indoors and out. Aside from a possible sport, it has never varied from the soft, silvery pink which is best in full sunshine, making it an ideal bedder. Plants like cut can be grown in three months, which, in 2½ or 3½-in. pots, will make double the money that geraniums or any other bedding plant will, from the fact that you can grow 16 plants to the square foot in 2½-in. pots and 9 plants in 3½-in. pots. Use pencil and figure profit at 75c to $1.50 per dozen. It requires 9 months for geraniums to do half so well, and a year of good growing for carnations and many other plants to equal it. Clean up a corner anywhere and fill with SILVER PINK. You can't keep it from growing.

Price of seed—my own growing—$1.00 per packet of over 500 seeds; 8 packets, $2.50, delivered. Can still supply plants for MEMORIAL DAY flowering at $4.00 per 100, $35.00 per 1000, by express. Cash must accompany all orders.

Step out of the rut and with little effort at small cost pick up some easy dollar, and a lot of new customers

There is but one SNAPDRAGON worth while—and that is

Buxton's Silver Pink

IT PRODUCES large spikes, 30 inches long. Requires no wires or stakes to hold it erect. Flowers freely and brings the top-notch price in the open market. Whether you are a wholesaler or retailer, you cannot go wrong by planting a bench of this excellent variety. See testimonials in earlier issues of The Review from leading growers and retailers that prove the merits of this sterling variety.

Anybody can do a part of anything, but only the complete is of actual value. The watch that lacks one cog may as well be a mass of metal in the ore. We do our part in a very difficult line by supplying a grade of lily bulbs to growers that is the best that man can produce and money can buy. The growers must do the rest. In supplying these lily bulbs every effort is used to please you all in the combination of price and quality—more than that no man can do in this business. If we could manufacture bulbs we would try to make them even better—then we might even guarantee them, but they are made by nature, whom no man can control, and it is for this reason that no guarantee of flowering results is given under any circumstances whatsoever. If you can find anybody on earth who pays more attention to lily bulbs than we do, with our connections; if you think anybody has any better bulbs; we advise you to buy from them—but don't buy from them as a price consideration, for price never yet sold an article of merit, and it never will. Horseshoe Brand Giganteum are the best commercial lily bulbs on the market today—for various reasons—and the order of every lily grower, no matter how large or small, is respectfully solicited. We need the co-operation and support of every lily grower in this country. Prices are reasonable—send for the price-list.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Coronado, Cal.—Earl Brown now is the proprietor of the Coronado Nursery, formerly operated by H. G. Newton.

Marysville, Cal.—The firm of Andrews & Alexander has gone out of business with no successor, the property having been sold for other uses.

Oakland, Cal.—K. Nakashima has taken out a building permit for a greenhouse on One Hundred and Fifth avenue, near Edes avenue.

Concrete, Wash.—F. H. Heskett is starting in the greenhouse business here. He is the son of E. H. Heskett, florist and nurseryman at Seattle.

Roseburg, Ore.—H. B. Church, who is one of the proprietors of the Church Bakery, also is a market gardener and is now building a greenhouse, with the expectation of adding two more before the arrival of another autumn.

Trinidad, Colo.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Trinidad Floral Co. the following directors were chosen for the ensuing year: Henry Klein, John Holler, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Drury and E. P. Conger. The business was reported to be in a flourishing condition and important improvements were proposed.

Alameda, Cal.—M. H. Dunn, superintendent of McKinley park, has had wonderful success with cinerarias this season. He has had a show at the Chamber of Commerce that has attracted much attention. And he thinks he picked up a hint in a recent issue of The Review that will enable him to make a hit with cyclamens next season.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

There is little that is new to say about the conditions here. There is still a scarcity of stock, but every week, or one might say every day, sees the strain slightly relieved. The indoor carnations have helped out wonderfully in decorations and the better class of funeral work, while the outdoor daffodils are now arriving in fair quantities. They are rather short in the stem as yet, showing that they were checked by the cold snap. Roses keep up well and violets are getting better every day. There is a great shortage here in forced bulbs, either in pots or cut, and anyone who had gone into this end of the business last season would surely have made a strike. Orchids are numerous and good, there being much more variety in them than formerly. A few azaleas and cyclamens are shown, but many more could be sold were they forthcoming. Good ferns are scarce, though there is plenty of small stock. Greens and artificially colored foliage still sell well.

Club Meeting.

One of the most successful and interesting meetings that the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society ever held was the usual monthly one, February 4, when Geo. M. Garland, of Des Plaines, Ill., gave the members a talk on greenhouse construction. The meeting was well attended, all the regular attendants and many others being present.

Mr. Garland prefaced his remarks by saying he had studied local conditions closely since he had been here and saw a great field ahead of the greenhouse business. He went back to the time when he was a boy and his father built one of the first greenhouses ever used for vegetable growing. The glass was 6x8. The heat was applied by means of brick flues heated by cordwood, which at that time was worth $1 per cord. Larger houses, heated by hot water, appeared in or about 1873. In 1880 he built the first range of ridge and furrow construction, with 8x10 glass, cedar posts and wood gutters. These, the lecturer remarked, were considered "some greenhouses" in those days.

The birth of the iron gutter was in 1900, when Mr. Garland and his brother got their heads together and made the first Garland gutter, a crude and unfinished article, but the forerunner of the excellent and serviceable gutter of today. Mr. Garland found it difficult to persuade builders to use it. They said wood and iron or glass and iron would not do. But with the arrival of the 27-foot house and the iron supports came the demand for the iron gutter, which has gone ahead by rapid stages since then. This matter settled, Mr. Garland went into the evolution of truss construction and made out a good case in favor of large houses with little obstruction to light.

Iron bases to prevent corrosion of the steel pipes, high gutters and other modern improvements were given attention and everyone listened with the deepest interest. Movable houses, frost protection and other points of down-to-date importance were touched on, and at the close a hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Garland on motion of H. R. Richards. C. C. The Freeman-Lewis Co. had an elegant dinner decoration recently, yellow daffodils and yellow satin ribbon being used, with a large silver epergne as a centerpiece.

W. Armecost & Co., of Ocean Park, are sending in splendid Killarney roses and also an elegant cut of Chatenay. Mr. Armecost has a fine lot of Easter lilies coming on, and many of them will doubtless be in on time, if not all of them.

Charles Navlet, of San Jose, was a visitor last week.

An orchid window was one of the most recent displays made by the Hayward Floral Co., and was both showy and choice. Among the varieties used, besides a large number of exquisite cattleyas, were fine spikes of Lælia superbiens—an old species that I had not seen for a long time—L. anceps, various dendrobiums, the beautiful Calanthe Veitchii and others. There is far more interest in a varied collection like this than in a group of cattleyas only, and I am glad to see our trade orchid growers taking up the culture of more varieties and species.

Over 200 orchids and 500 Asparagus plumosus strings were supplied for the Pasadena charity ball by the H. N. Gage Co.

P. J. Thorsted, of the Thorsted Floral Co., Oakland, was a recent visitor, looking up old friends, making new ones and incidentally selling some mighty fine carnations.

Albert Goldenson was laid up for over a week with grip and a lame foot. The latter is still giving him trouble.

C. T. Kipp, of the Spokane Florist Co., was a recent visitor.

Calling recently on James Taylor, gardener at the Homer Laughlin place at Hollywood, I found him and his staff busy removing the effects of the frost as far as possible. I did not see Mr. Sturtevant, whose place is nearly opposite, but I could see that he had lost many of the rare and beautiful plants he grows so well and knows so thoroughly. It looks as though there really was frost at Hollywood, as well as everywhere else.

Some comment has been made on the fact that almost all the eastern advertisers of Valentine's day novelties made their announcements too late to be of any service to the buyers at this long distance. Five days each way is the least that can be allowed for mails, which are often held up at this time of year by bad weather, and this makes Valentine's day specialties too late when advertised in an issue that

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

There is a decided change in both the quantity and the quality of almost all kinds of stock since last week. We have apparently recovered from the results of the short cold spell early in January, and since that time we have had enough warm weather to bring about conditions that are favorable to all plant growth. This is especially noticeable in roses, carnations and violets. As a consequence the prices have declined and are still dropping. Since the arrival of Lent and the cessation of much of the usual society doings, prognostications are for plenty of cheap stock for some time to come.

Bulbous stock is now in full swing, with the exception of the later sorts of tulips, daffodils and hyacinths. These have all been good sellers thus far this season and at fair prices. Violets have been cheap at all times since the season opened; the only possible complaint has been on the quality, which is governed entirely here by weather conditions. Funeral work is quite plentiful and is widely divided among the various retailers. Other lines of trade, which depend on society functions, are not brisk and will not improve much until after Easter.

Various Notes.

Alex. Mann, Jr., formerly of the Eddy Street Florists, has embarked as a wholesaler in florists' supplies and is located at Eddy and Fillmore streets.

Hugh McWilliams, of Sacramento, one of the best known retailers on the coast, is in town for a short visit.

A largely attended meeting of the Pacific Coast Floral Society was held on the evening of February 1. Plans were prepared for the coming spring exhibition, to be held in the Hotel Fairmount.

Lloyd L. Taylor, the nurseryman of Modesto, Cal., is in town for a few days.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Business is showing some improvement, with the better weather we have been experiencing lately. Bright sunshine helps the sale of flowers, as well as the quality of the cut blooms. Carnations are meeting a better demand and there is hardly any surplus, though the cut price signs are displayed in a few of the smaller places. Roses are scarce, but those on offer are of fair quality. Bulbous stock is plentiful, but selling well; fine tulips are having a good sale. Some first-class local violets are being cleaned up as soon as shown. Orchids are not plentiful, but are good and are moving quickly. Callas and longiflorums are about up to the demand. Green is, as usual, scarce. Ferns are being sold rapidly, the local stocks being pretty well depleted. Other pot plants are going slowly. The demand for azaleas does not seem to be so good as in former years. Lots of obconica are on hand, but they do not sell as well as they might. Cyclamens are pretty nearly over.

Various Notes.

J. J. Bonnell has an immense stock of ornamentals; at his stock grounds, on Interlaken boulevard. He has recently received large consignments from Japan and his imports from Europe are frequent. Business, so far

PORTLAND, ORE.The Market.

Conditions are quiet in business channels. The cold weather for the last week has put the damper on; also the beginning of the Lenten season. Flowers are scarce. Roses are slow in blooming, there being hardly enough to take care of the local demand. Carnations are short of the demand and also are slightly off in color. Violets and orchids are scarce. Cyclamens, genistas, azaleas and daffodils, while not overplentiful, have moved well. Green goods are scarce; the local supply has been almost exhausted.

The closing of the first term of the high schools created a demand for some stock, but not so much as in former years, as the school board recently barred all flowers at commencement exercises.

by the International Motor Co., is on exhibition at the Coliseum this week. It is certainly one of the handsomest cars in Chicago, being finished in a rich, dark green with gold lettering.

Henry Wittbold, with Mrs. Wittbold, left February 8 for a southern trip which will take them through most of the gulf states, Florida being the first one to be visited.

Mathew Evert, well known as a grower in the Rogers Park district, is critically ill. He is 82 years of age. His sons also are in the business.

A. T. Pyfer attended a meeting of the Milwaukee Florists' Club last week.

Harry C. Rowe, 17 East Monroe street, states that he has bought out his partner, assumed all liabilities, and made a settlement with the creditors that will permit the business to go on as before.

PRIDE OF PORTLAND

The most beautiful Rose-pink Petunia introduced so far. Large, single fringed flowers in greatest profusion. Most valuable for veranda boxes, baskets and flower beds. Has proved a huge success for the last three years in the city of Portland. Selected seed from hand pollinated flowers offered now for the first time at $1.00 per trade packet of 1000 seeds.

THE ELKS' PRIDE

The only true royal purple flower, blooming continuously the whole season; magnificent color, combines beautifully with light shades; worthy of a place in the finest gardens. Quantity of seed limited, 75c per trade packet of about 500 seeds.

INDIANA STATE FLORISTS.

long years of practice. Records of crosses have been kept for the last twenty-five years and through all this there has been developed a strain which is distinctly their own. You can tell the Dorner varieties almost anywhere you see them.

Naturally the notebooks were gotten out and notations were made of this and that promising variety of carnation, which we must not miss when the opportunity arrives for the procuring of stock. We made special note of the following sorts: Yellowstone and Yellow Prince, two yellows which are being disseminated this year, are among the finest ever sent out in this color; they are clear in color and free growers and bloomers. No. 111, which is to be named Champion, is slated for dissemination next year. It is a scarlet of great promise as a commercial variety. No. 138 is a large light pink of Gloriosa color; this will make a great showing on the exhibition table. No. 251-09 is a fine looking rose-pink. No. 148-09 is a large flesh-colored sort, resembling Pink Delight in color and Gloriosa in form. No. 34-09 is a fine, free flowering crimson. No. 150-10 has as fine a color as Afterglow. No. 189-10 is a fine deep cerise. No. 58-10 is deep flesh in color.

Carnation No. 271-10 took the eye of every visitor. Opinions differed on some of the other varieties named, but everybody agreed that here was one that could not fail to make good. In fact, some of us have had our eye on it for at least two years. A fine Gloriosa color; smooth, round petal; round form, good size—everything you could ask for seems to be incorporated in its make-up. No. 254-10 is a scarlet that will also take care of itself on the exhibition table. There is a whole bench of No. 31-08, which is a fine, deep pink or Persian red.

Among the first-year seedlings there are a number which look mighty good, but the Dorners do not say much about them until they get along in the third and fourth year.

There is a whole house, each, of White Wonder and Gloriosa, and half a house of Rosette, for blooms. All are looking fine. There is also a whole bed of No. 113-09, crimson.

At the old range there is house after house of cut-back stock for cuttings, in all the leading standard sorts. Two houses, 20x100, are kept filled with cuttings.

Here are also grown roses and a general line of plants for their local retail trade. And, say, some of you rose growers who are looking for that ideal red forcing rose, run up there and look over one of the finest things in that line you ever laid eyes on. For be it known that these people can not only hybridize carnations, but they have given us some good mums in years gone by and they are now turning their hand to crossing roses. Being a carnation man myself, and having always considered this place as one of the carnation strongholds, I could not help feeling a pang of jealousy at the thought that there might be a remote possibility of the rose ever displacing the carnation in supremacy here. If they get a few more such things as this red one, the carnation will surely have to give up a little of its space.

A short meeting was held. Four

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1912-1913: Pres., Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; Vice-Pres., J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-eighth annual meeting, Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

W. L. E. GREEN has sold his nursery business at Kearney, Neb., and is preparing to remove to Lincoln.

SENATOR SMITH February 5 introduced an amendment to the post-office appropriation bill to include nursery stock in the parcel post.

THEODORE GRISEA, Lawrence, Kans., is reported to have leased ten acres at his old home at Cohocton, N. Y., to start a branch nursery.

INVOICES in the usual commercial form may be enclosed in parcel post packages, under an order issued by the post-office department last week.

G. H. CRUZAN, proprietor of the Jacksonville Nursery Co., Jacksonville, Ill., February 1 received a shipment of 22,000 French seedlings which came in an ordinary freight car instead of in a refrigerator car as per shipping instructions. The entire shipment was a loss.

SILAS TOMS, who has been in the nursery business at Pasadena, Cal., for thirty years, has bought a tract at Fallbrook and will remove a part of his nursery there. Mrs. Toms has a reputation as a raiser of prize turkeys. She is said to have made a small fortune growing turkeys on the nursery at Altadena.

TESTING THE COLORADO LAW.

Determined that Colorado state officers shall not be permitted to exercise such wide discretion in condemning trees, the nurserymen of the country are backing W. C. Reed, of Vincennes, Ind., in his suit against F. L. Rounsevell for damages of $1,500 for the destruction of 10,000 trees and $5,000 exemplary damages. The case was put on trial February 1 in the United States district court at Denver.

The suit has been hanging fire for nearly two years because Mr. Reed was unable to push it. The American Association of Nurserymen, it is said, is putting up part of the funds to have a judicial determination of the rights of the state entomologist and other officers of counties to order trees destroyed.

TENNESSEE OFFICERS.

During the recent convention of the Tennessee Nurserymen's Association the following officers were elected:

President—Charles Pennington, of Rutherford.

small-sized stock of this ornamental spruce from one of the large evergreen specialists, rather than sow seeds yourself or attempt to propagate by grafting. Secure plants that measure from a few inches high upward. It would be well to secure some one and one-half and two feet high, as they will become salable earlier. There is a wide variation in the forms of Picea pungens. Some are almost green, others silvery and still others glaucous. The really blue color is what people want and the variety P. pungens Kosteri has the finest blue color. You would do well, therefore, to purchase this variety in preference to the ordinary pungens, which, if raised from seeds, will come variable in color.

Plant the young stock out in the nursery as soon as the ground opens up in the spring. Plant sufficiently far apart to permit horse cultivation. Be

The Market.

There has been more freezing weather in the last two weeks than in all the winter before, but it has been a welcome change. Our growers were much alarmed lest they were not going to be able to hold their Easter stock back. Everyone reports that the prospect is good for plenty of lilies for Easter, and there is promise of a full crop of roses.

At present there are fewer cut flowers than at any previous time this winter, and the week has been an unusually good one for business. There is a good supply of hyacinths in all colors, and cyclamens continue abundant. These plants sell well, as do the 8-inch pots of Golden Spur. Cinerarias are appearing in fair numbers and of excellent quality. The made-up pots and baskets that were so popular for Christmas are again selling well. We still see Gloire de Lorraine begonias used a great deal in these baskets, along with ferns and hyacinths.

Various Notes.

At the new store of McIntyre Bros. there was a fine display of pot plants last week. They say that business is good. They were selling a nice lot of Ficus pandurata, the first of this plant I have seen in this city.

Geny Bros. say business has been good, especially design work. They are cutting large quantities of extra good violets.

Haury & Sons are offering some of the neatest made-up baskets and pots that I remember ever having seen at any other than holiday times. There is always a demand for a limited number of these if they are well made up. They had a good line of fancy heart-shaped boxes for St. Valentine's day.

The Joy Floral Co. is receiving a great many out-of-town orders. I saw a full load of boxes on the road to the express office the other day. F. B.

Grand Junction, Colo.—Don C. Piatt, manager of the Grand Floral Co., has opened a downtown flower store in a part of Miller's confectionery establishment. He has a fine show window.

ENCHANTRESS SUPREME

THE best Sport of Enchantress up to date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguish its parent. Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching. A good all-round Carnation that retains its color at all seasons. Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. Has shown no inclination to be a burster. The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years' duration convinces us of its great value.

NEW CARNATIONS

Wm. Eccles The First Prize winner at Detroit last year in the Red or Scarlet class, and the Silver Medal winner of the New York Horticultural Society for the best undisseminated seedling. The Scarlet everyone was waiting for. Has a strong, rigid stem, a perfectly formed $3\frac{1}{2}$ -inch flower, non-bursting calyx, highly perfumed, a grand keeper and as free as any Scarlet to date.

Lady Northcliffe (Engelmann). A beautiful Salmon-pink in color, much resembling Pink Delight. Has a well built up flower and just enough in it not to burst the calyx. While the flower is not the largest (about 3 inches), it is fully as free as May Day and will surely make a grand bread-and-butter sort.

British Triumph (Engelmann). One of the finest things ever raised in England. The color is a striking shade of Crimson. The flower is $3\frac{1}{2}$ -inch in size and well built up. It has the sweetest perfume of any Carnation ever raised, and its keeping qualities are the best. Has a fine stem, good constitution and is free.

PRICES: $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000

Also Mrs. C. W. Ward and Enchantress. Fine rooted cuttings, ready to ship.

HARTFORD, CONN.

The Market.

The coldest day of the winter, to date, was February 3, when the temperature dropped to zero. Trade is holding up well. Funeral work has helped considerably to keep us hustling. There were also a number of decorations last week, so we have no reason to complain. Roses are about the only flowers that can be had in quantity and some fine stock of these is coming in. White Killarney is fine. Killarney is a little scarce, but Dark Pink Killarney and Killarney Queen can be had in quantity. Aaron Ward and Lady Hillingdon are in medium supply. Carnations just about meet the demand now, though the supply of them has been short nearly all the season. Violets are slow in coming; everybody in this vicinity seems to sell them at home. Sweet peas, tulips and daffodils are in short supply. A few lilies and primulas are to be seen.

Various Notes.

J. A. Brodrib has opened a stand in the automobile show, which is being held in the Armory. He is displaying potted stock.

John Coombs did a large decoration last week for the banquet of the Governors' Association, held in the rooms of the Hartford Club. Violets, palms and smilax were largely used.

W. R. Pierson was in Philadelphia last week and gave an address before the Florists' Club of that city.

E. Welch has a nice window display of potted plants, grown in his own

New Single Rose IRISH FIRE FLAME

A new departure in Roses for winter forcing. Irish Fire Flame is a single rose with only five petals, and is the most striking and the best single rose Messrs. Alex. Dickson & Sons have ever raised. It flowers profusely during the winter months, producing both single flowers and sprays of from three to five buds. The bud is an intense fiery crimson scarlet at the tip, shading at the base of petals to orange salmon; the open flower is a beautiful bright salmon. It is of strong, vigorous growth, with dark green foliage, reverse of leaf deep bronze.

We have tested this rose for two years and can confidently recommend it as a sterling novelty in roses. It has been awarded a Gold Medal by the National Rose Society of Great Britain and has taken several prizes for table decoration.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Market.

Cold, winter weather has held on steadily for the last week, improving the quality of stock to a marked degree. There has been plenty of sunshine, so that carnations, roses, bulbous stock and violets all show the effects of seasonable weather. Killarney, Ward, Taft and Richmond roses are all plentiful. Sweet peas and freesias are coming on the market in large quantities and are selling at a good price. Orchids have been in great demand for the last few weeks. Lily of the valley is in excellent condition and finds ready sale. Golden Spurs are arriving in larger quantities and are good. Fancy baskets of cut flowers are having a run just now and all sorts of combinations are being used. Everybody is looking forward to a big Valentine's day trade, for much publicity is being given to special valentine flowers.

Various Notes.

Meacham & Hassell had an attractive Valentine's window, with posters, fancy boxes, etc.

John M. Morse is again with Mark Aitken, on Main street.

Wm. Schlatter & Son are producing excellent daffodils, which find a ready sale.

N. H. Higgins has been unusually busy with funeral work the last two weeks.

Mark Aitken had an attractive decoration at the Hotel Worthy, February 7, for which baskets of spring flowers were used.

J. Alden Davis, of Forest park, has a plant that produced a bunch of about fifteen dozen bananas this year. Mr. Davis has been experimenting for some time with tropical fruits and has several citrus fruit trees in the greenhouse in the park. He expects that in the near future he will be able to show lemons, oranges, grape fruit, etc.

The Nesson-Atherton wedding, February 8, was a big affair. Mark Aitken did the decorating.

New American Beauty GERANIUM

We take great pleasure in introducing to our many customers for 1913 our new American Beauty Geranium. For the first time, after working on it for nearly three years, we are offering it for sale.

Our Claim for American Beauty Geranium is that it surpasses all other Geraniums in its real American Beauty Color. The individual blooms measure 2½ inches across. It is semi-double, medium dwarf, of stately shape. It has come to stay as a money maker. Prices to the trade: 2½-in. pots, 50c each, $5.00 per doz.; 3-in. pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per doz., cash. Write for circulars in natural colors and prices on large lots.

Thomas L. Metcalfe's handsome new building, part of which is intended for the free use of the public, was dedicated on Sunday afternoon, January 26, with an appropriate program of addresses and music, which were greatly enjoyed by the audience of nearly 1,000 people. The edifice is named the Avalon, the "Land of the Blessed," and is located at West Seventh and Liberty streets.

The audience filled every available space. Eight hundred chairs placed in the auditorium were soon occupied. The accommodations were increased by opening the folding doors of the club rooms, and the gallery on the east side of the main hall. The apartments were elaborately decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. Carnations were presented to each one entering the assembly hall.

T. C. Underwood, who was chairman of the exercises, on behalf of Mr. Metcalfe presented the use of the Avalon to the people of the community for the various beneficent purposes for which it was planned—a place to meet and mingle, to rest, to have recreation and pleasure. Mayor Meacham delivered the address of acceptance, in behalf of the people.

The structure is not yet completed. Except for a greenhouse that is to be built at the rear of the Liberty street side, it will be two stories in height. The outside walls are of cream pressed brick. A balcony extending the full width of the sidewalk will be built along the front. The front rooms are to be used as display rooms for the greenhouse products. The wide veranda, which runs alongside the assembly hall, looks directly down into these display rooms. Mr. Metcalfe's plans also include the building of a gymnasium, which will also be free to the public.

Westerly, R. I.—C. Schultz is having good success with Formosa lilies, which are now coming more regular in height, with a good average number of buds. He is sending some heavy cuts of carnations to the Quaker City.

Jamestown, N. D.—E. A. Williams is now the proprietor of the greenhouses and business of A. K. Wheeler, who has gone west. Mr. Williams and Mr. Wheeler formerly were in partnership, doing business as the Wheeler Floral Co.

The Market.

During the last week business has been good. Although the weather has been cold and the days cloudy, naturally causing the supply of cut flowers to slacken, this did not work any great hardship, as the various stores were fortunate enough to be able to get a fine variety of blooming plants, such as azaleas, Primula obconica and malacoides, jonquils, tulips, hyacinths and rhododendrons. These plants sold unusually well.

Various Notes.

The regular monthly meeting of the Kentucky Society of Florists was held at the residence of J. B. Stuessy, the newly elected president. An interesting paper, "The Advantages and Disadvantages of the Flower Business," by H. Kleinstarink, Jr., was read and discussed. Mr. Kleinstarink, being quite a young fellow, deserves great credit for the good sense displayed in the composition of this paper.

Anders Rasmussen, of New Albany, Ind., is sending some fine Killarney roses and some splendid carnations to the local market, and they find a ready sale.

It is to be regretted that at this season of the year so many of the stores hold 25-cent carnation sales. It is hard to believe that there are any advantages to be gained from such sales at this time of the year.

The prospects for a nice St. Valentine's day business are bright. With just a little more interest displayed on the part of the florists, this day certainly can be worked to make it one of the big flower days of the year.

S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia, is calling on the trade this week.

G. E. S.

Gorham, Me.—Roland Barrows has had excellent success since starting in business here a few years ago and is preparing to add another greenhouse, 35x100, as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Lord & Burnham Co. has the contract.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Herbert Haftenkamp has filed suit in the circuit court against Frank P. Goebel for money which he alleges is due him by reason of a contract which existed between the two at the time they were in the greenhouse business in Wabash, Ind. Mr. Haftenkamp alleges that during the five years of the partnership he furnished the money to run the business while Goebel kept the books.

MAKING GOOD AT EASTER

There is nothing better for florists to do, than to hurry to Aschmann's, for Easter is due; The plants he has will be just in their prime, he has grown them right to the tick of time. Like trumpets of alabaster made, his Lilies are quite the best in the trade; And flowering plants of every sort, that the public buy, of him can be bought. No better are seen the whole land o'er, Ferns, Tulips, Narcissus and Palms galore; While the Araucarias are nearly sublime, stately and green, with rich life they shine. Take no chances this year, make of the best: send orders to me and I'll C to the rest.

ARAUCARIA Excelas, our specialty, 5, 5½, 6-in. pots, 3, 4, 5, 6 tiers, 12, 15, 20, 25 to 30 inches high, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubes, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

NORTHERN GROWN ASTER SEED

A loud noise attracts considerable attention, at first, but soon becomes a nuisance. Our stock of asters is worthy of the noise but we don't want to become a nuisance. We do not claim our stock to be "the only good asters on earth," nor ourselves to be "the only growers," just good, clean, honestly grown stock of the varieties priced below, besides a long line of other good ones offered in our florists' list; free for the asking. We are glad to have large growers, or seedsmen, write for trials on any varieties. Quotations on larger quantities on application.

THE NEW PINK CARNATION.

NORTHPORT.

Color, cerise pink. This variety has been thoroughly tried out for the past five years and we offer it today with every confidence that it will ultimately take first place as the premier dark pink. The color is similar to Mrs. C. W. Ward without the objectionable streakiness and tendency to burst the calyx of the latter variety during the dark weather. The growth is wonderfully free and continuous and Northport will produce more flowers per plant than any other variety of its type. The calyx is practically non-bursting. Rooted cuttings, $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

We have for immediate delivery A1 rooted cuttings of Enchantress, White Enchantress and Beacon at $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000.

LOOK WHAT'S HERE!

A ROUND PAPER POT

Into which you can shift your small plants and save your clay pots.

And you can load one-third more into the same wagon, and your customers buy more, as they do not have to lug home heavy clay pots.

They have no bottoms, so your customers can plant them in the ground without taking out of the pots, and if they are not ready to plant when they get their plants home they will keep for a month in the paper pots. Prices per 1000, f. o. b. Baltimore, 3-inch, $1.65; 2½-inch, $1.50; 2-inch, $1.55. Prices per 1000, prepaid by Parcel Post east of the Mississippi, 3-inch, $2.30; 2½-inch, $2.00; 2-inch, $1.70 to our old customers. Prices of square paper pots, f. o. b. Baltimore, shipped flat, 4-inch, $1.50; 3-inch, $1.00; 2½-inch, 85c; 2-inch, 75c.

Mr. Carnation Grower: We need not tell you of the advantage of pot-grown carnations, and you know the cost and trouble of clay pots is often prohibitive of their use. Now you can use our 2½-inch dirt bands at 75c per 1000, prepaid by Parcel Post east of the Mississippi, $1.50, and your troubles are over.

WINTERING INCARVILLEAS.

What is the best winter treatment for Incarvillea Delavayi? Should the roots be lifted and stored in sand, and could they be started in a hotbed in spring? They seem to have a tendency to rot in our heavy soil. Any additional hints as to their culture will be greatly appreciated. The foregoing questions apply to conditions in New Hampshire. P. S. D.

This handsome, hardy herbaceous plant is not really hardy in northern New England, except in well drained, light, sandy soil, and then it must be well protected. The best plan is to lift the roots and store them in sand in a coldframe or cellar, such as will winter potatoes successfully, planting them outdoors as soon as the ground opens up in spring. You could start them, if you wished, in a gentle hotbed, but they succeed fully as well planted out in a dormant condition. While incarvilleas winter best in light, sandy soil, I find they grow and flower much better in a heavier and well manured soil. C. W.

Greenhouse Heating.REMODELING A HEATING SYSTEM.

Please have your heating expert advise us on the following point: We expect to remodel our heating plant in the coming summer and should like to get advice as to which is the best steam heating system—gravity, trap or vacuum. We have about 30,000 square feet of glass and we expect to put in another boiler, which, with the one we have in now, will give us enough boiler capacity for at least twice as much glass as we now have. We can use electric power to operate the pump.

T. W. C.

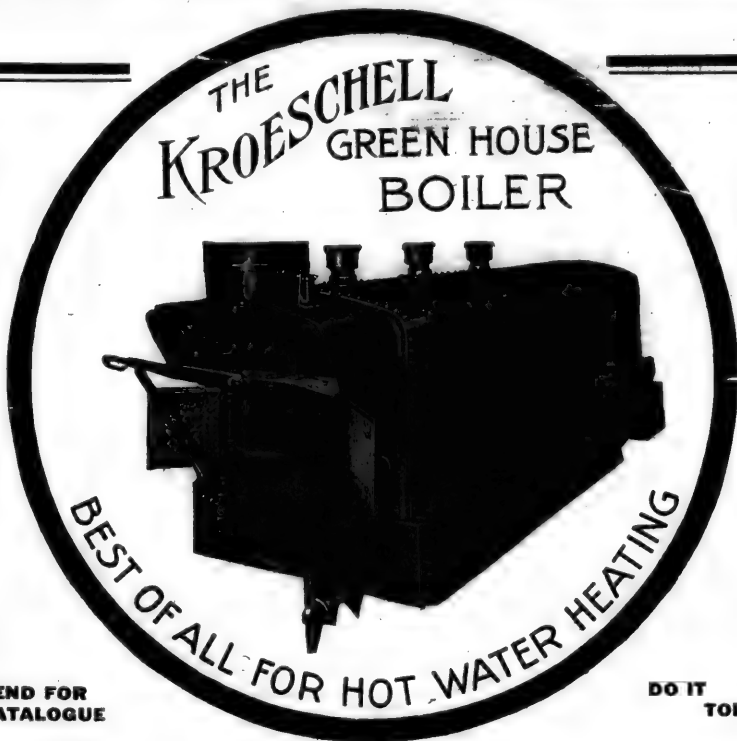

While a gravity system is the cheapest and simplest, provided the boiler can be readily located so that it will be three or four feet below the lowest part of the coils, and while the modern traps will give good satisfaction if a steam pressure of at least five pounds can be obtained, still it is probable that, for a plant like the one described, the use of an electric or steam pump for filling the boiler will be equally as satisfactory.

IN SOUTHEASTERN MICHIGAN.

I have just built a greenhouse, 20x60 feet, four and one-half feet high to the plate and twelve and one-half feet to the ridge. I want to heat it to 55 degrees at night, in zero weather. The sides are of double thickness, with building paper between. The material is grooved and tongued flooring. The west end is protected by the boiler house and the east end by a barn. I want to use the side benches for propagating and the center of the house for larger plants. I should like to run the flows on the plates, with the coils flat under the benches. The center bed will be solid; would it be well to run pipes on each side of this bed also? Please tell me what piping will be required for hot water and for steam, and state which would be the better.

Enclosed you will find a sketch of the boiler. Will it do the work? If I build another house, 9x60 feet and ten feet high, alongside the present house, will this boiler take care of both houses? The boiler will be in a pit, deep enough so that the top of the boiler will be level with the ground. Can you give me the address of the Northwestern Manufacturing Co., Chicago, the firm that made the boiler? J. M.

WHAT THE USERS SAY:CAST IRON BOILERS WASTE FUEL

Your new Kroeschell Boiler is heating 15,000 sq. ft. of glass, and it would take care of 5000 ft. more. We can maintain any temperature from 55 degrees to 70 degrees and have had no trouble to keep proper temperatures even in the coldest weather.

Your boiler has given entire satisfaction, and we use gas for fuel. We are more than pleased especially with your piping plan, which, in our opinion is perfect. We have almost 40,000 sq. ft. of glass and use three (3) boilers.

We can heat the 15,000 ft. connected to the KROESCHELL boiler with 25% less gas than used with either of the CAST IRON boilers, and with a great deal more satisfaction. We shall be glad to have any prospective customer inspect our new range.

Yours very truly, houses of this size, as it requires less attention, but if steam is used the house can be heated by using one 2-inch flow pipe, carried under the ridge, and five 1¼-inch returns under each of the side benches.

The sketch of the boiler shows a grate thirty-five inches in diameter and thirty-four 2¼-inch vertical tubes, thirty inches long. It is probably large enough to heat both of the houses described. The name "Northwestern Manufacturing Co." does not appear in the Chicago telephone directory.

A MICHIGAN VEGETABLE HOUSE.

I expect to build a house for use in starting early vegetable plants. It will be 14x50 feet, with 10-foot center posts. The walls will be six feet high to the eaves, with thirty-two inches of glass in the sides and glass in each end.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

The first week in Lent caused a big drop in local conditions, both in demand and prices, with the exception of roses. In the latter respect the continuance of good demand has been noticeable and prices remain firm for good stock. Carnations now wholesale for 1½ cents to 2 cents, with daffodils the same. Violets bring $3 to $5 per thousand. Funeral work continues active.

Various Notes.

Albert Holscher is cutting the first sweet peas in this section, which are fine in quality.

W. Baker, for many years with F. Macrae & Sons, is now at the greenhouses of Joseph Kopelman, Oaklawn.

J. A. Budlong & Sons Co. is cutting immense quantities of fine roses and asparagus, with large shipments to the Boston market.

Charles Hunt has been busy on funeral work. He had over twenty pieces one day last week.

Thomas Kennedy has removed his retail store to the King building, on Main street, Pascoag. He reports good trade.

Walter Mott was in this city last week, representing Hammond's Slug Shot Works, Fishkill, N. Y.

E. D. Tucker, of Saylesville, reports an unusually busy winter on funeral orders.

D. E. Newell, a retired florist of Attleboro, is now at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he is spending the winter with his wife.

Louis J. Reuter, of Westerly, attended the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut Masons, at New Haven February 5.

Frederick B. Luther and John G. Jansen have been drawn for jury duty.

Drabble Bros., Simon Colitz and H. Vose had fine displays of choice flowers at the arts and crafts exhibit at Woonsocket last week.

Frank C. Halliday, of Halliday Bros., East Providence, who was seriously burned during the recent fire that destroyed the firm's barn, is slowly regaining his health.

Present indications are that there will be a large representation from this city and vicinity at the National Flower Show in New York in April.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Meetings of State Association.

The State Florists' Association held its regular meeting at La Fayette on Tuesday, February 4. The florists have been visiting different towns each month, which is a most satisfactory arrangement, as is shown by the well attended meetings. The Dorners, at La Fayette, did themselves proud and the visitors reported a fine time.

The next meeting, which was scheduled for Stuart & Haugh's, of Anderson, will be held, instead, at W. J. & M. S. Vesey's, Fort Wayne. Stuart & Haugh found it necessary to withdraw their invitation for March 4; hence the change.

The April meeting will be held with O. L. Frank, of Portland, Ind. This will be a joint meeting of the Northern Indiana Florists' Association and the State Florists' Association, with the view of trying to consolidate the two. A. F. J. Baur and G. R. Gause were appointed as a committee to report at the April meeting, to bring up the subject of consolidation. This should by all means be accomplished, as the two working in unison can be far more effective than either working alone. It is every florist's duty to work with that end in view, in order that the Florists' Association of Indiana may do something for the good of the cause, as other trade associations are doing.

Various Notes.

The weather has been cold for the last week and in consequence roses have been extremely scarce. White bulb stock and carnations are getting more plentiful.

Baur & Steinkamp are cutting plenty of fine carnations and freesias and are busy shipping carnation cuttings and geranium stock.

Sweet peas have been scarce. Albert J. Pittet is the only grower who is cutting them to amount to anything. His new variety is fine and is doing well, considering the weather. It seems to hold its buds better than the common varieties.

George Wiegand has returned from a month's sojourn in the sunny south. He reports the climate delightful, with the temperature at 90 degrees in the shade and the sun always shining. Homer Wiegand has departed for a month at the same place and will return about March 5 or 6.

C. B. Knickman, of McHutchison & Co., and Martin Reukauf, of Bayersdorfer & Co., were calling on the trade during the week.

The Bertermann Bros. Co. and the Hill-Heller Co., as well as the rest of the downtown stores, report business as steady. C. R. G.

Plevna, Mont.—A. K. Wheeler, formerly in the trade at Jamestown, N. D., is growing stock on the Heartbar-three ranch. He came to this country for the benefit of his health.

The Market.

The commencement of Lent has apparently had little effect on business, which remains good. Stock of every description is more plentiful and of best quality. Carnations are now arriving in large numbers and many are really splendid blooms. Sweet peas are also fine and sell readily. Bulbous stock is becoming more plentiful as the season advances.

Various Notes.

"Tut" Flowerday is rapidly regaining his former good health and will soon be strong enough to walk the floor with the baby girl who arrived at his home recently.

Robert Rahaley and Albert Pochelon left for Cleveland February 10, to remain several days.

E. A. Fetters and wife spent several days in Cleveland the first part of the month.

The Bomb Floral Co. recently attracted much attention to its store with a clever window display, the principal feature of which was a large steamer rocking to and fro on a fine imitation of the ocean made of silk.

So popular has the new seedling carnation, Philadelphia, become with local flower buyers that all incoming blooms are contracted for in advance of their arrival.

At the last meeting of the Florists' Club a committee was appointed to take up the matter of obtaining fair legislation at this session in regard to two bills presented at Lansing pertaining to greenhouse firemen. A prominent attorney has been engaged to represent the florists.

H. S.

Jewett City, Conn.—A. A. Young is having good success with winter-flowering varieties of sweet peas, between the rows of which are grown catch crops of Early Scarlet radishes and Grand Rapids lettuce. His carnations are fine.

North Tonawanda, N. Y.—The Parkes Construction Co. was organized here February 5 for the purpose of manufacturing greenhouse equipment. The company will locate a plant here shortly. Fred L. The Market.

With over a week of cloudy weather in this vicinity, the price of stock in general has advanced a little. Roses are about as scarce as they have been at any time; the comparatively small lots that have been arriving are quickly disposed of at good prices and not enough can be had to supply the orders. Beauties have commenced to arrive again; there were a few on the market last week. Carnations have increased in price a trifle and the demand is taking about all that are to be had in this market. The carnations are improving in color and size. Bulb stock is coming in more freely. Violets have been arriving in greater quantity. Cut lilies are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Henry Kusik & Co. report business as first-class and they cannot get enough roses to supply the demand.

The Alpha Floral Co. had a good run on large pieces of funeral work last week.

E. H. Frandsen, of Independence, Mo., had such a heavy run of Christmas business and made so much money that he bought two acres and a 10-room house adjoining the greenhouse property on the south.

Biedermann & Son received by express from the east a shipment of hydrangeas which were frozen hard.

E. D. Ellsworth has a fine lot of rhododendrons in bloom. His lilies also are excellent and he has a large lot of them.

R. S. Brown is back at work, but is able to remain on duty only for half of each day. He is busy getting ready his spring stock.

Among recent visitors were Wm. M. Reid, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago; A. Zirkman, of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, and J. J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia.

W. J. B.

Grundy Center, Ia.—C. W. Wilhelm is going out of the flower and gardening business and will be away from home most of the coming season.

FACTS ABOUT OUR CEDAR.

Our cedar is all air-dried.

Air-dried cedar weighs less than air-dried cypress.

Cedar does not absorb moisture like cypress; therefore when exposed it does not shrink, expand and warp as cypress. We consider it the better lumber for sash, hotbed sash, doors and gutters.

Cedar is not surpassed in durability by cypress or any other lumber available for greenhouse construction.

The best grade of cedar is not cheaper than the best grade of cypress. We are using the best grades of both.

We can support our above statements by the testimonials of many growers who have been using both and know by actual experience.

Get Interested, Mr. Florist; This Is For You

If you contemplate painting your houses this year it will be well for you to investigate the merits of which I use exclusively in the erection of the large ranges of glass that I erect on private estates and public parks throughout the country. I have increased my plant to take care of the demands made upon me for this paint by florists in all parts of the country. The LUTTON reputation for high-class material is back of this product. Send for a sample free of cost, and then you will send your order. We also furnish materials for the complete erection of modern Iron Frame Greenhouses. Some of the largest growers in the country will testify to this fact.

Double-Glass Double Profits

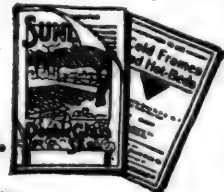

The old single layer hot-bed sash are far better than none; but they must be covered with mats, boards or shutters every evening and uncovered every morning. They are wasteful.

The new SUNLIGHT DOUBLE GLASS SASH, with two layers of glass enclosing an air space, are COMPLETE IN THEMSELVES. They eliminate all extra covers; they wipe out half the labor cost; they admit all the light by day to store warmth in the bed and then save the warmth at night.

They make plants earlier and stronger. They double final profits.

Every practical gardener or florist will see the value of this.

And it is good business for you to get our free catalog for full information. Write your address plainly and send it today; the hot-bed season is not far off. Prof. Massey's booklet on Hot-beds and Cold Frames sent for 4c in stamps.

CURVED IRON EAVE Style "S"

This eave is intended for use on detached houses with either fixed glass or side sash.

It is practically all exposed to the inside heat of the greenhouse and so is ice clearing.

KING GREENHOUSE EAVES

THEY SOLVE THE EAVE PROBLEM

THEY MAKE THE LEAST POSSIBLE SHADE and as you can see

PRESENT NO SURFACE FOR ICICLES TO FORM ON

THEY HAVE GREAT STRENGTH WITH LIGHTNESS

THEY ARE DESIGNED AND MADE FOR THE PURPOSE AND NOT ADAPTED FROM STOCK STRUCTURAL SHAPES.

CURVED IRON EAVE Style "L"

This eave although lighter than style "S" is amply strong for all eave purposes.

It obstructs little light and is ice clearing in the most severe weather. It is intended for use with fixed glass only.

Questions and Answers No. 3

Q. I hear a great deal about smoothly machined woodwork. Why is it necessary to have it so smooth?

A. Smooth machine work on greenhouse material is of the utmost importance. It requires less paint for smooth lumber than it does for rough, and you can do a better job. The surface will resist moisture better when it is smooth. The drip grooves in the bars carry condensation better. Smooth lumber can be cut and fitted more accurately. It is nicer to handle. It makes a better appearance. It lasts longer because better painted and protected. Surface collects less dirt and smudge.

Q. Does it cost more to get out smooth cypress?

A. Yes.

Q. Why?

A. Machines must be run at slower speed, thus cutting down the number of feet of an article that can be produced in a given time. Every piece of lumber must be carefully looked over to detect cross grain or stuff that will flake in the machines. This takes time. Often when the grain is bad, lumber must be thrown aside and used for something where there is little or no machine work needed.

Q. Is your cypress woodwork smooth?

A. It is smooth and perfectly machined in every way. It is the easiest woodwork to paint that you ever saw. You ought to try this perfect product.

4-inch pots, strong plants.....$3 each
5-inch and 5 1/2-inch pots, strong plants.....$5 each, $50 a doz., $300 per 100

DRACAENA LORD WOLSELEY.

One of the very best varieties, being bright red in color.

2-inch pots.....$12 per 100
3-inch pots, heavy.....$25 per 100
4-inch pots, heavy.....$35 per 100
5-inch pots, heavy.....$50 per 100

DRACAENA TERMINALIS.

Exceptionally well colored.

For immediate or future delivery.

2 1/4-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
3-inch pots.....$20 per 100
4-inch pots, strong plants.....$30 and $35 per 100

DRACAENA DESMETIANA.

This is one of the most desirable of the broad leaf varieties, a strong vigorous grower, with bold, dark green foliage which becomes beautifully suffused and variegated.

7-inch and 8-inch pots.....$2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50 each

DRACAENA BRONZE BEAUTY.

This variety was offered three years ago with Dracaena Mandalana by the introducer, Wm. A. Mandala, and is the strongest growing Dracaena we have. Although not as highly colored as Dracaena Desmetiana, we have found it wonderfully durable as a house plant. We offer splendid specimens.

8-inch, 9-inch and 10-inch pots.....$3, $3.50, $5 and $6 each

PHOENIX ROEBELENI.

This is unquestionably one of the great palms of the future, combining the grace of a Cocos Weddelliana with the hardness of a Kentia. It will prove an invaluable plant for the house. Our stock in the following sizes is unusually fine.

6-inch pots.....$1.25 and $1.50 each
10-inch and 12-inch tubs, specimen plants.....$5, $6, $7.50, $10, $12.50, $15 and $20 each

PANDANUS VEITCHII.

Well colored plants.

5-inch pots.....$9 per doz.; $70 per 100
6-inch pots.....$12 per doz.; $90 per 100
7-inch pots.....$15 and $18 per doz.
8-inch pots.....$24 and $30 per doz.
Large specimen plants, fine for decorating.....$3.50, $4 and $5 each

ARECA LUTESCENS.

Perfect plants with rich, dark green foliage. Our stock is in splendid condition.

6-inch pots, 3 plants, 24 inches to 28 inches tall.....$9 and $12 per doz.
8-inch pots, 3 plants, 36 inches to 42 inches tall.....$24 and $30 per doz.

FICUS PANDURATA.

The plant of the century. Positively the best house and porch plant to date. Our stock of this wonderful plant this year is finer than we have heretofore offered, and we can surely give you satisfaction.

6-inch pots, 2 1/2 feet tall.....$2 each
7-inch pots, 3 feet tall.....$2.50 each
8-inch pots, 4 feet tall.....$3 each
10-inch and 11-inch tubs, 5 feet to 10 feet tall.....$4, $5, $6 and $7.50 each

FICUS CHAUVIERI.

This is an old variety, taken up again by us. We believe we have the only stock of this variety in the country. It is in a class with the old Elastica, being very hardy and doing equally well for both inside and outside decoration. This plant has already given great satisfaction.

6-inch pots, 18 inches high.....$12 per doz.
Large plants.....$1.50, $2 and $2.50 each

KENTIAS.

Strong stock for growing on.

3-inch pots, Belmontiana and Forsteriana.....$12 per 100, $110 per 1000

NEPHROLEPIS IN VARIETY.

We are now the largest growers of Nephrolepis Ferns in the country, in the following varieties; in fact, we are headquarters for them. The demand increases each year and it is our aim to have

EVERY VARIETY IN NEPHROLEPIS
EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR.

Excellent values in all sizes. Our entire stock, in all sizes, are all pot grown plants.

NEPHROLEPIS SCHOLZELI.

This is an ideal crested fern, holding the same relation to all other crested varieties that the Neph. Scottii holds to the old Boston.

2 1/4-inch pots.....$6 per 100, $50 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$20 per 100
8-inch pans, heavy.....$12 and $15 per doz.
10-inch pans, heavy.....$18 and $24 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS ELEGANTISSIMA IMPROVED.

This variety is a greatly improved Elegantesima and shows no tendency to revert to the old Boston. This will prove a valuable addition to the crested varieties.

2 1/4-inch pots.....$6 per 100; $50 per 1000
4-inch pots, strong plants.....$20 per 100
6-inch pots, strong plants.....$40 and $50 per doz.

8-inch pots.....$12 per doz.
11-inch buckets.....$2.50, $3, $3.50, $4 and $5 each

NEPHROLEPIS WM. K. HARRIS.

A type of Boston more dwarf than Harrisii, but with the same wavy appearance of the fronds. An ideal variety in all sizes.

2 1/4-inch pots.....$8 per 100; $75 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$20 per 100
6-inch pots.....$40 per doz.; $45 per 100
8-inch pots.....$12 per doz.; $90 per 100
11-inch tubs.....$2.50, $3 and $4 each

NEPHROLEPIS GIATRASIL.

Sport of Nephrolepis Bostoniensis. This variety is beautiful in a small plant and will prove a valuable addition as a small fern for pans, etc.

6-inch pots, heavy.....$8 and $9 per doz.
8-inch pots, heavy.....$12 and $15 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS SMITHII

This variety is a greatly improved Amerpohilli, dwarfed in habit, the fronds being much finer, and do not have any tendency to spoil in the center of the plant. It is the finest of all Nephrolepis for Christmas baskets and has given entire satisfaction.

2 1/4-inch pots.....$15 per 100; $120 per 1000
3-inch pots.....$25 per 100

ADIANTUM HYBRIDUM

The best variety for either pot plants or for cut fronds.

MAKING ANOTHER SPECIAL FLOWER DAY

How the Florists of Columbus, Ohio, boosted their St. Valentine's day sales by acting on suggestions in the St. Valentine's day Special Number of The Review.

THE issue of The Review for January 30 was prepared as a special St. Valentine's day number, as it said, "to get 10,000 florists each to do at least a little something to attract the attention of the public to the appropriateness of flowers for use as valentines."

As early as the issue of February 13 it was seen, from news-letters and correspondence, that the idea had been taken up generally by the trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific and that, as a result of the suggestions in The Review, the public was to be awakened to one more of the uses of flowers as "messengers of sentiment." How thoroughly it worked to advantage of the trade is apparent in today's issue.

In the majority of cases the exploitation of St. Valentine's day was undertaken as a purely individual proposition—each retailer did what occurred to him as best for his own business. Some did no more than decorate the show window. Others sent out mailing cards, printed according to personal ideas of what was fitting. Others wrote letters to customers. Others used display advertisements in their local papers. But the best results, apparently, were obtained where cooperative publicity was tried, in charge of a committee or in the hands of some progressive individual who was sufficiently enthused to get the florists of his town together.

All through this issue of The Review, in practically every news-letter, there are references to the publicity work that was done, and to its success—it never failed—but at probably no other place was it taken up in such business-like fashion, or with such good results, as at Columbus, O. What was done there, and how it turned out, is the subject of this article.

Let T. J. Ludwig, manager of the cut flower department of the Livingston Seed Co., tell how it started: "After reading the St. Valentine's Number of The Review," says Mr. Ludwig, "it seemed time for me to get busy, so I called on all the florists I could conveniently reach, got them together and to go in on a general advertisement in three of our daily papers. In all $132 was contributed to the fund, by twenty-one florists. This paid for one insertion of a good sized space in each of three papers. In addition, the Ohio State Journal took the matter up and got ten of the florists to go in together on a full page printed in two colors, which, I understand, cost $200."

Two of the evening papers of February 13 carried the cooperative advertisement and the State Journal had it on the morning of St. Valentine's day, in the same issue with the full page in two colors. The lay-out, copy and cuts were all different, worked out by the newspapers collaborating with the 14, it crowded all the sales into one day. But business started off big that morning and by night the florists of Columbus had a trade that was "like another Christmas," as the Columbus correspondent puts it, on another page. He says the trade was "something wonderful; a regular clean-up."

It was so good that J. R. Henthall wrote The Review, the source of their inspiration, on the evening of St. Valentine's day: "Our St. Valentine's day was the best ever known; more baskets filled and used than anything else; you certainly did the trade a service."

In some cases the sales for the day actually doubled as compared with last year, in spite of the fact that last year St. Valentine's day did not fall in Lent, which no doubt was more or less of a handicap this time. This is the way the Fifth Avenue Floral Co. tells it:

"The cooperative advertising in the newspapers before St. Valentine's day from all appearances did great work, as our business was about doubled this season compared to last season. Whether it was all due to the advertising or not we are not able to say, but the probability is that the publicity inspired us all to greater efforts in all directions. We had an outlay of only $10 as our contribution to the fund and if that did all the work it certainly would pay to try it again for other special flower days; indeed, we are much in favor of trying it again."

The newspapers were willing to back the florists up by publishing articles on the use of flowers as valentines, so that the trade really received considerably more publicity than it paid for. "The idea was carried through to a glorious finish," says H. N. Munk, president of the Munk Floral Co. "The grouping together of all our ads made a most impressive sight, and it was not much trouble to get the newspapers to give us many complimentary news articles on the old and beautiful custom of giving flowers as best expressing the love, affection and sentiments of the day, and other articles telling how plentifully supplied the flower shops were, how beautiful the displays, and how reasonable the prices. These free articles were productive of wonderful results. Not only the ads were attractive, but the news articles well placed and well written. Also, the fact of all these combined forces seemed to have given each of us a new inspiration, and seldom have more beautiful bouquets, designs, corsages, etc., been conceived and executed. The sales were far and away greater than any other year in my recollection and almost every member of the combined florists unites in saying that it was the greatest single effort for a general good that we have ever attempted.

"It will require no effort to again get all of us together for Easter; in fact, preparations are already under way and this time we will use a page. And the papers have assured us that they will lend their hearty support. We have tried the combined advertising and know absolutely that it pays."

Underwood Bros. are not ready to give all the credit for the increase in business, which in their case was a gain of twenty-five per cent, to the cooperative advertising; they feel that there would have been a natural increase anyway, in spite of St. Valentine's day coming in Lent this year. But they say, "No doubt it does good." On the other hand, S. F. Stephens is delighted. He says: "We are all enthusiastic over the way our St. Valentine's day effort worked out; the business showed a wonderful increase and I predict that at our meeting this week we shall decide to continue this plan." Mr. Stephens' part of the two-color page, by the way, was illustrated, as were several of the others, with cuts reproduced from the St. Valentine's Number of The Review, accepting the invitation to "Help yourselves, gentlemen; The Review is published for the purpose of being of assistance to the trade."

T. J. Ludwig, of the Livingston Seed Co., who was the prime mover in the work, says: "I made a personal call on several of the leading florists Saturday and Monday following St. Valentine's day, to learn the results of combined advertising, and it would have done you good to see the happy smile on the face of every florist. Everyone stated he had an immense business and that he was highly pleased with the advertising scheme.

"As near as I can learn, the business was twenty to thirty per cent greater than for St. Valentine's day a year ago. Most of the florists laid in an extra supply of stock and before the day was over had to hustle out and buy more. There was a demand for all kinds of flowers. Violets and sweet peas were favorites. There was a good call for potted plants, and nearly all had a good stock of plants.

"We intend to have a meeting of the florists this week to determine whether we shall continue this style of advertising. Personally, I think this plan will solve the problem of publicity, as every florist who contributed to this fund is anxious to form some sort of an advertising retail florists' association and to spend more money for all holidays. As to the possibility of using this style of advertising for every day, I am not in position to say just how this would work, but I can see no harm in giving it a trial. It is simply up to the florists to keep their goods before the public, and I fully believe this would be an excellent plan to advertise flowers when there is a heavy glut on the markets.

"We must take into consideration that fifty to seventy-five per cent of the flower buying public never see what the florist has on display in his store or greenhouses; therefore it seems necessary that we bring our goods before them, so I believe in getting together and giving this plan a good trial, say from now until July 1, and my prediction is that this plan, once tried, will result in a permanent thing.

"To give you another line on how well it works, a few days before McKinley day an officer of the Salvation Army came to me soliciting carnations to be sold on the streets for their benefit, to raise money to pay a debt. We donated 500 split carnations and the other florists did something similar. The Salvation Army got the newspapers to take up the matter and they responded with a generous write-up, with a cut of McKinley and a carnation flower. The result was, the Salvation Army sold over $500 worth of carnations on the street, and after donations ran out they bought from the different florists. And the most surprising thing happened! All the downtown florists were busy selling carnations at good retail prices. It showed that the write-up in the newspapers did the work, and the thought occurred to me: If such interest in flowers could be worked up on a day that had practically been forgotten, by a little publicity, why not get together and get up a good organization and push the retail flower business for a day that already had the advantage of general observance, as pointed out in the St. Valentine's Day Number of The Review? So I called up several florists and asked them to meet together, and the result was great. We started the subscription February 10 and had the money raised February 11, so you see we did some hustling. Some of the florists did not understand fully what we were doing, but we feel they will all be with us next time."

ANNIVERSARY FLOWERS.

It has become a custom to send flowers to the cemetery on the anniversaries which were celebrated during the lifetime of the deceased, including birthdays, and the accompanying illustration is of interest as showing how occasionally an elaborate display of designs is made, similar to what is seen at a funeral. The illustration is reproduced from a photograph made at Maple Grove cemetery, Brookville, Ind. The occasion was the fifty-eighth birthday anniversary of the wife of the sexton. William Rockwell has been sexton in the cemetery since its beginning. He dug the first grave there thirty years ago and has buried 1,087 corpses. The designs shown in the illustration were made by M. Weber & Co., who are well known florists in the town. Mr. Rockwell is in the picture.

VIOLET BUNCH VS. BUNNY HUG.

Readers of The Review evidently think the following story interesting; it appears to have been Associated Press matter sent out from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., February 12, as it has been sent to The Review from all parts of the country:

"The turkey trot, the bunny hug and kindred dances have ruined the violet industry in the Hudson river valley, according to Gottlieb T. Barnett, one of the most extensive producers of the modest flower at Rhinebeck, the center of the greenhouse district.

"So serious has become the situation for the violet growers that several of them have discontinued the business, out of which in years past they had built up comfortable fortunes, but which they now say no longer yields any profit.

"You can't make violets up into bouquets to carry," declared Barnett, today. "And you certainly can't dance those new steps with a bunch of violets at your waist and keep the flowers. In a few minutes the blossoms have been torn off. Persons dance too close together for the modest violet.

"What they now need is a bouquet for the arm. The old dances, such as the waltz and two-step, were not rough on the flowers, but with the introduction of the Boston last year we growers began to feel the difference and the decrease in our business this year has been enormous."

DIFFICULTIES OF DELIVERY.

According to Ifwin Bertermann, president of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, Rocklin & Lehman, Sioux City, Ia.,

Grave Decoration to Commemorate a Birthday Anniversary.

had the following experience through which other florists may benefit: Early in December they sent an order to Dobbie & Co., Edinburgh, Scotland, stating that they wished to have flowers sent to a certain patron in time for Christmas. The letter-head of Dobbie & Co. is styled as follows: "The Seedsmen and Florists," but some time later Rocklin & Lehman received the following letter:

Gentlemen—We duly received your letter with inclosure. We are sorry that we do not grow cut flowers for sale, and have none to supply at the present time. We have sent the letter to Mrs. ——— and advised her accordingly. Regretting we are unable to be of service to you on this occasion, we are, yours faithfully, Dobbie & Co.

Investigation by the Florists' Telegraph Delivery revealed the fact that it is a common thing for foreign firms to style themselves florists, even though they only grow a few garden flowers in season. It is well for American firms to be sure that the European concern is prepared to furnish flowers at this season of the year.

Mr. Bertermann adds: "Chas. H. Dards, of New York, has volunteered to advertise the Florists' Telegraph Delivery in the International Flower Show program. A. Pochelon, secretary, thought highly of the results which might be obtained and is more than pleased with the enterprising spirit shown by Mr. Dards, who is generally found to be a leader in such matters.

"The instructive paper recently read by Wallace Pierson is certainly interesting reading for members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery. There is much in it which ought to be profitably adopted by an organization of retailers for the general furtherance of the flower business. The paper is ahead of the times in thought and gives the many retailers an inspiration for making greater strides in the future."

most successful growers use either boxes or large pots. These are usually stood on beds so that they can root through. Where this is done, it is not so necessary to feed liberally as when they are stood on a hard bottom. Marguerites can scarcely be overwatered and few plants will take more stimulants.

There is still time, before all the growths run to flower, to take a liberal batch of cuttings of both the yellow and white varieties and place them in sand. These will make nice, salable stock for late spring, and any left-overs, if planted outside, lifted before frost comes, potted and placed in a cool house, will give a good lot of flowers in midwinter. Do not leave cuttings too long in the propagating bench. See that any batches which have been potted off are not allowed to become potbound. Marguerites make useful Easter plants—I refer, of course, to the white ones, as the yellows do not make as shapely plants—and such as are now starting to open a few flowers will be right for Easter if kept in a sunny house held at 45 to 50 degrees at night.

Gladioli.

For Memorial day flowering, gladioli should now be planted in benches. Of course, so much depends on climatic conditions that it is not easy to hit the date just right with this crop. Again, the bulbs do not all flower at one time, which is, generally speaking, an advantage. The market for gladiolus spikes is usually good in April and May, and fairly good in June, and there is not much likelihood of spikes being wasted even though a good many of them flower before and after Memorial day. Brenchleyensis is a cheap gladiolus which pays well if it can be timed for Memorial day, but at other times it is slow to move. America always sells well, as does Augusta. Other sorts, such as May, Mrs. Francis King and Shakespeare, are popular, but America and Augusta are still the two commercial leaders.

Candytuft.

Candytuft is a profitable Memorial day crop when well grown. The seed should be sown now in flats. Cover the seed lightly and place in a temperature of 50 to 52 degrees at night. Keep the little plants, when they appear, close to the glass to keep them sturdy. If bench space is vacant, the seed can be sown in rows a foot apart and thinned before they become at all crowded. Candytuft requires a light but rich soil and wants a cool house, 45 degrees at night being sufficient. Purchase the best giant white, pyramidal strain. It will not pay to use any of the more common types.

Asters.

Though it is yet somewhat early to sow aster seed to produce plants to go outdoors, you may wish to try a bench of them in a cool greenhouse, and it is certainly true that, when rightly handled, these prove profitable to the country florist who needs flowers at all times for design work, and when carnations are running out it is quite a relief to have a bench of asters to take their place. The earliest variety is Early Wonder, which comes in a few days ahead of Queen of the Market. The latter, however, gives far more flowers, of better size and on longer

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Ten Weeks' Stocks.

The colored stocks do not move particularly well in the markets, except for Memorial day, when there is always a tremendous call for these and all other colored flowers. In order to be sure of having the plants flower on time, the seed should be sown without delay. A good strain of the Giant ten weeks' stocks is hard to beat, but do not sow too much of the white. Of course, the latter color is all right for funeral work, but as a rule the pink, crimson and scarlet colors are what people want. Sow the seeds in pans or flats of light, sandy soil and merely give the seeds a thin covering of fine sand. Do not make the common mistake of sowing the seeds too thickly. You want to have a little breathing space between the seedlings, for if they are thin and drawn before being potted off, they will never amount to much. Except until the seedlings are germinated, stocks should be grown fairly cool. Any attempt to coddle or force them will only ruin them.

Lobelias.

Cuttings of both the double and single lobelias should now be taken in quantity. These charming blue flowers, unfortunately, do not prove as satisfactory bedding plants here as in Europe, except at shore and mountain resorts, but we have no other flowers matching them in color and adaptable for carpet bedding, borderings or for vases. In order to secure really compact plants for bedding, the plants should always be raised from cuttings, as seedlings are more sprawly in habit. Seeds of the trailing varieties may also be sown now. These are useful for window boxes and vases and will bloom all summer if not given too hot and exposed a situation and if kept well watered. In propagating the lobelias, remember that they do not want a high temperature. They will do better with your carnation and mum cuttings than with coleus, alternantheras and crotons.

Shamrocks.

The time will soon be here for the sale of shamrocks. March 17 is the date and not a great deal more growing time is left. If you have not grown them too warm and shaded and have succeeded in keeping them clear of mildew, you can congratulate yourself. Mildew plants are wanted by no one, but there appears to be a larger percentage of such this season than usual. All the clovers should now be in the little pots or pans in which they are to be sold. Keep them close to the glass, in a night temperature of 45 degrees, and air freely, but avoid cold draughts.

Hardy Perennial Seeds.

While much time is gained by making generous sowings of hardy herbaceous perennials in late summer, there are probably many who did not sow at that time and who would now like to raise some young stock. Such varieties as delphiniums, aquilegias, campanulas and many others can be sown in a warm greenhouse, using shallow flats, preferably. Transplant into flats when large enough to handle. Gradually harden off and plant out in beds or nursery rows any time after the middle of April. Make good sowings of the hardy delphiniums. They are among the hardiest, most showy and popular of border plants, and by starting seeds this early a great many of the plants will bloom late in the summer and make salable stock for fall trade.

Marguerites.

Marguerites which are planted out in boxes or shallow benches will from this time on give an increasing number of flowers, and the length of stems and quality of flowers will steadily improve with the lengthening days. Plants with too much root run will be late in flowering. The roots must be well under control and somewhat cramped before we can get many flowers from marguerites in winter. The stems, and is the florists' standby among early asters. In benching asters, remember that they appreciate a good soil, such as mums would thrive in. As between disbudded and naturally grown plants, the latter pay far the best.

Azaleas.

The Easter azaleas should by this time be placed in a little more heat. They will not need any hard forcing, for the months of December and January were so warm that they are more advanced than is usual at this date. A night temperature of 50 degrees should prove sufficiently high for them. If they are seen to be at all late, apply a few degrees more heat, but do it a week or two before Easter rather than rush them during the last few days. Though white is looked upon as the Easter color, it has been found of late years that colored varieties sell much the best.

THE FLORIST AND HIS MARKET.

I was much interested in "The Florist and His Market," in a recent issue of The Review. The writer evidently was confident that by reaching out something could be plucked. But it is also plainly evident that he was reaching in the dark; and when a fellow reaches out in the dark he can't always tell what he is going to get hold of. Now, I am one of the florists who have no glass except the one that sits beside the bottle on the rear shelf, and we don't do much propagating under that. I can give only the retail or distributor's point of view.

In the start, we all know that the demand creates the price. To get the price, a demand must be created. And it's needless for me to tell you who has done the struggling to create the demand. It surely is not the growers. All that they do is to push up the price as fast as the demand increases.

Suppose I should write an article on why people should send flowers instead of doggerel verses and cheap lithographs on lace paper to their friends on St. Valentine's day and have it inserted in each daily paper at the expense of $200 and have our business address under each article; who would derive the most benefits? Some of the retail florists would share our benefits, and all the growers. Now, if the growers are benefited by advertising, why don't they put up for advertising purposes? Simply because most of them are Missourians and you have to show them. To illustrate, take the wholesale plantsmen. They are keen enough to reach the dealers, but did you ever hear of their making any attempt to show the people what palms are raised for, and how they can be used to improve the surroundings of the home, and what a lovely present they would make for a dear friend? Not at all! They believe that is the duty of the retailer. But if we could place it before one of them in such a light that he would see that it would create a demand for his stock, he would put up, not $5 a year as members of the S. A. F., but $500 for publicity, and every large grower of palms, ferns and all sorts of cut flowers would do likewise.

There is no reason why the plant and cut flower business can not be doubled within twelve months after the growers once get it into their heads that it is their business as much as it is the retailers' to create a demand for their stock. Also, as the flower business increases, there will be a greater demand for florists' supplies and one could get liberal subscriptions from the dealers in them. There should be no trouble, if worked up right, to raise $50,000 east of the Mississippi to advertise and create a demand for cut flowers and plants. The only question is, who will get at the helm? Frank Shibley. San Francisco, Cal.

READY FOR SPRING AT THE SPA.

At Ballston Spa, N. Y., A. B. Reynolds has been in the business for five years. So successful has been his work that each year he has made a small addition to his plant, shown in the accompanying illustration, which now consists of two houses, each 17x112. His specialty is geraniums, with some sweet peas, followed by vegetable plants in the spring. He does a nice wholesale business with the trade on geranium cuttings and 2-inch plants, and has a good local business in vegetable and bedding plants. He is a believer in plenty of sunlight and air for the geranium houses, both for the cutting bench and for the stock plants. His location is excellent, being protected from the winds by the surrounding hills. At first glance it looks as though here is a greenhouse without a chimney, but as a matter of fact there is a 2-foot chimney projecting above the boiler house. He says he gets a good draft by using coarse coal. Mr. Reynolds is shown in one of his geranium houses in the upper illustration.

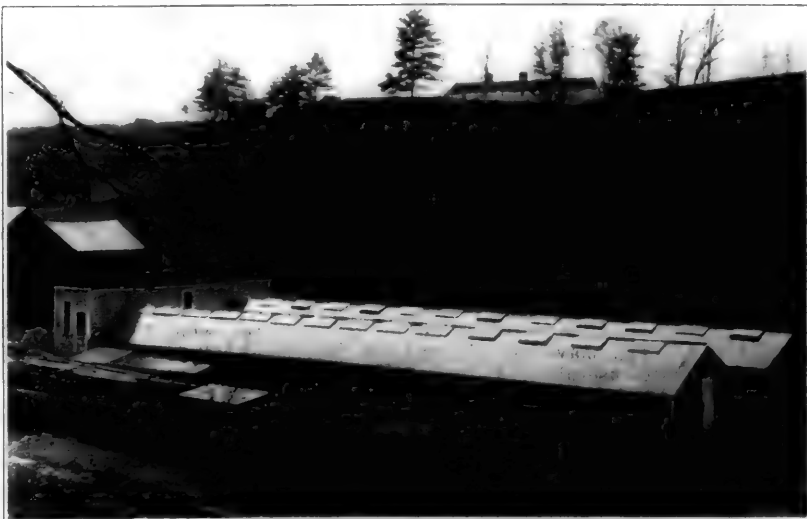

GODFREY CALLAS.

Kindly let us know what is the proper treatment for Godfrey callas. We have just received a shipment, out in leaf, from 3-inch pots, and are not sure as to their treatment.

W. M. R. S.

Give the callas a warm house, with a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees at night. If they were well matted with roots they should have been shifted into 5-inch pots. The summer treatment does not differ from that of the ordinary calla, but in the case of young stock you could strengthen the plants a great deal by planting outdoors in well enriched ground and potting them up from the middle to the end of August. TOO COOL FOR FERNS.

Last fall I planted a house of Boston ferns. On account of boiler trouble, I cannot get the temperature above 45 degrees on cold nights and the ferns seem to be off color. At present they are about 4-inch plants, but I shall leave them in the bench until the end of May. What would be the best way to give them the dark green foliage? Would fresh cow manure be all right for feeding, and what is the best way to use it?

W. B. W.

The low night temperature is doubtless the cause of these ferns losing color, and the best way to bring the color back would be to increase the temperature to 55 to 60 degrees at night. Feeding with cow manure under such conditions is likely to result in souring the soil and thus causing more trouble. If you cannot increase the piping so as to raise the temperature, could you not increase the height of the chimney in order to make your boiler more effective?

W. H. T.

FERNS IN POTS.

What amount of manure should be used in the potting soil for ferns? What temperature should they have? Will they do better in partial shade or in full sunshine?

J. A. M.

The quantity of manure to be used in fern soil depends on the species of ferns to be grown. For example, one part in four of soil, if the manure is well rotted, may be used for Boston ferns, but if the soil is intended for small ferns for ferneries it is not advisable to use so much, else the soil may be soured or the plants may grow too coarse. A night temperature of 58 to 60 degrees, with a day temperature of 70 degrees in sunny weather, will answer for ordinary ferns. At this season no shading is needed, but in summer a light shading is helpful to the plants.

W. H. T.

CUTWORMS ON FERNS.

We should like to get some information regarding a cutworm that works on our ferns during the summer and fall. We had the worst siege of them last summer that we have had in twenty years; they got beyond our control and did hundreds of dollars' worth of damage. We tried Paris green and other poisons mixed with meal. We tried spraying with tobacco juice to keep them down. We tried hand-picking, which was of course effective in a way, but we failed to keep them down.

We should like to be able to use gas, as we notice it will destroy all insects. We are rather inclined to think this would injure ferns, but should like to get your opinion. We grow our ferns in one house and we can close this house so that it will be entirely shut off from the others. We should prefer a spray of some kind, but what we want is something effective, other than hand-picking, if possible. This is a serious trouble with us and has caused heavy losses.

R. C. K.

Treatment with hydrocyanic gas would kill the worms, but would most likely injure the ferns to a greater or less extent, according to the strength of the gas, and I do not like to advise it for this purpose.

Spraying with Nicofume liquid, used in a one-to-300 solution, will gradually clean out these pests, for this solution will kill all the worms it reaches. The spraying should be done toward evening, at intervals of one week.

NAME OF FERN.

Please tell me the name of the fern a frond of which I enclose. C. P. N.

The fern in question is one of the forms of Pteris cretica.

FORMULAS FOR LIQUID MANURE.

I have just erected a 2,000-gallon tank for liquid manure and should like to obtain, from one of your experts, all the formulas for making liquid manures that I can get. I have a 600-gallon tank on the ground, in which I should like to mix the manures or chemicals first, diluting them afterward in the 2,000-gallon tank. Would the 600-gallon tank be large enough to hold enough of the mixture to dilute 2,000 gallons? Would 300 pounds of sheep manure, soaked in this tank three days, be strong enough to dilute 2,000 gallons, or should it be emptied into the large tank, refilled on the same manure, and emptied the second time?

I want to know the quantity of raw material it will take to make 2,000 gallons of liquid. I can get sheep, horse, cow, chicken, pigeon and hog manures, lime, potato phosphate, bone and other phosphates, and if there are others that are available I should like to get them. My specialties are smilax, plumosus, Sprengeri and adiantum, with bedding and vegetable plants in the spring.

B. J. P.

In making liquid from barnyard manure it is more a question of how strong it can be made without choking the pumps than a question of how much the plants will stand without injury. I am giving herewith a table that shows the analysis of the different barnyard manures and the amounts required to equal 900 pounds of sheep manure in nitrogen, which is the main fertilizer to be taken into consideration in liquid manures and the one that is soonest exhausted in the soil. The amounts mentioned are enough for a light application for about 4,000 feet of bench, though after the liquid has been used for a time and the days have become longer, twice the specified amounts would not be too much.

A 600-gallon tank would be quite large enough to dissolve that quantity in before it is diluted in the 2,000-gallon tank; or, if needed, twice that amount of manure could be dissolved, if well screened before being run off into the larger tank.

The table shows the number of pounds of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash contained in the quantity of fresh manure or fertilizer mentioned. If dried manure is used, the amount of phosphoric acid and potash will be greater, though a large amount of ammonia will be evaporated in drying the manure and the actual amount of nitrogen may not be larger in the dry than in the fresh manure.

Lbs.	Nitrogen, Phos. Acid, Potash.
	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.
300 sheep manure	2.5	.09	2.0
800 cattle manure	2.7	1.3	3.2
150 poultry manure	2.45	2.3	1.25
600 hog manure	2.7	1.2	3.6
400 horse manure	2.3	1.1	2.0
20 nitrate of soda	3.1
10 muriate of sulphate of potash	4.5

Any of the foregoing amounts would make a liquid of nearly equal strength. To double the strength of any of these, it would be a good idea to take the amount mentioned of any of the barnyard manures and add twenty pounds of nitrate of soda and ten pounds of muriate of sulphate of potash, and perhaps some acid phosphate, though the latter is usually added to the soil in the shape of bone meal. These added chemicals would not only dissolve the nitrate of soda and potash, but would also act on the manure and make it more soluble.

CHRISTMAS AZALEAS.

Under the auspices of the Ghent Horticultural Exchange an exhibition of azaleas in bloom was held in Ghent at Christmas, partly with the object of demonstrating the best varieties to force for Christmas trade. An exhibition at that time of the year is something new for the Ghent nursery trade and the result surpassed in every respect the expectations of the promoters.

Azalea India running from the best whites to the brightest reds were on view, including commercial varieties and a lot of very nice novelties from J. B. Haerens and H. Wille, at Somergem. These included a large pure white of camellia form, a delicate light pink about the same in color as Rhododendron Pink Pearl, and a crimson, a strong, large flower, a beauty in the real meaning of the word. An exceedingly fine lot of Azalea Mrs. John Haerens, new, was shown by the same exhibitors, a brilliant crimson flower which made a wonderful effect. A similar nice lot, exhibited by G. Vervaet, Mt. St. Amand, including Vervaneana, Pharaïde Mathilde and President Oswald de Kerchove, all flowered perfectly. Messrs. J. B. Haerens and H. Wille obtained six first prizes.

The aims of this exhibition were to acquaint the azalea growers with the names of the best forcing varieties and to show how they have to grow and prepare azaleas for early forcing and thus avoid the too frequent claims from buyers abroad on account of bad or unripe wood. Azaleas must be prepared for early forcing. This is the work of the grower, and the society, by endeavoring to draw the attention of the azalea trade to this fact, hopes that both the seller and the buyer will gain by it.

According to the Haerens Co., "the azalea trade in Belgium has taken a large extension and hundreds of azalea growers in a small line of business are growing them without commercial knowledge, unaware of the many difficulties and serious material and moral damage they are causing to the whole trade by throwing inferior quality on the market. Importers of azaleas should read these lines with pleasure, because in years to come only good, well budded azaleas will come on the market, easy to force to the great satisfaction of all concerned."

BUSINESS EMBARRASMENTS.

Albuquerque, N. M.—Judge Raynolds, of the district court, has issued an order naming Roy S. Elwood as receiver for the Albuquerque Floral Co., operating greenhouses on West Central avenue beyond Huning Castle. The action was taken upon petition of Arno Huning, represented by Attorney H. J. Collins. It is understood the company is not heavily involved and the action is taken chiefly to protect certain interests formerly actively identified with the enterprise.

NEW YORK FEDERATION.

The regular meeting of the New York State Federation of Floral Clubs was held in the Agricultural College, Cornell University, Ithaca, Wednesday, February 12. Present: President William F. Kasting, Secretary John Young, Treasurer W. A. Adams, Prof. J. F. Cowell, Harry A. Bunyard, W. H. Siebrecht, Sr., H. C. Steinhoff, Prof. A. C. Beal, Dr. E. A. Bates, George E. Thorp, M. H. Hoffman, Fred. Vick, John Dunbar, E. R. Fry, George Arnold, Dr. Edmund M. Mills.

At 10 a. m. there was a lecture by Dr. Edmund M. Mills, "The Rose and Its Culture," illustrated by lantern slides.

At 11 a. m. there was a lecture by Harry A. Bunyard, illustrated, "Twentieth Century Horticulture."

At 2 p. m. there was a lecture by George Arnold, "Asters and Their Culture."

At 3 p. m. there was a lecture, "Diseases of Florists' Crops," by Dr. Donald Reddick, followed by a round-table talk.

At 4 p. m. the business meeting was held. President Kasting reported as to the progress made toward getting an appropriation of $60,000 from the state for greenhouses for experimental work in floriculture and vegetables, saying that the outlook is favorable. Dr. Erl A. Bates reported progress for his committee, which is seeking to get an appropriation for a horticultural building at Syracuse. In this matter the committee has the support of the fruit and vegetable growers.

President Kasting explained that if the appropriation is obtained sixty per cent will be used for experimental work in floriculture and forty per cent in experimental work in vegetable culture. Prof. Beal made a report showing the extent of greenhouses in the state, area covered, exclusive of sash and frame houses. Upon Dr. Bates' motion, Prof. Beal was directed to prepare a letter to be sent to the clubs which are members of the federation, to be distributed by them to their members, giving them information as to what is being done and what the federation is trying to do, and to cover the interesting points brought out in his talk to the federation. Prof. Cowell, Dr. Bates and Charles Vick were appointed a committee to get in touch with the new secretary of the state fair commission, to assist him in strengthening the flower show in connection with the state fair. Dr. E. A. Bates, H. W. Hoffmann and W. H. Siebrecht, Sr., were appointed a committee on extension, to organize floral clubs in different parts of the state, so that they could join the state federation, making it the strongest organization of its kind in New York state. Mr. Siebrecht invited all the members and their friends to be present at the National Flower Show in New York, April 5 to 12, and promised all a good time. The meeting adjourned to meet at the state fair at Syracuse in September.

ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION.

The program for the eighth annual convention of the Illinois State Florists' Association, to be held at the Jefferson hotel, Peoria, March 4 and 5, is as follows:

TUESDAY, MARCH 4.

Opening session, 2 p. m.
Address of welcome, Mayor E. N. Woodruff, Peoria.
Response, Vice-president C. W. Johnson, Morgan Park.
President's address, C. Loveridge, Peoria.
Report of secretary, J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville.
Report of treasurer, F. L. Washburn, Bloomington.
Report of secretary of Advisory Committee for the Illinois Florists' Experiment Station, W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park.
Unfinished business.
New business.
Election of officers.
The annual banquet will be served at the Jefferson hotel, at 7 p. m.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5.

Reports of work at the experiment station, by H. B. Dörner, F. W. Muncie, G. L. Peltier, Urbana.
Report of auditing committee.
Report of judges.
Address on landscape gardening and permanent planting of shrubs, etc., by W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park.

In sending out the notices, secretary Ammann says: "All members are requested to send or bring something for exhibition. Ship all flowers in care of Chas. Loveridge, 127 Jefferson street, Peoria, Ill. All flowers must be staged for judging by 12 o'clock, Tuesday, March 4."

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society, held to consider best dates for exhibits and to arrange special prizes for the International Exhibition, April 5 to 12, Harry O. May, of Summit, N. J., was chosen manager.

The following dates were decided on in connection with the International Flower Show schedule. All entries must be made with the secretary of the American Rose Society not later than March 26. The American Rose Society exhibit shall be governed by Rule No. 2 of the International Flower Show. Divisions F and G shall be staged Saturday, April 5. Divisions B and C shall be staged April 7. The exhibit for the New York Flower Co. Cup shall be on Thursday, April 10. All special prizes not included in the International Flower Show final schedule shall be completed for on Thursday, April 10.

Philadelphia rose growers offer a special prize for seventy-five roses, any variety or varieties except American Beauties and undissected varieties.

The Toronto Horticultural Society offers a silver medal and a bronze medal to be designated by the American Rose Society.

Mrs. Frances Roche, Newport, R. I., filed the following: "I desire to offer a prize of $50 for a new rose to be grown under glass, to resemble as nearly as possible in color the Marechal Niel, but with a stronger stem, to be competed for at any show the society selects after June, 1913."

The New-York Cut Flower Co. offers a cup of $200 in value.

The special grower prizes are $15, $10 and $7. Peter Henderson & Co. offer for best plant of Silver Moon, first prize $15, second prize $10.

Peter Henderson & Co. offer for the best plant of D. W. Van Fleet in 8-inch pot or tub or larger, first prize $15, second prize $10.

A word from California: The Panama Exposition committee of San Francisco offers a prize of $1,000 to be competed for in 1915.

Please note, the managers of this show wish to do all in their power to make it a success and to see that everyone is comfortable, but they especially wish that every entry shall be filed not later than March 29.

Benjamin Hammond, sec'y.

INTERNATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

For the great exhibition April 5 to 12 the New York Cut Flower Co. is offering a silver vase valued at $200 for the finest display of cut roses, irrespective of number of varieties shown. This premium does not appear in the final schedule of prizes, just issued. A supplementary schedule will be issued before the show opens, to take care of the prizes that will be offered from now on.

In the final schedule, Class 87, "first prize, silver cup," should read "grand silver medal and $15" as a first prize, and that same is offered by the Horticultural Society of Chicago. In Class 91, Section C, the medal offered is the grand bronze medal of the Horticultural Society of Chicago.

Class 524, the M. C. Ebel prize, is open to members of the National Association of Gardeners only; notice of this fact was inadvertently omitted from the schedule.

The most noteworthy classes in the final schedule are classes 192, 193 and 194, covering $200 for the most valuable economic plant, which may be a new fruit, new vegetable, or other plant which has a distinct economic value; $200 for the most valuable new foliage plant, and $100 for the most valuable new flowering plant. These prizes are to be awarded for plants not yet in commerce, showing characters distinctly new and useful. Should the entries in any one class not be meritorious enough to secure an award, the total money assigned to that class may be divided among the two remaining classes, providing the plants exhibited in the remaining classes are worthy of such a prize. Should no plant exhibited be considered worthy to secure an award under these conditions, the entire prize may be withheld. These prizes are offered by the Missouri Botanic Garden, of St. Louis, and, as far as known, no schedule has ever contained such a liberal provision. These offers should bring numbers of exhibits from the growers of novelties in Europe.

Anyone desiring a copy of the final schedule of prizes may have one on application addressed to John Young, secretary, 54 West Twenty-eighth street, New York.

GLADIOLI FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Will you kindly tell me the proper time to start gladioli to have them for Decoration day? Please let me know in this week's Review, if you can; if not, next week. Second year in greenhouse business. Love to read The Review. E. E. K.

It is time now to plant gladioli for Memorial day. Give them a bench in a house kept at 48 to 50 degrees at night, with good soil. Use such varieties as Brenchleyensis, Augusta and America, which are all excellent sellers. C. W.

PRIMULAS DOING POORLY.

Will you please tell us what is wrong with our primroses? They grew well until potted from the seed pans to 3-inch pots; then the leaves on a lot of them turned brown, as if they had been scalded. We sent some of the affected plants to our experiment station, but they could not help us in any way, but said the soil was all right. We dumped all the bad ones, hoping for better results. Then we potted a lot of them from 3-inch to 4-inch pots, but they nearly all went to the bad. We still have a lot of the same primulas in 3-inch pots that are crowded and covered with white fly, but are full of a liberal dash of sharp sand in it. The obconicas will stand a little more feeding than Sinensis.

You can hardly have perfectly healthy plants if they are covered with white fly. You should get rid of these at all hazards. Hydrocyanic acid gas, applied as often recommended in The Review, will exterminate them, though more than one dose may be necessary to do this. If you do not want to use gas, you can much reduce the numbers of the pest by spraying freely with common soap and water or by using fir tree oil or some other of the many insecticides on the market.

One other point: Try watering with a can in preference to the constant use of the hose. It may mean more labor, but it will at the same time give you far better plants, as the best plantmen in the country can testify. C. W.

PROPAGATING CINCINNATI.

Please let me know about propagating Begonia Glory of Cincinnati from leaf cuttings. Should I leave the cuttings in the sand until the young shoots appear, or should I pot them as soon as they are rooted? L. V.

It is better to wait until the young shoots appear at the bottom of the leaf stalk. If you have cut off the entire leaf stalk, with a portion of the stem on which it was produced attached, you will get the earliest and best results. C. W.

ON VALENTINE'S DAY.

One of the accompanying illustrations shows a portion of the store of the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, photographed on the afternoon of St. Valentine's day, while the other picture shows the office. At the right sits E. C. Amling, president of the corporation. In the left foreground is John Michelsen, manager. From the appearance, the camera caught the gentlemen in the midst of an important business discussion, but the chances are that the serious expression is merely the result of an attempt to keep from grinning when the snapshot artist said, "Look pleasant, please."

GOWEN'S INVENTION.

Fred Gowen, who does a prosperous general florists' business at Peabody, Kan., recently has turned inventor and has procured a patent on what he calls the Yankee glazing strip. He describes it as follows:

"A company has been formed to manufacture the article and we expect to begin the manufacture by March 15. The factory, and headquarters will be located in Kansas City, Mo., and the business will be conducted under the name of the Yankee Glazing Strip Co.

"I believe we have an article which will appeal to the majority of owners or operators of greenhouses. It is intended to be placed in the roofs of greenhouses and is inserted between the edges of the glass, where the panes lap, forming a combination lock, stop and buds and bloom and seem perfectly healthy. We are afraid to touch them, through fear of their hitting the same trail. We try to hold the temperature at 50 degrees at night and from 10 to 20 degrees higher in the daytime. Our Chinese primroses are in the colder end of the house, where the plants of this kind have always been kept with success, but they decay at the top of the ground and then pine away and die. All the plants have been watered alike with the hose when dry. A dose of cyanide, according to your directions, failed to kill the flies, after some of the primulas had turned brown, with few, if any, flies on them. O. A. K.

The trouble, I should say, is in your soil. It is probably too heavy, too acid or too full of manure. Most likely too great acidity is the cause of the plants acting as they have done. Primulas require a light and only moderately rich soil, not so strong as you would use for calceolarias, cinerarias or geraniums. To the loam should be added some leaf-mold; or, if that is not to be had, some fine, well-decayed manure, dried well and free from worms, with seal. The 'strip' is of zinc, which is durable, and bent in the shape shown in the illustration. The hooked portion is placed over the upper edge of the lower pane, the other portion lying on the upper portion of the glass and extending down onto the pane according to the lap desired. The remainder of the strip forms a shelf, or ledge, against which the lower edge of the upper pane rests, and takes the place of the glazing points as now used to prevent the panes from sliding down onto the glass below. The strip is made long enough to cover the entire edge of the pane, or as long as the spacing between the bars, and forms a seal that makes the joint perfectly tight. Cold air, moisture and everything else is prevented from passing through the roof. The strip will practically do away with roof drafts, which cause inestimable trouble and much loss and which account for a great many failures to produce the best crops. Every florist knows the imperfect contact of the glass at the lap; as few panes are perfectly flat, the curvature of the panes will not permit the panes to come into perfect contact. The control of ventilation is only partially possible, as the air passing through these openings between the laps is uncontrollable. The heat of the building is lost through these openings, and also fumigating vapors, and all these losses mean extra expense, which the use of this strip will save. The strip forms a frame for every pane and positively prevents them from slipping from place. The panes are kept from being lifted from their seats by glazing points driven into the sashbars on top of the glass."

REINBERG'S BIG TRUCK.

One by one the large growers who have stores in the city and greenhouses in the country are adopting the motor truck as the means of conveying the stock from greenhouses to store. In some cases the truck is doing the work formerly done by the express companies, and in other cases it is taking the place of horse-drawn vehicles.

Peter Reinberg, Chicago, has just received delivery of a truck to replace five horses, which formerly were needed to maintain the wagon service between greenhouses and store. The truck was on exhibition last week at the Chicago automobile show and attracted probably more attention than any other one exhibit in the show. The body is extremely large and extremely striking, in design, finish and lettering. The color is rich dark green with gold lettering.

The Reinberg truck is a Mack chassis, built by the International Motor Co. It has a special body, built by Wm. Erby & Sons Co., Chicago. The body was designed to hold forty of the big boxes in which Beauties are brought from the greenhouses, and to close on them in cold weather. When the tail gate is down the truck will carry fifty boxes. It will be noticed that the driver is inside, protected from the weather, the same as is the load. It has a carrying capacity of one and one-half tons. The wheel base measures thirteen feet six inches, with an overall length of twenty feet. It is equipped with solid tires, both front and rear. The engine is four cylinder and is rated at thirty-eight horse-power.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Flowers continue in oversupply. We have had clear skins, and outside of roses, which are not yet abundant, there is no shortage of anything. American Beauties still bring fancy prices, but there has been a drop in about all other varieties. The special favorites continue to be Ward, Melody, Taft, Cardinal and Hillingdon. Richmonds are not equal in quality to what they were a month ago, but Killarneys are good. Carnations are something of a glut and little but strictly fancy stock goes over $2.50 per hundred. Gloriosa, Pink Delight, Benora and White Wonder are the favorites.

Violets are selling low. For Valentine's day they averaged 60 cents per hundred, but they are down to much lower prices now. Bulbous flowers are of grand quality, but the heavy supply causes prices to be low. Snapdragons, bachelor's buttons, white and yellow marguerites and English primroses are favorites among miscellaneous flowers. Valley sells only moderately well. The same is true of cattleyas and gardenias. Mignonette is fine, but the sale is slow. Sweet peas are in heavier supply. Flowers on long stems sell well. Short stems have to be practically given away. In lilies Formosas are the best. There is a good supply of callas. Trade in green stock continues quiet.

Club Meeting.

At the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club February 18 there was an attendance of 200, and much enthusiasm. Twenty new members were elected. Peter Fisher and A. A. Pembroke spoke on carnations. Mr. Fisher discussed especially the qualities of the flowers and what types should be grown. Mr. Pembroke talked on cultural details. A long and animated discussion followed, participated in by F. E. Palmer, George Page, William H. Elliott, William Sim, V. T. Sherwood, Alexander McKay, Kenneth Finlayson, James Wheeler, William Downs, M. A. Patten, Thomas Roland, S. J. Reuter and James T. Scott.

J. K. M. L. Farquhar spoke on the National Flower Show and the Minneapolis convention. It was voted to invite the S. A. F. to hold its convention here in 1914. An invitation was accepted for a field day at the establishment of W. W. Edgar Co. to see the Easter plants. President Kennedy made a number of suggestions to be acted on at the March meeting, when Edwin Jenkins will lecture on sweet peas.

The exhibits of the evening were superb. There was a grand collection of pansies from William Sim, awarded a report of superior merit; also a collection of sweet peas. J. D. Cockeroff showed Carnation Northport, which received honorable mention. William Eccles, British Triumph and Lady Northcliffe, shown by Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., received honorable mention. Salmon Winsor from W. D. Howard received honorable mention. S. J. Goddard showed a splendid assortment of carnations, including Lady Northcliffe; No. 59, crimson, received honorable mention. L. C. Midgley showed Eureka, which received honorable mention. Gorgeous, from Peter Fisher, received a report of superior merit. Mr. Fisher also showed a collection of seedlings. James Wheeler showed White Perfection, White Wonder and Benora. M. A. Patten's Princess Dagmar was awarded a report of superior merit. Benora, from A. A. Pembroke, received a cultural report of merit. A specimen Cologyne cristata from C. Cooper received a cultural report of merit. Cypripedium Boxalli, from David Weir, received a report of cultural merit. W. W. Edgar Co. staged a splendid collection of Easter plants, awarded honorable mention. Cypripedium Dicksonianum, from William Thatcher, received a report of merit. Carnation Commodore, from E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., arrived in excellent condition.

Opening of New Market.

Saturday, February 15, was a red letter day in Boston's wholesale flower industry, the occasion being the opening of the splendid and capacious new wholesale flower market of the Boston Flower Exchange, on Winthrop square. The weather on the opening day was clear and crisp and the attendance was large, the big market being uncomfortably crowded at times. There is a floor space of over 23,000 square feet on the street floor and basement. There is a wide square fronting the main entrance and ample space for numbers of express and delivery teams.

Most of the 200 stalls on the street floor are already taken, and February 15 most of them were attractively arranged with plants and flowers, including many varieties from a distance. A fine orchestra furnished music, while a well known firm of caterers furnished a first-class lunch.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald spoke in his usual entertaining way at the opening exercises, on behalf of the city of Boston. Other speakers were J. K. M. L. Farquhar, on behalf of the S. A. F. and Massachusetts Horticultural Society, and W. J. Kennedy, for the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston.

The stallholders and others made a fine display, both of plants and cut flowers, the latter predominating. In roses, Waban Rose conservatories showed Mrs. Charles Russell and a vase of a new seedling with a flesh pink center, outer petals white, a beautiful variety which took everyone's eye. A. N. Pierson had Milady rose, also Carnation Rosette and fine plants of Adiantum Farleyense. McAlpine Bros., of the Exeter Rose Conservatories, had Richmond, Killarney and White Killarney.

Carnations were largely shown. Among the novelties were Matchless, a splendid white from the Cottage Gardens Co.; Gorgeous, Peter Fisher's superb cerise seedling; The Herald, from the Chicago Carnation Co.; Lady Northcliffe, British Triumph and William Eccles, from Scott Bros.; Princess Dagmar, from Patten & Co.; Eureka, from W. D. Howard. A. Roper had some good seedlings, No. 302, scarlet, No. 24, white, and No. 82, of Gloriosa shade, being fine. Peirce Bros. had Virginia, scarlet; B-104, light pink, and B-1002, scarlet. Peter Fisher, in addition to Gorgeous, had No. 61, a good scarlet; No. 66, crimson, and a vase containing some other fine seedlings. J. D. Cockeroff had a good vase of Northport.

Among other carnation exhibitors was H. H. Rogers, who had Winsor, Benora, Gloriosa and White Enchantress. F. P. Putnam had excellent Winona, Pink Delight, Mrs. Ward and White Wonder. W. D. Howard had Mrs. Ward, Beacon and his salmon sport from Winsor. Littlefield & Wyman had Wanoka, Gloriosa, White Wonder, Benora and two pink seedlings. A. A. Pembroke had superb vases of White Wonder, Gloriosa, Pink Delight and Benora. S. J. Reuter had White Wonder, Gloriosa, also Melody and Mrs. Aaron Ward roses. W. R. Nicholson had a big vase of splendid Pocahontas. B. P. Winch showed Beacon, Benora and White Enchantress. John Barr staged his variegated seedling, Mrs. B. P. Cheney. S. J. Goddard had a fine collection, including Beacon, Gloriosa, Rosette, White Wonder, White Perfection, Pink Delight, No. 59, a crimson seedling, and a fine vase of assorted English seedlings. H. W. Field, of Northampton, showed Gloria, deep pink.

Among miscellaneous flowers F. J. Dolansky had the field to himself in cattleyas, gardenias and valley in pots, all of best quality. Peirce Bros. had lilies and nephrolepis in pots. Thomas Roland showed acacias, ericas, amaryllis, dendrobiums, azaleas, cyclamens, etc. W. W. Edgar Co. in its collection had some of the new French hydrangeas, spiræas, genistas and bulbous stock. H. W. Vose had cinerarias and bulbous flowers. F. R. Pierson Co. had a collection of nephrolepis and A. S. Parker had single violets. Willow Hill Greenhouses had excellent genistas. Mann Bros. had a fine lot of Azalea mollis and a large assortment of bulbous flowers, including Iris filicifolia. Paine Bros. had cut bulbous flowers in fine variety. Geo. E. Buxton had a splendid vase of his new snapdragon, which took the public's fancy at once. F. W. Hatcher & Co. also showed a good silver pink snapdragon.

A few of the many visitors noted from a distance were: J. R. Fotheringham, Tarrytown, N. Y.; R. T. Brown, Queens, N. Y.; J. T. Scott, Elmsford, N. Y.; C. S. Strout, Biddeford, Me.; G. E. Buxton, Nashua, N. H.; W. R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., and L. J. Reuter, Westerly, R. I.

Various Notes.

Sidney Hoffman's greenhouses, at Mount Auburn, are filled with high grade plants for Easter and he will require to buy few this season. He has splendid large batches of ericas, acacias, azaleas, rambler roses, genistas, lilies, etc. One house contains gardenias, now in good crop, and two are devoted to carnations. Everything shows extremely good culture.

James Nicol, well known as a champion grower of Chrysanthemum Mrs. Jerome Jones, has been elected superintendent of Quincy cemetery for the nineteenth year, with a well merited advance in salary.

George E. Buxton has named his light pink snapdragon Killarney Pink, as this favorite rose is its nearest comparison as to color. One advantage of this variety, as seen growing, is that it needs no supporting and the length of stems is ample.

The stockholders and stallholders of the Boston Cooperative Market, at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting at the Quincy House, February 12, unanimously voted against amalgamation with the Boston Flower Exchange, and will continue to do business at the old stand, 2 Park street. The repairs necessitated by the recent fire are now completed and the market presents a spick and span appearance.

The houses of E. J. Ahern, of Wellesley, one of the growers for the Boston Cooperative Market, were frozen up February 13. His night foreman had a fall and became unconscious. It being a sharp night, the temperature in the houses fell to 17 degree. Mr. Ahern's specialties were primulas and marguerites and he has the sympathy of a large body of growers in his misfortune.

Walter J. Feeney, formerly with the Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co., is now with Peter Henderson & Co., New York.

Adolph E. E. Koch, of Nobscot, is getting a fine crop of Marguerite Mrs. Sander, also pink snapdragons, which are in active demand in the markets.

William Sim has two large houses of sweet peas in full crop. He is trying quite a few of the newer varieties in these houses, including practically all Zvolanek's new winter-flowering Spencers.

Mann Bros. are cutting good batches of Iris filicifolia, which closely resembles the Spanish iris in form and takes well in the market. They also have a splendid lot of Azalea mollis.

A. A. Shurtleff delivered a stereopticon lecture at Horticultural hall, February 15, on "Landscape Arrangement of Public Parks and Private Grounds," before a large and appreciative audience.

Business at the new wholesale market of the Boston Flower Exchange was good on the day it opened for business, February 17, and members and stallholders appreciate the change from the old, dingy, underground quarters to the new street floor location.

Valentine's day business in Boston was good with the retailers. F. H. Houghton had a great call for old-fashioned bouquets. Penn's did a tremendous business in violets, valley and orchids. Galvin's were exceptionally busy. In fact, all had a good share of the business. W. N. Craig.

DETROIT.

The Market.

The Detroit florists are fast realizing that business is just what one makes it. The most recent illustration of this is the St. Valentine's day trade. Every retail store in the downtown district displayed special St. Valentine's day arrangements, and most of them were hardly prepared for the demand that resulted from the special efforts. The extra call was mostly for violets, orchids, sweet peas, valley and red flowers.

The market is now abundantly supplied with everything; indeed, since the influx of bulbous stock and the increase in other lines, the market has been rather overloaded with everything except roses. On the other hand, carnations are doing a little better than a week ago.

Various Notes.

Robert Rahaley spent February 17 at Thomas Browne's place in Greenfield, Mich., on business connected with the dissemination of Philadelphia, which is in full crop there now.

Albert Pochelon reports a pleasurable trip to Cleveland.

F. C. Knecht & Co., Fort Wayne, Ind., who consign their roses to this market, are apparently in full crop.

James Zettner, of the Michigan Cut Flower Exchange, is on duty after a week's illness.

Albert Stahelin is making a hit with Gloriosa carnations, grown in his movable greenhouses.

Edward Moss is expected home soon from Sault Ste. Marie. H. S.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

The Market.

We have just passed through a fortnight of zero weather, the first of the season, and a delightful change from the tame winter we have been experiencing. Beauties and sweet peas have proved a great disappointment here this season. Easter lilies are coming along nicely, and show signs of producing better bloom this year than before, but it will need all possible skill on the part of the growers to force the stock in time for holiday requirements.

Various Notes.

The sale of lily of the valley has increased enormously during the last twelve months. At the Dale Estate three new houses have just been set apart for Easter needs. The orchid houses are displaying some fine Cattleya Trianae and Schroederae, which meet a better market each year, despite Lent. Bulbous stock has turned out satisfactorily this season, the quality being far above the average.

R. Jennings and W. E. Calvert are sending out excellent violets, and carnations at the former's establishment are particularly good. The same conditions prevail at the Dale Estate greenhouses and, as has happened during the last three years, the after-Christmas cut has more than made up in quality what may have been lacking in quantity.

F. Smith, of the Connon Floral Co., and Jas. Wilson, of the Woodstock Floral Co., were here on business last week, and Robt. Greenlaw, of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., also passed through. W. G. P.

COLUMBUS, O.

St. Valentine Day's Trade.

Trade was something wonderful here for Valentine's day. From all reports, everybody had a regular clean-up, reminding one of a Christmas rush, and it looks as if Valentine's day will be one of our big days in the future. Roses and carnations were in good supply and were all cleaned up early, and in most cases a great many more could have been sold. Bulb stock sold well and there was a big stock of all kinds on hand. Violets, however, were the heaviest seller and everybody was sold out early. From all reports, the quantity of violets sold must have been twice as great as last year.

"WHO'S WHO—AND WHY"

H. H. WILKERSON.

It is a fine sign for the future of the trade that the young college man is beginning to be a factor in the affairs of the craft. A type of this class of florists is H. H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, who graduated from the Liberal Arts Department of Northwestern University in 1910. He was born at Roodhouse, Ill., in 1886, and is, therefore, 26 years of age. During his college career he was interested in athletics, especially in football, and the training in advancing the ball in the face of opposition has been invaluable to him since he took up the task of procuring and executing important orders. On leaving college he found employment with Henry Wittbold, whose specialty is decorations of whatever kind, and his ability to get results, backed by experience, quickly led to his appointment as manager of the business.

The coöperative plan of advertising worked finely. The principal firms of the city contributed from $10 down, according to what they thought would be proportionate, and there was a good write-up in the local paper. Few or no prices were published, except baskets ranging in price from 75 cents up to $4 or $5, or as high as the customer was pleased to go. At the bottom of the write-up the names of the ones who gave toward it were mentioned, so it really helped everybody. The craft in general think it was a great success and it will probably be tried out again in the near future. J. M.

Monticello, N. Y.—The greenhouse owned by John O'Neal, at Colonial Park, was recently burned to the ground.

Rowley, Mass.—James Lowe has accepted a position as gardener and florist on the estate of Mrs. Fenno, on Ox Pasture Hill.

Mandan, N. D.—Superintendent A. W. Peterson and Horticultural Expert Max Pfander, of the new government experiment station to be established here, have arrived here from Washington, D. C., and have taken up residence in the Voss house, on upper Fifth avenue, northwest, where the offices of the station will be located until the buildings for that purpose are completed on the farm south of town. Eleven buildings, from one to three stories in height, will be erected on different parts of the half-section tract, in the summer of this year.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

After a week or so of really cold weather, the last two or three days have been pleasant and just right for shopping. The wholesalers have had quite a satisfactory week. Stock of all kinds has moved nicely and has been cleaned up nearly every day. The shortage of roses was felt more last week than at any time during the winter and it was simply impossible to take care of the business offered. This resulted in much disappointment to many of the smaller dealers, who only order enough stock to take care of the orders on hand and have nothing to substitute.

The business for Valentine's day seems to improve each year and the day is showing itself to be worthy of more consideration and more special preparation. It has been proved that those who put themselves to any trouble and expense to advertise it are more than repaid. One feature which was noticeable this year was that plants as well as flowers were used extensively. Of course, corsage bouquets were most in demand. Some of the florists, thinking the fact that Valentine's day came in Lent would cut the trade down, did not arrange for enough stock and consequently had their troubles in filling orders, as this was the best Valentine's day in their experience.

Various Notes.

Mrs. E. A. Williams, who has quite an exclusive trade, had some pretty made-up effects in hearts for Valentine's day, for which she had special boxes. The affairs were rather expensive, but were beautiful, and she sold about all she could get made up. She also had some specimen blooming plants with good ribbon effects, which sold well.

For Valentine's day the A. W. Smith Co. had a special corsage bunch, which they advertised at a special price, and the fact that they used in the neighborhood of 200 delivery boys for that day would indicate that they found that it pays to advertise.

Randolph & McClements used all kinds of novelty arrangements for Valentine's day, but principally something that could be worn. The call for all kinds of small flowers for their colonial baskets, as well as for heart arrangements and plants, exceeded their expectations.

Ray Daschbach has had some attractive window decorations of spring shrubbery. These forced plants are quite attractive when used right, and are a change from the regular run of flowers.

The Zieger Co. had an exceedingly attractive store and, judging from the activity displayed inside, one would say that it pays to put some effort into window decorations.

The Blind Floral Co. had some handsome decorated boxes, which, when filled in an artistic way, made a valentine to be admired, and the boxes themselves were worth keeping.

Miss E. B. Maxwell, of Wilkesburg, found the extra time required to arrange floral valentines was well repaid. The occasion was more like an Easter rush and she was well satisfied with the day.

William Turner, of Wilkesburg, grows a good deal of his own stock, but found that he was compelled to be a large buyer for Valentine's day.

Samuel Cape says that, while he is nearer the cemetery than any of the other florists, they are not all dead ones out that way, and that the little love-god was working among his customers and kept him busy.

G. P. Weaklen & Co. say the only thing to which they could compare Valentine's day would be an Easter rush. They sold everything in sight and then quit for want of more of the right kind of stock.

Now the retailers may begin to realize the still greater possibilities of the day if more trouble and expense were taken to advertise the flower valentines, and the publicity committee will find here something to work on. And then the growers might make a greater effort to get a surplus of stock for that day and another special flower day would be added to the list. There are lots of people who would send flowers, though they would otherwise pay no attention to the day.

The employees of the McCallum Co. and the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. will compete in a game of bowling this week and the team of the A. W. Smith Co. is prepared to challenge the winner.

P. S. Randolph, who has been seriously ill for the last two weeks, was able to sit up for the first time February 15.

Tuesday night, February 11, about 1:30 a. m., Ben L. Elliott, proprietor of the John Bader Co., was awakened by the ringing of the alarm connected with the thermostat in the greenhouses. On getting out, he found the outdoor temperature down to 16 degrees above zero and the night fireman, who had been a reliable man for years, sound asleep beside the boilers. Mr. Elliott says this is a case where an investment of $15 with the Standard Thermometer Co., for a thermostat, saved him at least $30,000, as undoubtedly his entire place would have been frozen before morning.

A number of florists who rent plants for funerals, etc., have sustained heavy losses the last two weeks through people throwing their windows open at night and freezing the palms.

J. J. Fuchs, the south side florist, has a patent medicine which he is putting on the market. We will soon be calling him Doctor Fuchs.

Fred Kucher, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. greenhouses at Bakerstown, is a grip victim.

SUMMIT, N. J.

Lager & Hurrell report a good shipping season before the recent cold snap, which suddenly shut off all shipments. They are now potting up and looking over their complete orchid stock preparatory to spring shipments, which, judging by the volume of orders on hand, promise well.

The genial and familiar face of John N. May is missed from the establishment which he built and so ably conducted. He is resting on his laurels, having handed over the business to his son, Harry O., who has been actively associated with his father many years.

William Death reports business around St. Valentine's day as beating all records. He is a live wire and has one of the most attractive stores in town.

OBITUARY.

Charles H. Barrett.

Charles H. Barrett, of Concord, N. H., died February 6, after a long illness. He was born in Weare, N. H., October 4, 1858, and when a boy he removed to Concord and entered the home of the late Cooper Clark. In 1875 he became one of the proprietors of a barber shop. In 1897 he sold his interest in that business and went with a party of twelve, mostly Concord men, to Alaska in search of gold. There he remained for fifteen months and met with good success in his quest for the precious metal. Returning to Concord, he purchased the flower business at 28 Pleasant street, which he conducted until the time of his death.

Mr. Barrett was prominent in Odd Fellowship as a member of White Mountain lodge, Penacook Encampment, Grand Canton Wilsey and Fidelity Rebekah Degree lodge. He was also affiliated with Granite State Council, Royal Arcanum, the Red Men, the United Order of American Mechanics and other orders. He was formerly connected with the Concord fire department as a member of the Kearsarge steamer company, and was clerk of that organization for two years. He was also a member of the Veteran Firemen's Association. In 1877 he married Miss Ida G. Slack, of Lebanon, N. H., who survives him, with one son, Harry C. Barrett.

Funeral services were held at his late residence February 10 and were largely attended, the various organizations with which he had been identified all sending large delegations. Many members of the florists' trade were also present. Among the wealth of floral tributes were a number from the trade, including H. M. Robinson & Co., Geo. E. Buxton, Queen City Florists' Co., of Manchester, N. H., and the Exeter Rose Conservatories.

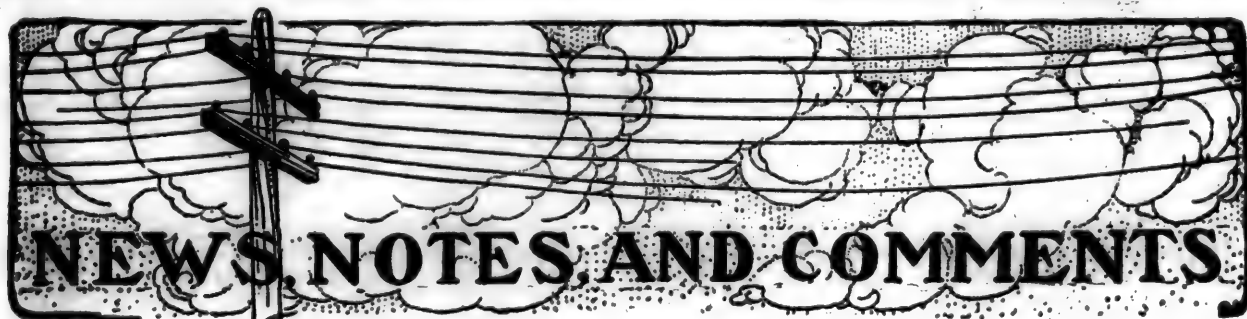

Jeremiah Carter.

Jeremiah Carter, one of the best known private gardeners of Newport, R. I., died at the Newport hospital February 13, of pneumonia, after an illness of only a few days. He was taken ill on Sunday and grew worse so rapidly that he was removed to the hospital. He had been in Newport for forty-five years, being employed for many years as head gardener on the Henry G. Marquard estate and later for the new owner, Rev. Henry Roderrick Terry, until he was succeeded by his son, Benjamin Carter. Mr. Carter's wife died about two years ago and he is survived by two daughters and two sons.

Adolph G. Fleck.

Adolph G. Fleck, a well known florist and seedsman of Oakland, Cal., died on the morning of February 12. He had been in delicate health for a long time, but the immediate cause of his death was pneumonia. He leaves two sisters and two brothers, the latter being interested with him in business under the name of the Oakland Seed & Plant Co. Mr. Fleck was 42 years of age and unmarried. He was buried February 14, the funeral being attended by a large number of the gardening fraternity.

NEWS, NOTES, AND COMMENTS

New London, Conn.—E. W. Clark will occupy a handsome downtown store as soon as the building is completed.

Dallas, Tex.—The Lang Floral & Nursery Co. has certified to an increase in capital stock from $46,000 to $70,000.

Beverly, Mass.—Quincy A. Shaw has secured a permit for the erection of another greenhouse near Hale street, Pride's Crossing.

Chicopee Falls, Mass.—Frank Burfitt finds his new location decidedly advantageous and reports a good season. He has a fine site and expects to put up more glass in the near future.

Mamaroneck, N. Y.—Thomas S. Skinner will inaugurate spring business by opening a store in the village at Easter. The trolley makes easy delivery from the greenhouses, located some distance out.

Green Bay, Wis.—Joseph De Clerc, a nephew of Charles De Clerc, the North Adams street florist, arrived here recently from Brussels, Belgium. The young man expects to make his home in this city and will be employed in his uncle's business.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The Chattanooga Landscape Co. has been incorporated, with an authorized capital of $5,000, for the purpose of doing a general landscape and gardening business. The incorporators are L. F. Lewis, J. C. McWhorter, A. M. Willard, J. N. McCutcheon and G. D. Lancaster.

Westerly, R. I.—S. J. Reuter & Son have established a chain of retail stores in two nearby towns and one at home, and report the result as highly satisfactory. Their shipping trade is as large as ever. Great quantities of carnations and chrysanthemums are being propagated, in addition to a more general line of stock required for store sales.

Kane, Pa.—Mrs. Caroline V. Proper is a busy business woman. In addition to the greenhouse business she has started a company to develop an oil and gas property. The latter promises so well that she will sell her florists' business at the first opportunity, to give her whole time to the larger interests. The florists' establishment consists of two greenhouses fully equipped, with a modern residence.

Elmira, N. Y.—The United States Cut Flower Co. has awarded to the King Construction Co. the contract for another new greenhouse. The present range comprises 250,000 square feet of glass, including 25,000 square feet that were added within the last two years. The officers of the company are: President, Seymour Lowman; secretary and treasurer, Frank Inksater; directors, Hubert C. Mandeville, H. N. Hoffman and J. S. Fassett.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Hugh Seals Floral Co. has filed articles of incorporation. Hugh Seals is president.

Des Moines, Ia.—Frank Howell, an employee in the greenhouses of the Iowa Seed Co., is preparing to start in business for himself on Gray street.

Sayville, L. I.—The greenhouse of Seymour Burr at Oakdale was destroyed by fire February 5. The loss includes many thousands of choice plants, which supplied wealthy residents of Oakdale and elsewhere.

Batavia, Ill.—It is reported that the residence of Henry Wenberg, head of the Batavia Greenhouse Co., was destroyed recently by a fire which also demolished the Pythian building and caused a total loss, in the block, of $20,000.

Des Moines, Ia.—The friends of Miss Perle B. Fulmer will be pleased to learn that she has received an appointment from the government to the position of supervisor of music in Sherman Institute, Riverside, Cal. Miss Fulmer left February 5 to assume her duties.

Dalton, Mass.—James C. McMaster, the dealer in Christmas trees, ferns and decorative supplies, who was formerly located at Hinsdale, Mass., now has his headquarters here. Mr. Dresser, who was Mr. McMaster's partner for a time at Hinsdale, has withdrawn from the trade.

Massillon, O.—The body of Ernst Woodtly, a gardener at the Massillon State hospital, was found recently in the Tuscarawas river. He had been dead several days, while relatives supposed he was spending a vacation in Wooster. There were doubts as to whether his death was accidental or due to foul play. He was 30 years of age.

Camden, N. J.—It is reported that a suit to recover $5,000 damages has been instituted against Charles F. Wonderlin for alleged assault and battery on a young man named Walter Beck. It is alleged that Beck and another young man were "skylarking" in Mr. Wonderlin's greenhouses and he ordered them off the premises, later throwing a flower pot at Beck, striking him on the head.

Charleston, S. C.—C. M. Newman has sold the greenhouses and nursery, which he has conducted for eleven years, to John Salmon, of Baltimore, for $20,000. There are fifteen greenhouses in the range. The business carried on by Mr. Newman under the name of the Carolina Floral Co. also is included in the sale. The business will be continued under the management of F. Aichele, nephew of the new proprietor. Mr. Newman and family have gone to Florida, but will shortly return to their old home in Germany.

Middlebush, N. J.—Edouard C. Matthes, formerly located at Woodside, Long Island, N. Y., is now in business here.

Denver, Pa.—W. M. Burd, who for nine years has worked for various florists, has built a greenhouse and is starting for himself. A second house will be built in the spring.

Marion, Mass.—David F. Roy, superintendent of the H. E. Converse estate, was the leading speaker at the banquet of the New Bedford Horticultural Society, in New Bedford, February 6. He spoke on chrysanthemums, on which he is regarded as a high authority.

Nashville, Tenn.—During the recent meeting of the state horticultural bodies here the Atlas Powder Co. took the visitors to the grounds of the Joy Floral Co., to witness a demonstration of the use of dynamite in ditching, subsoiling, stump extraction and orchard planting.

Kansas City, Mo.—Two boys, locked by accident in the store of the Alpha Floral Co., where they were employed, the other night watched a burglar working in a shoe store across the street. They telephoned for the police, who arrived in time to catch the burglar.

Madison, N. J.—The greenhouse on Sampson avenue, formerly owned by Ordenez Bros. and recently purchased by Miss Mercedes D'Caycedo, was partly destroyed by fire February 7. The establishment was devoted to orchids and much stock was destroyed. The fire evidently started in the basement of the potting shed.

Winona, Minn.—On the evening of February 4, when the temperature was 9 degrees below zero, fire broke out in the boiler room of John Fuhlbruegge's greenhouses. The firemen made short work of the blaze, and hard work enabled the proprietor to close the openings. Fortunately a second boiler at another location was available to maintain the temperature. What threatened to be a total loss was thus held down to $400.

Lockport, N. Y.—Wm. H. Mansfield, son of Thomas Mansfield, was painfully injured in a wreck on an interurban trolley line early in the morning of January 25. In company with a party of the Eagles, he was returning from Buffalo. When within two blocks of the Lockport station, the two special cars occupied by the party ran into a freight train that was standing on the main track. About fifty-three men were injured. One of young Mansfield's knees was dislocated and fractured, and he also suffered a compound fracture of his left ankle. He was taken to the City hospital, where he was expected to remain for several weeks.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

THE Review would like to receive a photograph of a Monitor auto truck from any florist owning one. We would also appreciate information from any subscriber knowing of a Monitor in active service by a florist.

IN Washington they have nicknamed W. F. Gude "The Great Illuminator" since he has been given charge of the inauguration lights, and the newspapers cartoon him standing on the top of the monument holding a torch.

ACCORDING to the press committee the rose show to be held at Boskoop, Holland, in July will be a truly wonderful affair; the quantity of stock held in reserve to keep the exhibits fresh, it is said, will be 50,000 rose bushes and 6,000 standards, all grown in pots.

CORRESPONDENCE received by The Review makes it quite clear that the large body of the trade, the florists who buy and sell in moderate quantities, are strongly in favor of the inclusion of plants, and especially cuttings, in the parcel post, in spite of the unhandiness of the zone system.

ALTHOUGH recommended by the Post-office Department and various senators, the Senate post-office committee in reporting the post-office appropriation bill omits the provision to include seeds, bulbs, cuttings, plants, etc., in the list of articles to which the parcel post zone rates apply. The committee decided to leave the matter to the commission and, if it favors the plan, Congress will later amend the law to include seeds, plants, bulbs and nursery stock in the parcel post class.

AGAIN.

Again this week the Classified advertising in The Review breaks all previous records—last week there were more of these busy little liners than ever had appeared in one issue, but this issue there is another increase, setting a new high mark.

And the important feature is that the Classified ads come practically without solicitation; practically all are received by mail from those who have used them before and who have had such good results they use them again whenever they have any surplus stock they want to turn quickly into cash.

KEEPING UNDER COVER.

Every now and then an incident comes to the attention of the publishers of The Review which shows that some thoughtless florist has handed a copy of the paper to one of his retail customers. The word "thoughtless" is used advisedly, for certainly no florist who gave the subject any consideration would care to place the paper in the hands of his patrons. The publishers exercise the greatest care to see that the circulation is kept within the trade; subscribers should do the same. Don't leave it on the counters in the store, where the first curious customer can pick it up; don't use it for wrapping paper; and, above all, don't recommend it to the nice old lady who wants to know how to make her geraniums bloom in winter.

In reality, florists' prices seldom are so much above wholesale rates as they ought to be; the service the florist gives seldom is charged for at more than it costs. But to one who does not consider the expenses and risks of handling florists' stock at retail, the temptation is strong to try to take advantage of wholesale prices once the sources of supply are known.

Of course, no wholesaler is under any obligation to reply to inquiries from those apparently not in the trade, or to fill orders at wholesale prices, but it is a general annoyance to have the paper pass into the hands of those who should confine their patronage to the neighborhood retail florist. Keep your Reviews out of sight.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

There has been the usual improvement in demand in the second week of Lent. Each year there is a sharp falling off in business Ash Wednesday and the days following, with a gradual improvement beginning in about a week. This year St. Valentine's day came in the second week in Lent, for the first time within the memory of the oldest florist. Just what effect this had on the trade one cannot be certain. A few houses say Valentine's day made little difference; for the most part these are the ones that depend on city trade. Most of the houses say St. Valentine's business was considerably ahead of last year, in spite of Lent, which undoubtedly had some effect. Some houses even go so far as to say they were unable to fill their orders in full. It is the general report that the shipping trade February 12 and 13 was heavy, surprising many who had not kept in touch with the efforts being made to feature the day. City trade, however, did not show

The Wonderful New Winter-blooming Spencer Sweet Pea

HERE is something that you cannot get in quantity anywhere else in the United States, but that everybody wants. All the big sweet pea specialists have been working for a Winter-blooming Spencer. In a few years nothing else can be sold in the cut flower markets. We are now able to offer the flowers in considerable quantities; the true Spencer (Butterfly) type; pink; stems 12 to 18 inches, $2.00 per 100. This is our first announcement of these and we anticipate an extremely heavy demand, so we recommend ordering in advance of day of shipment.

Special fancy Blanche Ferry, $1.50 per 100. Good stock of other varieties, $1.00.

(There are plenty of Peas to be had at 50c to 75c per 100, if you can use the common kind.)

ORCHIDS

You will find our Cattleys the most satisfactory you can use. We pride ourselves on the quality. The supply is so large and steady you can get all you need at any time. Use them in your corsage work and watch your business grow.

VIOLETS

We handle the cream of the crops, Hudson River doubles and fragrant home-grown singles. We believe we have the largest Violet trade of any house west of New York, built up by years of painstaking care to see that our stock always is the best.

VALLEY

We handle Bruns' famous Chicago Market Brand Cut Valley exclusively. Can always supply.

FREESIA

A large crop of fine Freesia now on: stock that will surely please. It is Purity, the pure white.

FANCY ROSES

The new crop is on, strong.

Our cut comes from double the number of plants we were selling from at this date last year. The stock is of the high standard on which we have built our Rose business. Mostly medium to long.

CARNATIONS

There is an abundance of Carnations in this market, but there are not so very many that are strictly good. It is not what you pay but what you get that determines value—and the more you think about it the more certain you are to order your Carnations of Amling.

LILIES

A large crop of good lilies now ready; can supply in any quantity.

BULB STOCK

BEAUTIES

We are particularly strong just now on short to medium Beauties. This is stock that with you will sell at sight—it will please your trade. We also can supply long-stemmed Beauties that you will recognize as a distinctly superior grade.

a corresponding increase. The question is asked if the city florists are as enterprising as those in smaller towns in taking hold of a business opportunity. The special demand was for violets, orchids, valley, gardenias, sweet peas, red roses and red carnations. There was so much stock in the market, especially of violets, that even with the increased demand it was not possible to clean up. There still is plenty of room to push Valentine's day without advancing prices unduly.

There was good, active business at the close of the week, though there was so much stock that prices were extremely low. If there is at present any shortage in the market it is of strictly first-class Beauties; there are not enough of these so that it bothers anyone to sell them. Roses are abundant; even the shorts are equal to all demands. A notable feature is that Sunburst is again coming into the market in some quantity.

Carnations continue extremely plentiful, but some wholesalers say they are able to get somewhat better prices than in the first week in Lent. There is an unusual proportion of splits, which, under the conditions, are extremely hard to sell. Rose-pink Enchantress, split, is nearly unmarketable. Violets are overabundant. Apparently the Chicago market is giving, even at the low prices, a better return than the Rhinebeck growers can get nearer home, for the number of growers shipping has increased. Also, the locally grown singles are in full crop; it is said some of the growers cannot pick all the flowers now being produced by their plants. The pick of sweet peas also has increased considerably. Much of the stock is short-stemmed and difficult to sell; the long-stemmed sweet peas go well. Cattleyas have had another relapse, though the supply does not seem to be unduly large. Bulbous stock continues extremely cheap. How the growers can make any money on tulips, daffodils, jonquils, Paper Whites, freesias or Romans at present prices is difficult to see. Easter lilies and valley also are abundant.

Smilax is slightly less plentiful and rather stronger in price. Other greens are abundant.

Various Notes.

E. E. Pieser, of Kennicott Bros. Co., says his concern wrote more tickets February 15 than on any other one day in the concern's history, and it is the oldest house in the market.

Mrs. George Hartung has returned home from the hospital, much improved in health.

O. Johnson, of the Batavia Greenhouse Co., says he thinks his concern will drop carnations and give the space to roses for next season.

C. W. McKellar says St. Valentine's day certainly did a great deal for the growers of orchids, gardenias and violets and that growers of red roses and red carnations also shared the benefits.

J. P. Sinner is now able to attend to the supervision of the greenhouses of Sinner Bros., though minus the fingers of his right hand.

The Chicago Florists' Club is looking forward to a large meeting March 6, when President Farquhar, of the S. A.

E. F. Winterson thinks that single violets were the biggest seller for Valentine's day.

A. T. Pyfer, of the Chicago Carnation Co., comments on the extent to which growers of rooted cuttings are now shipping by mail. Under the parcel post law the rates are the same as in other seasons, but the advertising the parcel post has given the mail service has caused a great increase in its use.

N. J. Wiator says that he believes that in a few more years St. Valen-

E. F. Winterson, Jr., states that he is making arrangements for the Chicago Florists' Club's bowlers to go to Milwaukee at an early date and would like to hear from those who will accompany the party.

O. W. Frese says Valentine's day must be recorded as distinctly good. He reports much trouble through the non-arrival of mail orders, especially on Sundays and holidays, until too late for shipment on the train wanted, and he is putting in outgoing letters a circular advising customers of the Poehlmann Bros. Co. not to rely on the mail but to telegraph orders wanted for shipment Sundays or holidays. In the supply department T. E. Waters says Poehl-

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association reports that everything cleaned out well last week, with the exception of some lines of bulbous flowers that were in heavy supply.

John Mangel ran a large advertisement in the leading local daily February 11 and incidentally found that St. Valentine's day orders were tripled over last year, although his advertising called attention to the beautiful surroundings of his store rather than to St. Valentine's day.

Charles Erne, of Erne & Klingel, is optimistic about the prospect for stock for Easter and says a canvass of those shipping to his firm indicates that the crops will be at their best.

The Market.

The wholesale market for cut flowers has been dull and almost featureless for the last week. Those in the trade, both wholesale and retail, are keenly conscious that Lent has come. About the only flurry in the market was a slight improvement in the demand for violets and for red roses and carnations for St. Valentine's day, but the volume of business even in these was not sufficient to give tone to an otherwise dull and lifeless market. The weakness in Beauties reported in last week's market letter has rather increased than otherwise. Specials range from 40 to 60 cents, with few sales at the higher figure. Killarneys, Maids, Brides and Richmonds hold their own better than Beauties, the range of 6 to 8 cents for specials being fairly well maintained. Carnations continue to come to hand freely and sell at from 75 cents to $3 per hundred, according to variety and quality. Few bring more than $2 and the bulk of the sales are at 75 cents to $1.50. Lilies are coming to hand more freely and the short-stemmed stock is pressing for sale at almost any figure. Long, perfect lilies, however, hold up fairly well and may be quoted at about $8 to $10. Valley is a drug in the market, at $2 to $3 per hundred. Cattleyas, while not scarce, hold their own at $12 to $35 per hundred. Freesias are plentiful and correspondingly flat, particularly shorts. Sweet peas are also abundant, especially shorts, for the local market is not overcrowded with long-stemmed peas. Tulips are in full supply and of ordinary quality, for with these, as with other stock, there is an excess of short-stemmed flowers. Jonquils are in ample supply and of satisfactory quality, but the demand is rather slack. Paper Whites are abundant, although offerings are not so heavy as last week.

Supplies of asparagus and smilax are in excess of the demand.

Various Notes.

The seedsmen are now having their innings. A round of the downtown stores brought out uniformly favorable reports, both as to actual orders and prospects.

W. E. Cook has just returned from a tour through New England for the Stump & Walter Co. and reports a brisk demand for all kinds of vegetable seeds.

John Morrison reports that the trade throughout New Jersey, New York state, Long Island and Connecticut handed him orders enough to gladden the heart of his house, Weeber & Don. While garden seeds provided the bulk of his orders, there was a notable increase in the quantities of summer-flowering bulbs taken, gladioli and dahlias being particularly in demand.

The office floor of Peter Henderson & Co. hummed like a beehive late Saturday afternoon, under the volume of out-of-town orders covering every line of seeds.

The funeral services of Mrs. Elliott, widow of the founder of the house of William Elliott & Sons, which took place February 12, brought out many of the older men in the trade. Mrs. Elliott, who had been an invalid for some years, died at the age of 85, February 10, at the family residence on West Seventy-first street, where she lived with a son, C. S. Elliott, and two daughters.

E. E. Bruggerhoff, of J. M. Thorburn & Co., said that he was so busy filling orders that he did not know how business was.

Frank Stanley has returned from a tour of northern New York for William Elliott & Sons and reports business booming and orders satisfactory in every department.

Burnett Bros. are thoroughly satisfied with their orders for both garden and flower seeds.

Cannas are the special feature receiving greatest attention just now at Arthur T. Boddington's and are moving out well. It is said the sales last season were 700,000 and of course an increase is expected this year. Harry A. Bunyard says the response to the mailing of the catalogues was the best yet.

W. W. Wilmore's dahlia catalogue, from Denver, gives the first page to a big, yellow, peony-flowered variety, his 1913 novelty, named the Dr. H. H. Rusby, after the distinguished botanist of this city. Dr. Rusby visited the Wilmore dahlia farms last summer, when a snapshot of his party was printed in The Review.

Preparations are progressing rapidly on the final details for the National Flower Show, now only a few weeks away. It is felt that the success of the exhibition, so far as stock goes, is assured; it only remains to stage the stock and get the crowd.

The MacNiff Horticultural Co. has received strong reinforcement in the election as vice-president of Walter J. Barnwell, for twenty years with Peter Henderson & Co. The company is now comfortably installed in its big new PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

It is a curious fact that Lent has made little difference in the cut flower market. Opinions are about evenly divided as to whether business was better before or since Ash Wednesday, so evenly divided that it is safe to say that there is little to choose. St. Valentine's day caused decided activity for two days before and one day after, four days in all. It really seemed that every one did her or his best to interest people in floral valentines; they succeeded, although some critics assert that when February 14 comes in Lent it lacks somewhat in vim. Be that as it may, there was great variety in the valentines made up and sent out, each shop having its own pet ideas. Those who featured the day profited exceedingly, I am told. Violets revived considerably in popularity, while red carnations had a great run. Richmonds, too, were favorites, and sweet peas sold well, while little don't-you-forgets were of course most sought of all.

Cattleyas are in better shape than a week ago; the supply is smaller and less is heard of low prices. Valley has been doing fairly well. Snapdragon is coming into prominence as a decorative flower of fine quality. Daffodils and tulips are cheap and good. There are no other special features to a fairly satisfactory market.

Various Notes.

The Retail Florists' Association held a special meeting in the interest of BERGER BROS.

Publicity is the watchword, so make it public that we have fine stock and can get it to you quickly. Daffodils are good and cheap. Roses are coming in more freely. There are nice Carnations, Violets and Sweet Peas. May we serve you?

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

Trade last week was all that could be expected, and St. Valentine's day did much to bring about this condition. Funeral work was also a feature. An increase in the carnation supply is quite noticeable, while roses continue scarce. Violets and other small flowers especially adapted for corsage bouquets sold at sight. They were of fine quality and plentiful, but the demand was so great that none had a chance to spoil. Pot plants also found a good market.

Various Notes.

A few weeks ago it was our pleasure to announce that a fine baby daughter had been born to Mr. and Mrs. Findlay Neibert, but February 12 the little one was claimed by death, due to an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. Nancy Ann Blakeslee, mother of Warren G. Matthews, passed away at the home of her son February 14. Death came after an attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Blakeslee was in Dayton spending the winter with her son, as is her usual custom. Besides her son, she leaves two daughters and eleven grandchildren. Her first husband, Mr. Matthews, was killed during the Civil war, while her second husband was W. G. Newitt, a well-known old-time florist in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Young are being congratulated on being grandma and grandpa for the eighteenth time.

Joseph I. Schaefer was called to Lima, O., last week by the death of his father.

Mrs. J. C. Ewing, of the Gem City Floral Co., reported a good trade on funeral work last week. They are at present cutting some fine daffodils.

is funeral work and flowers for the sick ones. The weather for the last few days has been bright and spring-like, which is beneficial to the growers. The St. Valentine's day business was highly satisfactory. There was more competition among the downtown florists than heretofore, but it seems that the more stores there are the better business is, as all report a much better trade than last year. Flower valentines are growing more popular with the people each year and all the more sensible people prefer them to the old paper ones.

Sweet peas, pink roses, tulips and daffodils are the best sellers. Carnations are plentiful and pink roses are in fairly good supply. There is quite a demand for azaleas, primroses and cyclamens. Pot hyacinths are coming on and are moving nicely.

The Market.

Business last week was far beyond expectations, on account of Valentine's day. It was said that instead of the mailmen carrying valentines, it was the florist who did so. It seemed that everything was needed to meet the demand, from small pot plants to cut flowers and large pot plants. Basket work was also in great demand. It seemed that the married people remembered that their helpmates were alive and needed a valentine as well as when they were single.

The arrival of Lent seems to have little effect on the market. Roses are scarce and all stock is cleaned up quickly at good prices. American Beauties are a little more plentiful, but the prices seem to have slightly advanced. The Killarneys and Richmonds have improved considerably in quality. Bulb stock is becoming more plentiful. Carnations are taking a backward step in price, as they are coming in fast on account of the sunshiny weather.

The wearing of white flowers on Friday, February 14, in memory of Captain Scott and his four companions who perished in the Antarctic storm, made a large run of single flower sales.

Various Notes

A. F. Barbe had a heavy run on funeral work last week and he reports that trade is brisk.

A visit to the greenhouses of R. S. Brown & Son, at Englewood, is well worth while, as their stock is in fine shape. They will be able to supply

HAVE you ever tried ARTIFICIAL FLOWER Sprays and Pot Plants, as well as Natural Prepared Palms, Arecas, or Sagos, Beech Branches and Maidenhair in connection with your goods in decorating? They are certainly a good substitute for the natural, which at times are scarce and expensive. My goods are always of standard quality and price; no change at any season.

Give my line of Art Funeral Designs a trial. The demand is exceptional. Special catalogue U. F. shows complete line.

UTICA, N. Y.

On St. Valentine's day the members of the Central New York Horticultural Society were treated to a fine address by the inimitable C. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J. The members of the society and friends enjoyed a grand scientific oration on the growth and successful culture of the beautiful and varied kinds of that most curious family, the chrysanthemum. Mr. Totty has certainly mastered the conditions peculiar to this extraordinary family, whether the little, tiny dwarf from many mountains of the world, the antipodean varieties, or those from the quaint and funny lands of China and Japan, or the gaudy monsters with 5-foot stems and heads of immense flowers in all shapes and forms, some twisted and simulating the feather of the ostrich, every petal enriched with a downy substance rivaling the ostrich plume. And the large range of color and form has caused no little wonderment to even that astute grower, C. H. Totty himself, who has spent years of study and companionship among such men as Turner, Pockett and other famous and intense students of the chrysanthemum. Mr. Totty sold over a million plants last year and intends to exceed this quantity by several thousand this year. Mr. Totty, after his lengthy address, answered many questions from the audience and his ready replies elicited much applause.

It goes without saying that the arrangements made by F. T. Proctor and his enthusiastic gardener were a patent asset to the enjoyable evening. The musical contingent also did itself proud and added immensely to the pleasure of this first successful gathering of the Central New York Horticultural Society. Wm. Mathews.

Pawtucket, R. I.—William Hoffman has a grand strain of cyclamens, not excelled by any grower on the island. A big house of splendidly grown plants was cleaned out during the holidays.

Ambler, Pa.—A circular announcing the spring short course is being sent out with the general booklet of the Pennsylvania School of Horticulture for Women, of which M. Catherine Straith is principal and Alfred E. Boicourt farm manager.

JOSEPH W. EDMUNDSON, manager of the California Seed Growers' Association, Inc., reached San Jose February 12 after a swing around the circle of the seed trade, and the Times, of that California town, interviewed him to the extent of nearly a column on the business and political situation in the east.

PERHAPS the light demand for onion seed is due to the condition of the market for onion bulbs. Produce dealers say the supply of last season's crop is greater than can be disposed of at any price and that already the 1913 Bermudas from Texas are moving, earlier than ever before, with a prospect for 4,000 carloads from the Laredo district. There is nothing in sight that promises an improvement in the market, according to well informed produce dealers.

ALTHOUGH recommended by the Post-office Department and various senators, the Senate post-office committee in reporting the post-office appropriation bill omits the provision to include seeds, bulbs, cuttings, plants, etc. in the list of articles to which the parcel post zone rates apply. The committee decided to leave the matter to the commission and, if it favors the plan, Congress will later

LETTUCE is reported looking especially well with the big California seed growers.

ROGERS GOES TO IDAHO.

Referring to a report that Rogers Bros., of Chaumont, N. Y., and Alpena, Mich., are preparing to transfer their operations to the new Idaho pea district, A. L. Rogers was seen at Watertown, N. Y., while on a business trip east, and is credited with the following:

"It is true that we are about to leave Alpena," said Mr. Rogers. "We started our business many years ago at Chaumont. Then about ten years ago we went to Alpena. It seemed to us that there was a changing in the climatic conditions there in the Chaumont territory which we might escape in Michigan. We grow peas and beans exclusively and these plants are especially sensitive to climatic conditions. There seems to be a changing of climatic conditions from year to year. Last year the crop was very poor in our locality, and we have decided to go on to Idaho, where I have found ideal conditions."

The reporter added: "Mr. Rogers has purchased 800 acres of land there, and has access to the products of many more hundred acres."

IN GRATEFUL APPRECIATION.

In a franked government envelope marked "Official Business" an employee of The Review has received the following interesting communication:

Washington, D. C., January 25, 1913.

Dear Sir:

In time for planting I will send to you a package of government flower seed.

As an intense lover of flowers and the growing of plants myself, I hope you will either enjoy planting the seed which I send to you or give them to some friend who can make pleasant use of them.

While some people do not believe in the distribution of seed by the government, yet it is doubtless true that many new varieties of seed have been introduced into different parts of the country in this manner and I am sure that our own portion of Chicago has had much beauty added to it by the interest excited through the seed which I have sent out. With grateful appreciation of the kindness of our Congressional District to me, I am

Yours very sincerely,

JAMES R. MANN,
Member of Congress.

DELIVERY UNDER BOND.

2. The collector of customs may deliver to the consignee shipments which have been sampled, on the execution of a bond in a penal sum equal to the invoice value of the seeds, together with duty thereon. If any, conditioned upon the redelivery thereof to the collector when demanded by him for any reason, within thirty days from the date of entry. Form Cat. No. 3393 slightly modified may be used for this bond, and should be drawn to cover also any recleaning that may become necessary.

RELEASE OR RECLEANING OF SHIPMENT.

3. If the Secretary of Agriculture shall inform the collector that the seeds are not in violation of the said act, the collector shall no longer detain the shipment under that act, but if the seeds are found to be in violation thereof, the collector shall permit the importer to reclean the seeds under bond at the expense of the importer.

re-cleaned seeds as upon the original sample, as outlined in regulation 1.

EXPORTATION OF SHIPMENT.

5. If the Secretary of Agriculture shall inform the collector that the sample of the re-cleaned seeds is not satisfactory, or if the importer shall decline to reclean any shipment of seeds which the Secretary of Agriculture has found to be in violation of the said act, the collector shall refuse delivery of the shipment and require it to be exported, under customs supervision.

DISPOSITION OF REFUSE FROM RE-CLEANING.

6. The collector of customs shall cause the screenings or other refuse removed from the seeds in the course of re-cleaning to be disposed of in the manner prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

FAILURE TO EXPORT TO BE REPORTED.

7. Should the importer fail to export within three months from the date of refusal of delivery any seeds, the delivery of which has been refused under these regulations, the collector shall report the facts to the Department and to the United States Attorney.

WILLFUL VIOLATION TO BE REPORTED.

8. The collector of customs shall report to the Department and to the United States Attorney any willful violation of the act which shall come to his knowledge.

THE FORWARDING OF SAMPLES.

9. Irrespective of the foregoing regulations, collectors of customs will continue to observe the requirement in T. D. 82705 of July 18, 1912, relative to forwarding to the Department of Agriculture samples of certain seeds.

10. These regulations shall take effect from and after February 24, 1913.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Trade on Valentine's day exceeded anything ever experienced by the florists of this vicinity on that occasion. Violets and red flowers were especially sought, but the demand for everything in the shape of a flower was unusually active. The prices of violets and roses were practically doubled in a few hours. One of the noticeable features of this special trade was that it apparently had little deteriorating effect upon the business of the rest of the week.

Various Notes.

The General Assembly has been asked to appropriate $15,000 for the suppression or extermination of the gypsy and brown-tail moths.

F. Macrae & Sons have a remarkably fine lot of lilies coming along for Easter. Their facilities for cold storage place them in a position to furnish these the year around.

Miss Florence Willard, of the Hope Greenhouses, has the sympathy of the trade in the death of her mother on

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

San Francisco, Cal.—G. L. Freeman, of Fall River, Mass., who is something of a globe trotter in quest of orchid plants and buyers, has been spending several days in this vicinity.

Santa Cruz, Cal.—J. P. Parker is building a new house, 20x100, for orchids. He finds the demand for orchid blooms continually in excess of the supply. The Leedham Bulb Co. has erected a new building to be used as office and packing room.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Valentine's day helped out the receipts for the week. The general call was for red. Red tulips, roses and carnations headed the list. Azaleas, hyacinths, narcissi and valley also moved well.

Carnations are becoming plentiful; a few days of sunshine have wrought wonders. Enchantress predominates, but the other colors are also in sufficient supply. Violets, both single and double, are more plentiful. There is a heavy cut of daffodils and the prices are slightly on the decline; in a few weeks they will be in bloom in the yards. Snowdrops and crocus have been out for several weeks. Nurserymen and seedsmen find business active. Preparations for outside planting have started with a rush.

Various Notes.

E. A. McLellan, of San Francisco, stopped over en route to Chicago and New York. He reports business highly satisfactory.

R. C. Cook was assaulted a few nights ago by an intoxicated customer. As a result, Mr. Cook is carrying his arm in a sling. E. R. C.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

As showing the uncertainties of the business, there were days last week when stock piled up quite considerably, although only a few days before there was not nearly enough to go around. Indoor carnations are unusually uneven; some growers who have not fed heavily or given much heat are cutting elegant flowers, with stiff stems; others are sending in weak stock, which gets sleepy almost before it reaches the buyers. Roses are scarce, especially in the better grades. Beauties are good and the cut is about even with the demand. Pretty little Cecil Brunners from the northern growers sell well at good prices.

There is plenty of local bulb stock from outdoors, but only a few good tulips and these are shipped from the north. Keizerskroon does not usually make its appearance so early, but I noticed some elegant flowers of this and Lorraine in a retailer's window. Violets are in fine shape now and valley is better than any ever seen here before. Orchids are plentiful and in considerable variety.

Quite a lot of business has been done in almond, peach and cherry boughs, which make a pleasing change in the windows. Pussy willows also can be seen and they sell well. Plants are scarce, but greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Morris Goldenson left February 6 for the Santa Cruz Islands, for a hunting and fishing trip.

I have frequently had occasion to call attention to the elegant window displays put up by O. C. Saakes and possibly he has never had anything prettier than he had last week. Golden yellow acacias and daffodils, arranged over a purple window cloth, with yellow satin ribbon, were all it consisted of, but the treatment of these simple materials was exquisite.

W. H. Collins, formerly of Tom Wright's staff and later with Dieterich & Turner, has been given the management of the flower department at Howard & Smith's new store. Mr. Collins is an able and experienced florist, having great taste, and all will wish him well in his important charge.

Norris & Son are receiving large consignments of palms from Europe.

Charles Winsel is a busy man these days. He does not get to his Montebello ranch as often as formerly, but reports retail trade at the store as brisk.

Howard & Smith say the advance orders for the new rose, Ramona, are away beyond their expectations, and it looks as though the immense stock of it will soon be sold. It is a safe prophecy that in two years there will hardly be a garden in the south and west that will not have plants of this new Red Cherokee.

Things move rapidly at the big plant of Dieterich & Turner, at Montebello. Hardly has Mr. Turner got one novelty off his hands before another is ready.

I would be afraid to say how many thousands of Prima Donna are here and the last of the Red Cherokees are hardly out of the houses. Then there is another—but one of the trials of a newspaper man is that he cannot always tell what he knows. Dieterich & Turner will be heard from again pretty soon.

J. C. McCullough, lately of Cincinnati, O., was visiting here for a few days and will return later. He is seriously considering going into the growing of bulbs here.

The H. N. Gage Co. now has large cuts of flowers of all kinds from the Montebello ranch. While it is too early yet to speak positively, the bulb stock of all kinds appears to be flourishing quite well, despite the unfavorable season, and apparently Mr. Gage has struck a fine piece of land for his purpose. The pretty little bunches of Cecil Brunner handled at the store have been winners, as well as the varieties of orchids shown, including the old Dendrobium nobile.

The window of the Hayward Floral Co. was ablaze with all the best varieties of tulips last week. Mr. Darling says his transient trade is far and away above that of last year.

Two of the best jobs at the Freeman-Lewis store last week were a $150 pall of violets and a beautiful table decoration of Cecil Brunner roses.

Some of the finest bulbous stock ever seen in the city was arriving at the Los Angeles Flower Market last week. The yellow daffodils, Paper Whites and hyacinths were especially good. Business keeps up here at the same rapid clip.

SEATTLE PARK HOUSES.

The accompanying illustration shows the conservatory and greenhouses recently completed in Volunteer park, Seattle, Wash. The work of erection has all been done by the employees of the park board, under the supervision of the superintendent, J. W. Thompson, and H. L. McGillis, the chief engineer. The materials were supplied by Hitchens & Co., Elizabeth, N. J., and the building is of the curved cave type, with iron construction. The center building, or palm house, is 30x50 feet and twenty-five feet to the ridge. On each side are houses 24x51 feet and at the ends are wings each 24x42 feet, the whole forming a range 200 feet long. A noticeable feature to commercial greenhouse men is the bench construction, which in part of the range is made of slate supported by iron frames, the remainder being made with slate sides and tile bottoms supported by T-iron. The heating throughout is by hot water, two fifty horse-power Ideal boilers doing the work. The park board saved approximately $5,000 by doing its own construction, the total cost being about $20,000, while the local contractor's price was $25,000. The building is situated in one of Seattle's most central parks, on Capitol

Hill, and adds a finish to the formal character of the surroundings. The stock of plants has not yet been delivered, but at present there is a fine display of Primula obconica, P. Sinensis and cyclamens grown at the city propagating plant at Jefferson park by our old friend, C. Hoffmeister, who for the present has charge of the new buildings. T. W.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

Since the arrival of Lent, business of all kinds, with the exception of funeral orders, has been a scarce article. The funeral work is well divided and all the retailers have had a fair supply. Stock is cheaper than it has been previously this year. Narcissi and daffodils are now at their best and they are of splendid quality. Carnations are fifty per cent cheaper than they were four weeks ago and the indications are that they will be still lower in price before they advance any. Roses, with the exception of fancy stock—and there does not seem to be an abundance of that—are held at the same prices as they have been for the last two weeks. Violets are good; the bunches are big and the prices are anything the growers can get. Quantities of acacia and fruit blossoms are brought into town daily, and flowers of this sort sell well. Sweet peas move nicely. Valley and orchids hold their own. Lilium longiflorum are good and so far have been bought up rapidly. We can expect an abundance of spring flowers in a short time, and meanwhile the retailers would be just as well satisfied if there was not so much stock in the market.

Various Notes.

Fred S. Higgins is no longer with the Hackel Floral Co. It is his intention to go into the retail business at an early date.

Fred C. Jager has been elected president of the California Retail Florists' Association. A committee for the revision of by-laws was appointed at the last meeting, which was held in Native Sons' building.

THE NEW ROSE

Prima Donna

(Mme. P. Euler, Guillot, 1908)

THE strongest-growing H. T. rose in cultivation combined with a freedom of bloom that equals Killarney. Of the most easy management, responding correspondingly to good culture, throwing strong heavy canes 2 to 4 ft. long in rapid succession; color a deep rose pink; petals waved or undulated on the edges, giving it an elegance of form seen in no other rose; in size the very largest, equaling "Beauty;" its keeping qualities are unsurpassed. This is one of its strongest and best points, making it an ideal shipping rose in any climate. Has been thoroughly tested by ourselves for the past four years and found to be equally good in summer and winter. The past season it was grown in quantity in the two largest rose-growing establishments on the Pacific Coast and has made good; it will be planted heavily during the coming year.

Our young stock is in elegant condition, clean and strong. We solicit your orders with the utmost confidence in its giving you the fullest satisfaction as the largest and most free-forcing rose in cultivation.

THE NOVELTY OF THE SEASON

“RAMONA”

The New Red Cherokee Rose

THIS sensational and magnificent new climbing rose occurred as a sport from the well-known Pink Cherokee, (rosa sinica, var. Anemone.) It is a stronger and more rampant grower than its parent, and produces during the spring and early summer months flowers in such profusion as to entirely cover the plant; in autumn there is a secondary crop of bloom. The flowers are much larger than either the pink or white forms, with brilliant golden-yellow stamens and broad petals of a glorious carmine-crimson color: an unusual shade, wonderfully striking and effective; the foliage is absolutely mildew-proof, a rich glossy-green, so bright that it appears as though varnished. The life-like illustration on the opposite page, showing blooms and foliage natural size, pictures its beauty stronger than mere words.

The original sport occurred on the nurseries of Messrs. Dieterich & Turner, at Montebello, California. They realizing its value and great beauty propagated over one hundred thousand plants, from whom we acquired the entire stock. This is indicative of our faith in its value, and its coming popularity is attested by the fact that we have already booked orders for many thousands of plants, hence we feel that we are safe in stating that “RAMONA” will have the largest first season’s sale of any new rose ever offered to the American trade.

“RAMONA”

will be of special value as a garden rose to the entire Pacific Coast, the Southwestern, Gulf and South Atlantic States; it will prove hardy as far north as Philadelphia. For planting on pergolas, pillars, porches, etc., it is a rose of unique and beautiful effect; in addition, it makes an elegant hedge plant if properly trained and pruned, affording a relief from the stereotyped privet hedges, with the added value of a rich display of color.

We are offering plants of “Ramona” at the following prices, cash with order:

In lots less than one hundred: from 2-inch pots, 35 cents each, $3.50 per dozen; from 3-inch pots, 50c each, $5.00 per dozen; from 5-inch pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per dozen.

In lots of one hundred to five hundred: from 2-inch pots, $20.00 per one hundred; from 3-inch pots, $30.00; from 5-inch pots, $60.00.

In lots of five hundred to one thousand: from 2-inch pots, $125.00 per thousand; from 3-inch pots, $150.00 per thousand.

 Parties desiring to list “Ramona” can be supplied by us with copies of the colored plate shown herewith at the rate of $3.50 per hundred; $30.00 per thousand; larger quantities at special rates.

It is a stronger and more rampant climber than its parent, and produces during the spring and early summer months flowers in such profusion as to entirely cover the plant; in autumn there is a secondary crop of bloom. The flowers are much larger than either the pink or white forms, with brilliant golden-yellow centers, and the petals of a glorious crimine-crimson color; an unusual shade, wonderfully effective; the foliage is absolutely mildew proof, a rich glossy-green, so bright and attractive as though varnished. The life-like illustration on the opposite page, showing the rose at its natural size, pictures its beauty stronger than mere words.

The original sport occurred on the nurseries of Messrs. Dietrich & Turner, at Montebello, California. The realizing its value and great beauty, propagated over one hundred thousand plants, and have required the entire stock. This is indicative of our faith in its value, and its popularity is attested by the fact that we have already booked orders for many thousands of plants, hence we feel that we are safe in stating that “RAMONA” will have the lion's share of the season's sale of any new rose ever offered to the American trade.

“RAMONA”

With its climbing habit, a garden rose to the entire Pacific Coast, the Southwestern, Gulf States, and Atlantic States, it will prove hardy as far north as Philadelphia. For planting on trellises, arbors, and pergolas, it is a rose of unique and beautiful effect; in addition, it makes an excellent hedge plant, when properly trained and pruned, affording a relief from the stereotyped box hedges, with their artificial line of uniform display.

We are offering plants of “Ramona” at the following prices with orders.

In lots less than one hundred: from 2-inch pots, 35 cents each, $3.50 per dozen; from 3-inch pots, 50c each, $5.00 per dozen; from 5-inch pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per dozen.

In lots of one hundred to five hundred: from 2-inch pots, $20.00 per one hundred; from 3-inch pots, $30.00; from 5-inch pots, $60.00.

In lots of five hundred to one thousand: from 2-inch pots, $125.00 per thousand; from 3-inch pots, $150.00 per thousand.

 For further particulars, write to Howard & Smith, 1000 Broadway, New York, or to the nearest florist. For a full description of the variety, please refer to the advertisement in the September 1910 issue of the Florists' Review.

The New Rose Ramona an exact Reproduction from Nature

Howard & Smith's New Hybrid Amaryllis.

THIS magnificent new strain, which we are offering to the trade for the first time, marks one of the greatest advances ever made in this class of plants. They bear flowers of phenomenal size, blooms nine to ten inches in diameter are of common occurrence. The stems attain a height of from three to three and one-half feet, displaying the massive flowers to great advantage.

Any attempt to describe the colors and markings would fail to convey an adequate idea of their surpassing beauty. They range from the pure white ground color, with its markings of rose, red, etc., to rich orange-scarlet, cherry, bright red, crimson, mottled, striped, etc.

We have them in pure self colors without a tinge of green, either in the throat or reverse side, with a satiny-like texture and finish to the entire bloom.

Although amaryllis are but little thought of as a forcing plant, the fact remains that within eight weeks of the date of potting they can be had in full bloom.

For store work they find a ready sale and offer something different to the usual run. They last fully two weeks when cut, or even a greater length of time if taken just as the buds are expanding, developing perfectly in water.

We realize the fact that the price may seem high to the average buyer, but will state here that bulbs of anything of like quality of European collections would cost three times the money. If you want something different, try a few of these bulbs, and force them for your store; they will easily bring $5.00 each flowered in a 7-inch pot.

CLASS A. First size selected flowering bulbs, which can be depended on for not less than two and quite often three spikes, with broad overlapping petals, giant-size blooms, every-one a gem, assorted colors. $1.00 each; $10.00 per dozen.

CLASS B. First size flowering bulbs, not so perfect in form and color as the preceding, but a great advance on the average stock procurable. 50 cents each; $5.00 per dozen.

NEW GERMAN IRIS.

If you are interested in hardy plants, here are four very fine new German Iris, giant-flowered types with blooms equal to the size of "Pallida Dalmatica":

CAPRICE.— Immense flowers, violet blue.

LOUTE.— Standards lilac, falls deep blue.

ISOLENE.— Fully three and a half feet high, giant flowers, standards pale lavender, falls purple overlaid with brown, beard yellow. Up to date one of the finest hybrids in German Iris; a grand thing for cutting TAMERLANE.— Larger than Pallida Dalmatica, standards light blue, falls purple.

Prices $1.25 per dozen; $8.00 per hundred.

Tritomas. Strong Divisions; all the Best Types.

CHRYSANTHA.— Bright lemon yellow. $5.00 per hundred.

QUARTINIANA.— A giant form, orange red and yellow. $7.00 per hundred.

PFITZERII.— The well-known orange scarlet. $4.00 per hundred.

RUFA.— Chrome yellow, passing to light yellow. $5.00 per hundred.

10,000 Adnet's New Hybrid Gerberas.

Two-inch stuff, thrifty and strong, including all colors from the usual Jamesoni type to pure white, yellow, orange, carmine, crimson, rose, etc. Mixed colors. These grow like weeds if you keep the soil off the crowns, last a week cut, better than Marguerites for store work. $2.00 per dozen; $12.50 per hundred.

New Cannas: Strong One to Two-Eye Roots.

MAD. MARGUERITE-MUHLE.— Immense carmine rose flowers; one of the best. $8.00 per hundred.

STUTTGARDIA.— Enormous four-petaled blooms; rich orange-scarlet dotted with darker spots. $6.00 per hundred.

ALFRED MAUTHER.— Deep crimson-scarlet; very fine. $6.00 per hundred.

FURST WEID.— The finest pure crimson on the market today; trusses clear nicely; color rich and glossy. $6.00 per hundred.

MEPHISTO.— Darkest of all cannas; like a Jack rose in color. $6.00 per hundred.

KATE GREY.— Strong roots. $3.00 per 100. KING HUMBERT.— $3.50 per 100.

A Careful Selection of Seed From the Best Asters for Cutting

The H. & F. Quality Select Aster Seed is the safest to plant, because it reduces the elements of chance to your crop, and it is the most economical, because it produces more salable flowers.

Mr. John Gerard, New Britain, Conn., in his letter to us, dated January 18th, said, "During 1912 I have reports that many first prizes have been won from the products of your seeds, and I feel confident that your climate, soil and skill will add annual improvements."

Zvolanek's Crimson, seedling out first generation. Golden West—Color, light yellow selfs, standard slightly wavy. Plant up to ten feet high and branching. If sowed August 25, it begins to bloom in sixty-five to seventy days. Parentage, white late Spencer x Jack Hunter, seedling out first generation.

Orange Nora—Color, standard orange, wings salmon pink, wavy flower. Plant up to ten feet high, of the branching habit. If sowed August 25, it begins to bloom in sixty to seventy days. Parentage, orange late Spencer x Zvolanek's Orange, seedling out first generation.

Norma—Color, bright, clear pink selfs. Slightly wavy. Plant up to ten feet high and branching. If sowed August 25, it begins to bloom in sixty-five to seventy days. Parentage, Countess Spencer x Zvolanek's Pink, seedling out first generation.

Pink Nora—Color, bright pink selfs, slightly wavy. Plant up to ten feet high, of branching habit. If sowed August 25, it begins to bloom in sixty to seventy days. Parentage, Countess Spencer x Zvolanek's Pink, out first generation seedlings. This represents the Gladys Unwin, of the winter-flowering type.

Nora—Color, pure white; slightly wavy, long stem, over thirty per cent bearing four flowers. Plant up to ten feet high, of branching habit. If sowed August 25, it begins to bloom in sixty-five days. Parentage, white late Spencer x Pl. Denner, seedling out first generation. This is the same as Nora Unwin, only winter-flowering.

Morning Star—Color, light, clear rose selfs, of wavy and crinkled habit. Stem long, usually over forty per cent bearing four or more flowers. Plant strong, up to ten feet high, of branching type. If sowed August 25, it begins to bloom in sixty to seventy days. Parentage, rose-pink late Spencer x Pink Beauty, seedling out second generation.

Goldiana—Color, light yellow selfs, standard and wings large and wavy. Plant up to ten feet high, of branching habit. If sowed August 25, it begins to bloom in sixty to seventy days. Parentage, late white Spencer x Jack Hunter, seedling out third generation.

PRIDE OF PORTLAND

The most beautiful Rose-pink Petunia introduced so far. Large, single fringed flowers in greatest profusion. Most valuable for veranda boxes, baskets and flower beds. Has proved a huge success for the last three years in the city of Portland. Selected seed from hand pollinated flowers offered now for the first time at $1.00 per trade packet of 1000 seeds.

THE ELKS' PRIDE

years had experience in every branch of the business, being equally at home among plants and seeds. While large consignments of plants for auction have been arranged for, the new store has been fitted up so as to give greatly increased facilities for catering to the counter trade.

The Guttman Flower Growers Co. and A. J. Guttman Co. have leased a store on the street level at 102 West Twenty-eighth street and have had it refitted for occupation next week. The location is an excellent one, but one door west of Sixth avenue and in the heart of the wholesale flower district.

A. S. Burns, the lily grower at Spring Valley, N. Y., is the producer of Carnation Electra, the splendid seedling exhibited before the New York Florists' Club February 10, scoring eighty-six points.

Eight Pages of Retailers' Cards

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

The Market.

The weather has been more seasonable, the thermometer registering as low as 2 degrees below zero February 13. Bulbous stock is overplentiful, some of the local florists advertising tulips and daffodils at 35 cents per dozen, retail. Business all around was good during the last week.

Various Notes.

February 12 the Connecticut Nursery-men's Association held its annual winter meeting here. The morning session was taken up with routine work and the consideration of matters of mutual interest. In the afternoon Dr. E. H.
Jenkins, director of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, gave an interesting and instructive talk on fertilizers. Ernest T. Coe, of the Elm City Nursery Co., gave a talk on Japan gardens, freely illustrated with beautiful lantern slides.

Last week the New Haven County
Horticultural Society held a special meeting at which John Murray, of the Yale forestry school, gave an interesting talk on landscape gardening. Jas.
D. Cockcroft had on exhibition a vase of his new carnation, Northport, which was greatly admired.

At the plant of the Doolittle Floral
Co. everything is in first-class shape.
The crop of about 3,000 Easter lilies is in fine condition and coming along just right for Easter; there are few diseased bulbs. Bulbous stock is grown here in immense quantities. Last week over 7,000 Spurs were cut and at present there are several thousands of La Reine, Yellow Prince, Keizerskroon, Couronne d'Or and Murillo tulips, all splendidly grown. Azaleas, genistas and spiræas are grown in quantity for Easter. M. Kelsey, the manager of this establishment, drew the writer's attention to a fine single scarlet geranium which he raised last year, and which he feels rather proud of. It is an ideal scarlet, large truss, free and continuous bloomer, good grower and fine habit. More will be heard from this variety later. The roses are in good shape and will be in heavy crop at Easter. White Killarney, Mrs. Taft, Killarney Queen and Killarney are grown in quantity. A few Mrs. Aaron Ward were tried this season and have proved satisfactory.

Thos. Pattison, of West Haven, reports business as satisfactory. He has had quite a lot of funeral work this week, which has kept him on the hop. Stock is in fine condition. The roses, although they have been a little off crop, are now coming along nicely and will just be about right for Easter. The carnations are in excellent shape, White Wonder being especially fine. Mr. Pattison has had considerable trouble this year with his Easter lilies; the disease has been bad; but in spite of the trouble he has quite a nice batch coming along. Daffodils and tulips are grown in quantity and he has no trouble in disposing of all he can grow.

Callas are especially fine here, carrying a heavy crop of large flowers. However, this old variety is to be discarded and the Godfrey planted in its place.
Bedding stock is now being propagated in large quantities and finds a ready sale in his retail trade.

Jas. Bruce's neat plant is in fine condition. Carnations are in heavy crop; especially fine is a bench of Winsor.
Roses are in good shape, especially Killarney and White Killarney. Geraniums are grown in quantity here, as Mr.
Bruce has a heavy demand for them around Decoration day. M. B. F.

ST. LOUIS.

The Southwestern Market.

The market had extraordinary business during last week, especially during the latter part. The milder weather has increased the demand and also the supply. From reports of the leading store men, Lent so far has made little difference and St. Valentine's day was away ahead of previous years, thanks to the good work of the publicity committee, which had a great deal to do with the big increase of business on that day.

Violets had one of the biggest demands ever known, all through the week, and the consignors to this market were equal to the calls made on them. All the stock was of good quality. The top price was $1 per hundred for Mazzuras, while the best California brought about 60 cents. Roses became more plentiful than they have been for the last two weeks, with the price still up on fancy stock of Killarneys and Richmonds.
Beauties in all grades are coming in better. Carnations, too, held up in price all week. These are not so scarce, but the demand cleans them up pretty well.
All week long the market was well supplied with extra fine bulbous stock of everything in season. Tulips, Von Sion and Golden Spur narcissi were especially fine. Easter lilies and callas were plentiful; also lily of the valley. Sweet peas are abundant in all grades. Asparagus, both plumosus and Sprengeri,

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club's meeting, held February 13, was largely attended. This was known as "publicity meeting." The meeting opened with President F. H. Weber in the chair and all the officers present. It was expected that a committee from the Retail Florists' Association would be present to discuss publicity with the club members, but they failed to put in an appearance. W. H. Wells, of the Missouri Botanical Garden, and Alexander Waldbart made application for membership. It was decided by vote to hold the annual carnation meeting March 13, the meeting to take place as usual at the hall and the exhibition to be staged at the store of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., the trustees to have full charge of the exhibition. On invitation of A. Jaenicke, the April meeting of the club will be held at the Missouri Botanical Garden.

John Steidle, of Olivette, Mo., staged a fine vase of seedling carnations, among them some promising new varieties, according to the judges, Messrs. Niessen, Schneider and Widmer.

Chairman Windler made his report as to the work being done by the publicity committee for St. Valentine's day and the work being done for Easter. This brought out a good discussion, in which the principal speakers were Messrs. Irish, Ammann, De Wever, Jaenicke, Fillmore, Guy and Sanders.

Various Notes.

Joseph Rölker, of A. Rölker & Sons, New York, and S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia, were callers last week.

F. M. Widmer, of Highland, Ill., reports that he will build two new rose houses this spring, each 35x125. Mr. Widmer's East St. Louis store has had a splendid run of business of late.

George H. Angermueller reports good shipping trade last week.

rations for the opening of her branch store on South Grand avenue. The fixtures are being installed this week.

Henry Emunds, of Belleville, Ill., received word of the death of his mother at Kansas City and left for that place February 15 to attend the funeral.

Grimm & Gorly say they had the largest St. Valentine's day business ever. Violets and sweet peas had the best call.

Robert J. Windler made pretty window displays of spring blooming plants and fancy boxes of cut flowers for St. Valentine's day. He enjoyed a good week.

Mrs. Buechel, of the Riessen Floral Co., says business has kept up well. St. Valentine's day trade was far ahead of last year.

W. C. Smith, head of the Smith Wholesale Floral Co., says he never has seen so many violets sold for St. Valentine's day as this year.

August Hummert, vice-president of the St. Louis Seed Co., reports that all hands put in a busy week mailing out their spring catalogue and filling up their seed bins to be ready for the big rush which is only a few weeks off. Martin Moran is one of his assistants.

The Retail Florists' Association held its monthly meeting February 17, at the Washington hotel. The attendance was good. There was a general talk as to St. Valentine's day business. C. C. Sanders presided.

The following suburban members attended the club meeting last week: J. F. Ammann, F. M. Widmer, W. E. Ogle, E. W. Guy, M. Schoenberger, W. J. Pilcher, W. A. Rowe, C. Carney, John Steidle and C. E. De Wever. S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia, also was in attendance.

It is safe to say that the wholesalers here, all five combined, handled nearly 250,000 violets February 12 and 13, and the great bulk of them came from the Kirkwood growers. All reported clean sales on these days. It is reported that violets sold better this year than ever before, the price being more reasonable, making them within the reach of everybody. The work of the publicity committee, too, had a great deal to do with the increase in demand. J. J. B.

of snow. As a result, some care is required in the packing and the wrapping of plants and flowers. There has been quite a demand for cut flowers in the last few days, for presents to sick friends and for St. Valentine's day. The market is well supplied with stock of all kinds. Roses of all kinds are coming in better. There are quite a few tulips, but most of them are short in stem. Hyacinths are scarce, and there is a big demand for them. Carnations are more than plentiful, but are mostly splits and weak stems. Lily of the valley is fine; the best seen in the market for some time. White and purple lilac, with forget-me-nots and bachelor's buttons, have made their appearance.

Various Notes.

Bulbous stock at the greenhouses of the Baker Floral Co. is a magnificent sight, especially tulips and daffodils. Carnations are looking better and lilies are fine, especially one house for Easter. Azaleas and spiræas are also seen in good shape. American Beauties and Baby Ramblers are coming along well for Easter.

P. R. Quinlan's greenhouses are in good shape, especially the rose houses. They are showing some fine azaleas at the retail stores. There was a great demand for this stock at St. Valentine's day, the market being cleaned up.

W. E. Day Co. has made quite an improvement in its store. A lattice background of stained green has been put in, which makes it quite attractive. For St. Valentine's day this was decorated with wild smilax and studded

The Florists' Club's meeting was held at the Onondaga hotel Sunday afternoon, February 16, and was well attended, about twenty-five members being present. An entertainment committee was appointed to arrange for the next meeting.

Chester Harris opened his new store St. Valentine's day and was well pleased with business. He thinks it is a better location, as there is more traffic.

Warner Boulتمان, manager for E. W. Edwards Co., reported business satisfactory. He says there is a big demand for hyacinths and none to be had.

F. W. Bannister, of the Fairmount Shop, is well pleased with business. He is kept busy with funeral work.

Bellamy Bros. are showing some fine primulas and tulips in pots. They report business satisfactory. W. C. M.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSEYMEN.

Officers for 1912-1913: Pres., Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; Vice-Pres., J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-eighth annual meeting, Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

C. H. PIPER, of Mechanicsville, Ia., has sold his nursery business to A. Murray & Son.

THE Sunnyfield Nursery, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is now under the management of Albert Tersteeg, a nurseryman of extensive experience.

N. W. SCHRUNNER and Richard Grah, of San Diego, Cal., are preparing to establish a nursery on Highland avenue, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets.

B. H. FARR, Wyomissing, Pa., has secured seventy acres of excellent land within ten minutes' walk of his propagating plant and eventually will devote it all to the nursery business.

F. W. GLENN, formerly sales manager for the Phoenix Nursery Co., at Bloomington, Ill., has resigned that position, with the intention of starting in the nursery business on his own account in the near future. He is said to have an option on some land in the neighborhood of Bloomington.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Northwest Nursery Co., of Valley City, N. D., the following officers were elected: President, Congressman Geo. M. Young; vice-president, Dr. E. A. Pray; secretary, E. A. Hilborn; treasurer, P. A. Pickett. A dividend of ten per cent was declared and, in addition, a substantial surplus was reported. The company has made preparations for placing additional area under cultivation and increasing the volume of business.

ALTHOUGH recommended by the Post-office Department and various senators, the Senate post-office committee in reporting the post-office appropriation bill omits the provision to include seeds, bulbs, cuttings, plants, etc., in the list of articles to which the parcel post zone rates apply. The committee decided to leave the matter to the commission and, if it favors the plan, congress will later amend the law to include seeds, plants, bulbs and nursery stock in the parcel post class.

LARGE TREES OAKS AND MAPLES, PINES AND HEMLOCKS ANDORRA NURSERIES

Wm. Warner Harper, Prop.
Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa.

NURSERY interests have undergone radical changes in our generation, said L. C. Stark in an address before the Tennessee Nurserymen's Association; in fact, they have developed to such a point that for improvements and betterments in a larger sense we must look outside our internal affairs. In planning for the future we must look beyond the confines of our own business. The nurserymen, of course, desire increased plantings of trees, and the orchardists want a greater market for their products. To accomplish this object in a large way, it is necessary to greatly increase the consumption of fruit.

THE government is starting another free distribution, according to a press notice sent out February 12. It says in part: "The Department of Agriculture is getting ready to fill requests for the basket willow cuttings grown last year on its experimental farm at Arlington, Va. Distribution of these cuttings takes place early in March each spring, to farmers and others who wish to make trials of basket willow on lands too wet for other crops. From 50 to 100 cuttings are given each person. In the basket willow investigations carried on at the Arlington Farm and at Ames, Ia., particular attention has been given to the development of American species for basket making purposes. The European species have never proved themselves entirely adapted to American conditions. At present there is at Arlington a willow garden containing nearly 500 lots gathered from all parts of the country and representing practically every species and variety found in the United States and Canada. A system of selection which has been carried on for several years is already indicating which strains show the best basket willow characteristics for American conditions."

REED CASE WON.

Has the work of the state horticultural inspectors of Colorado been nullified and are they without authority to act without subjecting themselves to individual liability? Archibald Lee, former assistant attorney general, answers both questions in the affirmative. He adds that it appears as if the Colorado state law creating the horticultural department has been held unconstitutional.

The gloom in the Colorado horticultural department is a result of a verdict in the United States district court for $152 in favor of W. C. Reed, of Vincennes, Ind., against F. L. Rounsevell, former inspector. The jury was out two days. Mr. Reed sued for $6,500 for the destruction of approximately 10,000 apple trees shipped to Arapahoe county, Colorado. Rounsevell went into Arapahoe county and ordered the trees burned because they had, in his opinion, crown gall and other dangerous diseases. The suit was filed nearly three years ago. The American Association of Nurserymen came to the aid of Mr. Reed, as previously reported in The Review, on the theory that if the inspectors were permitted to condemn stock on their own judgment the trade would lose thousands of dollars. They attacked the constitutionality of the law and charged Rounsevell with malice. Arrayed against the nurserymen's association were the various fruit growers' associations and individuals who claim that the state officers were right in condemning the trees; that crown gall made its way through irrigation channels from orchard to orchard and was a fatal malady, even though its work was slow. Judge Lewis ordered that the jury pay no attention to the charges of malice charged against Rounsevell and assess only the actual damages.

REFORESTATION.

Forester Graves told the House Committee on Agriculture at Washington recently that there were on the national forests a great many nurseries, but in some cases the service found it desirable to buy nursery stock for experimental or other purposes. For the most part the Service raised its own stock. Much of the seed was collected on the forest, though it had purchased a good deal of seed from other sections. Last year about $90,000 was spent on collecting and purchasing seed and the balance of the money was spent on work in the nurseries and for the work of sowing and other methods of reforestation. About 20,000 acres were reforested last year and this year 30,000 acres would be reforested.

PINES FOR WIND-BREAK.

Would you consider Pinus Austriaca a safe tree to plant outdoors in this part of New York state? I wish to make a wind shelter, eastern exposure. The climate here is cold in winter, sometimes 36 degrees below zero; height, 1,700 feet above the sea level. If the pine mentioned is not suitable, will you please name a variety more suitable to this part of the Catskills?
J. C. A.

Pinus Austriaca is a dense growing, hardy pine, which will withstand even the temperatures you name. Its massive branches, covered with long, thick dark green needles, make a most effective wind shelter. The Scotch pine, P. sylvestris, while not so dense in habit as P. Austriaca, is more rapid-growing and soon makes an effective block. It is suitable for the most exposed and wind-swept situations. The white pine, P. Strobus, is another reliable and quick-growing pine for this purpose, but is less dense than the two other sorts named.

NEW CARNATIONS

Wm. Eccles The First Prize winner at Detroit last year in the Red or Scarlet class, and the Silver Medal winner of the New York Horticultural Society for the best undisseminated seedling. The Scarlet everyone was waiting for. Has a strong, rigid stem, a perfectly formed 3½-inch flower, non-bursting calyx, highly perfumed, a grand keeper and as free as any Scarlet to date.

Lady Northcliffe (Engelmann). A beautiful Salmon-pink in color, much resembling Pink Delight. Has a well built up flower and just enough in it not to burst the calyx. While the flower is not the largest (about 3 inches), it is fully as free as May Day and will surely make a grand bread-and-butter sort.

British Triumph (Engelmann). One of the finest things ever raised in England. The color is a striking shade of Crimson. The flower is 3½-inch in size and well built up. It has the sweetest perfume of any Carnation ever raised, and its keeping qualities are the best. Has a fine stem, good constitution and is free.

PRICES: $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000

Also Mrs. C. W. Ward and Enchantress. Fine rooted cuttings, ready to ship.

ENCHANTRESS SUPREME

THE best Sport of Enchantress up to date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguish its parent. Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching. A good all-round Carnation that retains its color at all seasons. Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. Has shown no inclination to be a burster. The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years' duration convinces us of its great value.

WICHITA, KAN.The Market.

A young Christmas happened here February 13 and 14. The weather was exceptionally good, with no wind and with a temperature ranging around 40 to 50 degrees. Some special effort in window displays, coupled with a small newspaper ad or two, seemed to put people in the valentine notion. At any rate, the business surpassed that of any previous Valentine's day. There was also a noticeable increase in the demand for blooming plants, both single and in fancy baskets or pottery arrangements. Fancy cut flower boxes, hearts, etc., also sold better than usual. Violets were sold out early, as usual, but were followed closely by Beauties, red roses, red carnations and other cut flowers. The quality of the stock was excellent, while the prices followed their regular range.

The whole season's business, so far, has been quite satisfactory, the dull days being few and far between. The sales show a steady increase over corresponding periods last year, and there is no reason to believe that this will not continue through the spring season. The winter has been unusually mild, which has been a welcome change from last year's severe treatment. The lettuce growers have not been so fortunate with the demand for their product. For some reason, lettuce has been hard to dispose of this season, and in some cases a grower has found himself with a full crop more than ready to cut and no one who cared to use it at any price. In one or two instances he has been forced to pull and dump the crop in order to make room for his next planting.

New Single Rose IRISH FIRE FLAME

A new departure in Roses for winter forcing. Irish Fire Flame is a single rose with only five petals, and is the most striking and the best single rose Messrs. Alex. Dickson & Sons have ever raised. It flowers profusely during the winter months, producing both single flowers and sprays of from three to five buds. The bud is an intense fiery crimson scarlet at the tip, shading at the base of petals to orange salmon; the open flower is a beautiful bright salmon. It is of strong, vigorous growth, with dark green foliage, reverse of leaf deep bronze.

We have tested this rose for two years and can confidently recommend it as a sterling novelty in roses. It has been awarded a Gold Medal by the National Rose Society of Great Britain and has taken several prizes for table decoration.

Growers are beginning to spend a little time in sizing up the lily crop that is supposed to be coming in for Easter. Unless something unexpected happens, the local growers are going to make connections all right. Both giganteums and Formosas are being grown. The Formosas are in a little of a hurry, while the giganteums will have to be hustled somewhat to make a showing.

WASHINGTON.

The Market.

Washington retailers are well pleased with the volume of the St. Valentine's day business. The rush made the stores look as if they were handling an Easter or Christmas business. Extra help was necessary in many instances and the designers were pushed to the limit. A number report good sales of potted plants.

There is some little demand for yellow calla lilies, magnolias, peach, crab-apple and other spring blossoms, and none of these can be supplied by local growers, with the result that business is being turned away. Other novelties are also in demand and this will be increased during inaugural week.

The supply of roses is still small, compared with the demand. Carnations are meeting with a ready sale. Violets are being retailed on the streets at wholesale prices. The supply of snapdragon is larger, but as it is in ready demand none is left over. Locally grown Easter lilies seem just now to be a little better than those coming in from out-of-town points and are meeting with ready sale at about $12.50.

While it is generally believed that the usual Easter stock will be of sufficient quantity to meet all demands, and maybe more, there is likely to be a shortage of rambler roses. The growers report that spiraeas, azaleas, lilacs, rhododendrons and other plants will be ready in ample time.

Various Notes.

Harrington Mills, William F. Gude and Charles E. Berry were the judges of the store decorations in connection with the automobile carnival last week. George Cooke decorated the Post cup winner. Nine 6-foot basket urns were filled with American Beauty and Killarney roses and other blooms. The walls and ceiling were draped with smilax. The McReynolds trophy went to a decoration done by J. H. Small & Sons. Their display consisted of walls, ceiling and floor pillars covered with smilax; vases and boxes of tulips, azaleas, daffodils and American Beauty roses. O. A. C. Oehmler deserves commendation for the excellent showing he made in carrying out an original design. For his customer he installed a veritable forest of spruce trees and clinging vines, lighted up by Japanese lanterns of fantastic colors. To one side at the rear was the "old well" with its sweep. There was also the large stone wall and garden seats. Azaleas, lilacs and other blooming plants completed the decoration, which was surely a prize winner.

The Market.

Last week the outside temperature rose to 50 degrees, after three days of zero weather. Trade is moving along nicely and the stock is just about meeting the demand. Roses are in good supply and some extra fine flowers are coming in. The Killarneys are all that could be desired. Carnations are plentiful, but move quickly. Violets and sweet peas were cleaned up on St. Valentine's day. Tulips can be had in quantity and they command fair prices. Some fine azaleas are to be seen. Valley is a little scarce and the quality is not up to the usual standard.

Various Notes.

Louis Barton is cutting some excellent Killarney at his greenhouses in Elmwood.

The Bon Ton Flower Shop reports trade good. This new shop is receiving a large share of the select trade.

Some first-class violets, sweet peas and roses are coming in from A. N. Pierson's plant at Cromwell, Conn. Mr. Pierson has gone to Florida for the benefit of his health and expects to be absent about a month. He will go to Panama also, to have a look at the big ditch.

E. S. Drake, of the Cedar Hill Greenhouses, was so unfortunate as to run down a boy in the street with his auto. Mr. Drake was exonerated in the court, as the boy was found to be deaf and did not hear the horn.

Spear & McManus and Edward Welch made many floral designs for the funeral of Col. L. Heublein. Among these was a casket cover of violets and lily of the valley. W. S. C.

Raleigh, N. C.—J. L. O'Quinn & Co. have opened a downtown store at 124 West Martin street, the first in town. St. Valentine's day trade was double that of last year.

Rowayton, Conn.—Samuel Redstone, who has charge of the greenhouses of Traendly & Schenck, at Brookside, has sailed for England, where he will spend some weeks among relatives at his former home, returning here in the spring.

EASTER LILIES

Hanging Now

We have 3 houses of the best MULTIFLORUM EASTER LILIES, raised for us in Japan from selected bulbs: 5½ to 6-in. pots, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 buds to a plant, right for Easter, 12c per bud. Secure your order now.

HYACINTHS, TULIPS, NARCISSI

All of our bulbs are of our own importation, obtained at very high prices in Holland.

HYACINTHS, bulbs of our own importation, first-class. Gertrude, best pink; La Grandesse, best white; Grand Maitre, best lavender blue; King of the Blues, best dark blue, 4-in. pots, now $10.00 per 100; Easter, when in bloom, $12.00 per 100.

TULIPS, Tournesol, best double, variegated red and yellow; Murillo, rose; Imperator Rubrum, double red; Couronne d'Or, double yellow, 3 bulbs planted in 4-in. pot, $15.00 per 100 pots; will bloom one week before Easter, just right for Easter trade.

NARCISSI, Von Sion, best double yellow narcissus or daffodil, double nose bulbs, 3 bulbs in a 5½ to 6-in. pot, for Easter blooming, $3.00 per doz. pots.

CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSES, 6-in. pots, right for Easter, large plants, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 per plant.

SPIRAEA GLADSTONE. We have a big house full of these, ready, in bloom and bud, one week before Easter or when desired, 6 to 7-in. pots, 35c, 40c, 50c, 75c.

MAKING GOOD AT EASTER

There is nothing better for florists to do, than to hurry to Aschmann's, for Easter is due:

The plants he has will be just in their prime, he has grown them right to the tick of time. Like trumpets of alabaster made, his Lilies are quite the best in the trade:

And flowering plants of every sort, that the public buy, of him can be bought.

No better are seen the whole land o'er, Ferns, Tulips, Narcissi and Palms galore:

While the Araucarias are nearly sublime, stately and green, with rich life they shine.

Take no chances this year, make of the best: send orders to me and I'll C to the rest.

ARAUCARIA EXCELSA, our specialty. We have a stock of 2000, April, 1912, importation, and can meet all demands. 5, 5½, 6-in. pots, 3, 4, 5, 6 tiers, 12, 15, 20, 25 to 30 inches high, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

SPECIALTY OF FERNS. We have them to burn—2 houses full. Boston, Whitmani, Scholzei, Scottii, 5½, 5½, 6, 7-in. pots, 30c, 35c, 40c, 50c, 75c to $1.00.

GIATIASIL, new fern of weeping habit, resembles Scottii, only more compact, shorter and thicker; 5 and 5½-in. pots, 35c to 40c; 6-in., 50c to 75c. In pans or pots.

CINERARIA HYBRIDA, our usual well known strain, 5½ and 6-in. pots, in bud and bloom, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c. For present or later delivery.

BEGONIA Gloire de Lorraine, 5½-in., 6-in., in bloom and bud, 35c, 40c, 50c to 75c.

BEGONIA LUMINOSA and other fine strains of Vernon type, 5½-in., 25c.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA DAISIES, 5½-in., 25c to 35c.

Our so well known MOONVINE, IPOMOEA NOCTIFLORA, is now ready; 2½-in. pots, $5.00 per 100.

CYCLAMEN, 5½-in., in bloom and bud, 35c, 40c, 50c; 4-in., 25c.

NOVELTY IN PANS

All the pans are very fine, well established, filled last fall, and can be shipped safely in or out of pans.

6-in. azalea pot or pan, filled with a large Wilsoni fern, 50c per pan.

6-in. azalea pan or pot, filled with a large Pteris Wilsoni fern, and in the center 1 large Dracaena Terminalis, red foliage, 75c to $1.00 per pan. These pans are very showy.

6-in. azalea pot or pan, filled with Albo-Lineata and other large dish ferns of the best varieties, such as Taussimensis, Mayll, Falcatum and others, 50c per pan.

6-in. azalea pot or pan, filled with Asparagus Plumosus, large size, 10 to 12 inches high, 35c to 50c per pan.

Regular 6-in. pans, filled with Asparagus Plumosus or Sprengeri or Wilsoni and table ferns, very attractive, 25c to 35c per pan.

6-in. pans, filled with Asparagus Plumosus or Sprengeri and dish ferns, and Kentia Forsteriana in center, only 35c per pan.

FIGUS ELASTICA, or Rubber Plant. We have about 1000 or more, spring 1912 propagation, in fine state. 5½-in. to 6-in., 30c, 35c, 40c and 50c; 7-in., 75c.

PRIMULA OBCONICA

We are well prepared this year, 3000 on hand, all sizes; in previous years we never could supply half the demand; the reason the demand was so large in, because they bloom all the time, are good keepers and shippers. 4, 4½, 5, 5½ and 6-in. pots, 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, 35c and 50c.

DRAECAENA Terminalis, red colored, 5½-in., 40c.

New American Beauty GERANIUM

We take great pleasure in introducing to our many customers for 1913 our new American Beauty Geranium. For the first time, after working on it for nearly three years, we are offering it for sale.

Our Claim for American Beauty Geranium is that it surpasses all other Geraniums in its real American Beauty Color. The individual blooms measure 2½ inches across. It is semi-double, medium dwarf, of stately shape. It has come to stay as a money maker. Prices to the trade: 2½-in. pots, 50c each, $5.00 per doz.; 3-in. pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per doz., cash. Write for circulars in natural colors and prices on large lots.

Palms, Ferns and Decorative Plants

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

In some respects Valentine's day hardly came up to expectations. The long sweet peas sold the best and most easily of all. Single violets, red carnations and Richmond roses moved nicely; in fact, they cleaned up. The single violets, mostly from local growers, were in large supply and crowded the doubles so hard that the latter were little called for. Valley, orchids and gardenias did not sell well, either.

Roses are coming in strongly and sell well. The average quality of Killarney, Bride and White Killarney is high. Choice Beauties are plentiful, but do not clean up any too well. Carnations are in large supply, but day by day the available supply of good, solid stock is decreasing. The receipts of dumped stock and split carnations are large and are bringing only the low prices which they merit. The receipts of Easter lilies have increased largely and the demand, while good, has not kept pace with the supply. The receipts of bulbous stock continue heavy. Considerable of it is of better quality than a fortnight ago. These flowers, however, continue to have a rather poor market.

The shipping business is good and includes everything in both flowers and supplies.

Various Notes.

C. E. Critchell has been having a good call for green sheet moss for hanging baskets.

When Ray Murphy answers the phone these days he hears, "Hello! Is this the new papa?" A baby daughter arrived at his home on Saturday, February 8. Both baby and mother are getting along nicely.

Fred Gear had a big run on his special valentine boxes for St. Valentine's day.

Ben George has been cutting some excellent Dutch hyacinths, daffodils and Murillo tulips.

L. H. Kyrk has been getting in some fine sweet peas from William Taylor, of West Pine Hill.

E. G. Gillett's company, his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ohmer, of Wichita, Kan., have left for Traverse City, Mich.

The store of the Hill-Heller Co. had an excellent St. Valentine's day business. This firm has been doing splendidly on all of these special days.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange has been having a good run on its excellent sweet peas.

Among the trade visitors in town last week were: H. D. Crowell, of the Pennock-Meehan Co.; Milton Alexander, of Lion & Co., and Martin Reukauf, of Bayersdorfer & Co.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubes, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2 1/2-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

CARNATION CUTTINGS.

I can supply the very best carnation stock on the market. What you need is not the cheapest stuff you can buy but stock that will produce the most and best flowers next fall and winter. I use stock plants selected each year as the most vigorous ones in the field, I grow them cool and flower very little; all the vigor of the strongest plants goes into the stock you buy from me. This is my specialty. All stock is grown and shipped under my own eye. I stand back of every shipment that leaves my greenhouses, guaranteeing satisfaction absolutely.

Send for my list of varieties and prices, also my special proposition to grow your stock on until your field is ready.

Greenhouse Heating.

THE worst of the winter has passed and at no time has there been the anticipated fuel famine; the only trouble was before the season really had opened, when there was a sharp flurry in anthracite that also was felt in smokeless coals.

THE price of crude petroleum has advanced to the point where it is not economical as a greenhouse fuel and some who use it are, indeed, finding it difficult to procure a supply to keep their boilers going. Not so long ago the market for crude was $1.35 per barrel; now it is $2.50 and the trade expects to see $3 before the production begins to increase in response to the advance in price.

RESIDENCE AND GREENHOUSE.

Please tell me whether our residence and greenhouse can be heated with a Wilks hot water boiler. The size of my greenhouse is 9x50 feet. I think it is what you would call a lean-to house. It is eight feet high on one side and five feet six inches on the other. I am thinking of remodeling the front of our residence, enlarging room No. 1, the front room shown on the enclosed diagram, and making a flower store of it. I have been wondering whether I can heat the rooms, Nos. 1, 2 and 3, numbering them in order from the front backward, with the same boiler. The rooms are all on the ground floor. The kitchen, at one side of room No. 3, does not need any heat, as we have a gas range there, for cooking. The greenhouse is attached to the rear of the kitchen.

Can I use radiators in these three rooms? If so, please let me know what amount of radiation is needed for each room. The following is the size of the rooms, with the doorways and windows: Room No. 1, 13x29, 9 ft. 6 in. high, one window 6x6 ft., two windows each 3x5 ft., and two doors each 3x7 ft. Room 2, 13x21, 9 ft. 6 in. high, two windows each 2 ft. 4 in. x 6 ft., one window 5x6 ft., and one door 3x7 ft.; this room contains an open stairway, with a small hallway at the landing, which is 5 ft. wide, 9 ft. 6 in. long and 8 ft. high. Room 3, 10x11½, 9 ft. 6 in. high, two

If I can not use this boiler, what size of boiler will fill the bill? H. T.

The size of the boiler is not stated and hence it is not possible to say whether or not it will heat the greenhouse and the three rooms in the dwelling, but with a boiler of sufficient size there should be no difficulty in doing so, provided the boiler can be placed below the level of the floor. As nearly as can be determined from the sketch furnished and from the description given of the rooms, a boiler should have a rating of about 900 square feet in order to heat them easily.

For heating the greenhouse, which is 9x50 feet, with two feet of glass in the south wall and four feet in the north side, about 300 square feet of radiation should be provided by running a 3-inch flow pipe along the north wall and across the east end of the house, taking off eight 2-inch return pipes. Three or four of these should be on the south wall and the others near the middle of the house.

For heating room No. 1, about 180 square feet of radiation should be provided; in room No. 2 the amount needed is about 125 square feet, while room No. 3 should have 85 feet. Taking these figures, it would appear that about 700 square feet of radiation would answer, but for economy of labor and fuel it will be well to have a boiler with a rating of 900 square feet, as already suggested.

From Boilers to Poetry

Plainwell, Mich., Feb. 6, 1913.

S. Wilks Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen:

Of the Heater I purchased of you,
I will write a line or two
Just to say I've got it going
And that I am more than crowing;
For it is the finest made,
Puts all others in the shade,
For no night firing does it require,
Therefore saves me lots of hire,
Putting dollars in my pocket
And it's always on the docket.
Fired her first on New Year's Eve,
Said to my wife, "I'd just as leave
Go to bed and stay all night,
For I know she'll be all right."

Filled her up at half past seven,
Then turned in and such a "Heaven";
For I'd been up night and day,
Off that dandy new mown hay,
Keeping fire in my old steam boiler
Till I was very thin and holler.
Mine is a 30—48
And you just bet I'd hate
To part with it for a million,
For it's the one "Heater" of a billion;
And to think that I can sleep,
While the cold blasts around do creep,
Makes me happy as can be
And I sing praises unto thee;
That you have come to our relief
And friends, 'tis my belief
That this one will sell you more;
I had them by the score,
Looking over my Heating Plant,
Until I've got the "Turkey Dance."

Any time you want a boost,
Address a note to my caboose,
I'll surely give you the best there is
For Wilks Heaters do the biz.
Now I'll close my blamed old trap
Before you up and give me a rap;
Don't care a cuss if you do,
'Tis my Wilks Heater and I've paid you.
And the comfort I've received already Has made me very steady
And I'd not say a thing
But would continue to sing
The praises of your workmanship,
For I know there's not a slip;
So I think I'd better stop
And sign myself

W. B. SCOTT.

This letter was first written to you on January 10, 1913; for some reason I did not mail it, so tonight I rewrite same. We have since had weather 6 below zero and I have no reason to change any word whatever in the above. Am more than pleased with my purchase and furthermore will state that last year I burned nearly thirty tons of coal heating a less amount of glass than I now am, and this season I will not burn over five tons, if I do that.

The thirty tons cost me $112.00; the five tons will not cost me over $25.00 or $30.00 at the most. I paid $90.00 for my Heater, $8.00 for Expansion Tank, $2.57 freight—total, $100.57; cost of installing, about $5.00; new piping, etc., about $100.00, making a total expense of about $206.00.

The difference between $112.00 and $30.00 is $82.00. I sold my steam boiler for scrap iron at price of $18.00. In three seasons' time I will pay for my new heating system and make up the interest the money would have brought me.

Respectfully,

[Signed] W. B. SCOTT.

the ridge and six feet high to the gutters. There are three feet nine inches of glass in the south wall. The east gable is protected by the boiler shed, except sixty square feet of glass above the boiler shed. The west gable is nearly all glass and has two doors. Attached to the west end of this house, and running in the same direction, is house No. 2, a tropical house, 10x16 feet and eight feet high to the ridge, with 4-foot sides. There are two feet of glass in the south wall and the west gable is glass. South of the boiler room, at the east end of house No. 1, is a lean-to, 8x10 feet. It is exposed on the east and south and has four feet of glass in the south and east walls. Its sides are six feet high and it is ten feet high where it joins the boiler shed. I want to heat these houses with the hot water boiler I have on hand, if you think it is large enough. It is a Hitchings corrugated hot water boiler, warranted to heat 600 feet of 3 1/4-inch pipe. I wish to maintain the following temperatures in the various houses, when the outside temperature drops to 15 degrees below zero: House No. 1, 55 to 60 degrees; house No. 2, 65 degrees; the lean-to, 65 to 70 degrees. How many mains and returns are needed for each house? The houses are all connected.

R. B. K.

To heat the three houses will take the full capacity of the boiler. It is always well to have the rating of the boiler twenty-five per cent above the actual requirements, for economy of labor and fuel. Nevertheless, rather than get a new boiler, it might be advisable in this case to use the present boiler, as, except upon the days when the thermometer is below zero, it will probably suffice without much extra firing.

One 3-inch main will answer for house No. 1, and another of the same size will supply the other two houses. After carrying the 3-inch main to house No. 1, break it up into two 2 1/2-inch flows and run one of them on each plate to the farther end of the house. With each of them feed a coil of return pipes. There should be eight pipes in the south coil and six in the one on the north wall. The flow and return pipes to house No. 2 will pass through this room and are relied upon to furnish a part of the radiation required in house No. 1.

Break up the other main into two 2 1/2-inch flows, one to run through house No. 1 to supply house No. 2, and the other to feed the pipes in the lean-to. Run the flow pipe to house No. 2, through house No. 1, so that it will enter house No. 2 about one foot under the ridge. Continue it to the farther end and there divide it and run a 2-inch pipe to each plate, which will feed the coils. The one on the south wall should have five and the other four 2-inch return pipes. At the end of the house unite the pipes in each coil into a 2-inch return and carry these pipes back to the boiler.

For the lean-to house run the other 2 1/2-inch flow to the east end, and break it up so as to provide a coil of six 2-inch pipes, which should be run around the east, west and south sides. In case the arrangement of the benches or of the doors makes it impossible to arrange the piping as suggested, the endeavor should be to have about 450 square feet of radiation in house No. 1, 100 square feet in house No. 2 and seventy feet in the lean-to.

COLLEGE POINT, N. Y.

George and John Golsner, of G. Golsner's Sons, have brought suit in the Supreme Court in Long Island City against the New York & Queens Gas Co. The Golsner brothers want to collect $5,100 damages from the gas company for the loss of plants in their greenhouses during the months of December, 1911, and January, 1912.

Leander B. Faber, attorney for the Golsner brothers, told the jury that they had reported to the gas company a leak in the main that was laid under the highway in front of the greenhouses. He said a half-hearted attempt was made to repair the break, but the gas continued to leak. Then a cold snap closed the surface of the ground over and around the main so the gas could not escape into the open air. It seeped through the ground, however, and found an outlet in the soft earth covered by the greenhouses. The glass enclosures became filled with gas fumes, said the attorney, and within a few days all the plants died.

The counsel for the gas company admitted that there was a leak in the gas main, but stated that it had been repaired and that the plants died because of the carelessness and negligence of the proprietors of the greenhouses!

It should be, but you don't know that it is.

How valuable would a complete record of the temperature of each hour of the night and day be to you? A great many dollars, is the answer.

THE STANDARD RECORDING THERMOMETER

has saved hundreds of dollars for many florists and may do as much for you. Your plants and stock require certain, steady temperatures. Use this thermometer and you will know whether they are getting what they need. It leaves a written record under lock and key.

GREENWICH, CONN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held in Doran's hall, February 14. It was decided to hold the fall show in Stamford, Conn., the date to be announced later.

A number of splendid exhibits were staged and were judged as follows:

Robert Williamson, cultural certificate for well flowered specimen of Ceroogyne cristata.

James Stuart, cultural certificate for splendidly grown collection of amaryllis.

E. W. Popp, honorable mention for vase of the new carnation, California Giant, an immense flower, measuring six inches across; white, tinted pink and showing Prosperity blood.

A. L. Marshall, highly commended for Pyrophyllum calycinum.

Louis Whitman, highly commended for vase of finely grown Richmond roses and lily of the valley.

W. J. Seelye, highly commended for Primula obconica.

Anton Peterson, very highly commended for Nephrolepis elegantissima.

C. A. Hakamon, vote of thanks for vase of Christmas-flowering sweet peas.

Edward Frenzell, vote of thanks for sweet peas and Narcissus poeticus Ideal Hybrid.

A. L. Marshall, vote of thanks for Narcissus Golden Spur and Amaryllis vittata hybrid.

The chief feature of the program was the illustrated lecture on the International Exhibition in London in 1912, delivered by H. A. Bunyard, of New York. Mr. Bunyard spoke in glowing terms of the splendid exhibits staged at the meeting, and also the large number of members present. He also requested the aid of his hearers toward the success of the International Exhibition to be held in New York in April. At the conclusion of the lecture a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Bunyard by the members.

William Scott, of Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., has promised to deliver an address at the next meeting.

Charles Flicker, the Bay State Florist, whose mother died recently, has sold his business to George McIntyre. Mr. McIntyre will build two greenhouses at Easthampton as soon as the frost is out of the ground, and will move his stock there about June 1. The town of Easthampton is increasing rapidly in population and will be a favorable location.

Business has been quiet among all of the florists within a radius of twenty miles, with but little funeral work.

You'll find Wizard Brand Manure mighty convenient and valuable to you during the next few months.

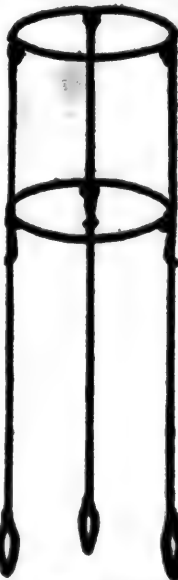

Bad weather makes the rough manure pile a nasty as well as expensive source to depend on.

Wizard Brand Sheep or Cattle Manure, pulverized or shredded, in 100-lb. bags, takes but little room in your storehouse, and you are prepared for any emergency or need.

Think it over. Get your order in right away and be on the safe side. Specify Wizard Brand to your supply house, or we ship direct promptly.

Get Interested, Mr. Florist; This Is For You

If you contemplate painting your houses this year it will be well for you to investigate the merits of which I use exclusively in the erection of the large ranges of glass that I erect on private estates and public parks. I have increased my plant to take care of the demands made upon me for this paint by florists in all parts of the country. The LUTON reputation for high-class material is back of this product. Send for a sample free of cost, and then you will send your order. We also furnish materials for the complete erection of modern Iron Frame Greenhouses. Some of the largest growers in the country will testify to this fact.

Florists' Review,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

The Florists' Review did it all all our two-inch display ad, offering our new gladiolus Princeps to the trade, made its first appearance in the F.R. of November 23rd. In December we were corresponding with foreign publishers regarding advertising rates; but, before we had placed our order with them, inquiries came pouring in from home and abroad, therefore we thought best to withdraw our ad from the Review for a lot up. On Jan. let we asked you to discontinue our ad until further notice, but there was no letup until all the stock was sold. They did not even leave us any for our retail trade and yet we have to do something which a man hates to do, returning some nice looking checks.

The Review reaches the buyer no matter where he is located.

Yours for Success,

W. E. Kirchhoff Co.

Having increased our glass
The fact that Easter falls
Our entirely new plant

over 100,000 square feet, we are in a position to meet our fast-increasing business. The fact that Easter falls year on March 23 will make absolutely no difference to us as to finishing our stock. Our entirely new plant Norwood, Pa., has been of great assistance to us.

Our stock for the Easter season is superior in quality to any we have ever grown, notwithstanding the standard we have maintained for years. We are now the largest growers of Easter stock in America, and any seeking quality will be repaid by inspecting our immense stock at our Philadelphia and Norwood plants.

To give our customers an idea of just what we intend offering, we enumerate the following: 25,000 LILIES

LILIES.

Our stock of this grand Easter plant is exceptionally fine this year, and having 25,000 plants we can positively please the most critical buyers. RHODODENDRON PINK PEARL.

Prices...$2, $2.50, $3 and $4 each

HYDRANGEAS.

We have the largest and finest stock of Hydrangeas ever offered to the trade at Easter, having 7500 perfect plants. Our stock includes over 8000 of the new French varieties, all of which have proven so valuable to the retailer. The plants have all been grown cool and are well hardened off, insuring satisfaction to the buyer. Hydrangea Otaksa, 6-inch...$0, $12, $15 and $18 per doz. Hydrangea Otaksa, 7-inch and 8-inch...$2, $2.50, $3, $3.50 and $4 each

THE NEW FRENCH HYDRANGEAS.

All of the varieties here offered have been tested by us under ordinary conditions as to their adaptability to forcing for Easter. All have proven themselves to be valuable additions.

Bouquet Rose, bright pink.
Géné de Vibraye, bright rose.
La Lorraine, bright pink.
Mme. a Riveram, bright rose.
Mme. E. Mouillere, best white.

April delivery, Otaksa, 2½-inch pots, strong plants...$8 per 100, $75 per 1000

ROSES.

We desire to make special mention of our large stock of Roses, growing upwards of 10,000 plants in the following varieties. We have no hesitation in saying we are the largest growers of forcing roses for Easter in America. We are positive our stock will please the most critical buyers, as the quality was never better. It has all been grown cool and will prove very satisfactory.

BABY RAMBLERS.

Good, strong stock, well flowered; $4, $6 and $9 per doz.

HALF STANDARD BABY RAMBLERS

Orleans, President Taft, Phyllis, etc.; exceptionally fine plants, 3-foot stems; $1.25, $1.50 and $2 each.

MRS. CUTBUSH, PINK BABY RAMBLER.

This variety is one of the popular ones. 5-inch and 6-inch pots...$6 and $9 per doz.

ORLEANS (NEW).

The best of the Baby Ramblers. Colors, bright red and pink, center slightly shaded white, very free flowering. 5-inch and 6-inch pots...$6 and $9 per doz. 7-inch pots, very heavy, made up...$12 and $15 per doz.

PHYLLIS BABY PINK RAMBLER

This variety we consider the most beautiful of its class. 5-inch and 6-inch pots...$5, $6 and $9 per doz.

JUNIATA—NEW CLIMBING ROSE.

One of the very best of the seedlings raised by Mr. M. H. Walsh, of Woodshole, Mass. We purchased the entire stock several years ago at a large figure and this is the first time disseminated. We are offering some very handsome specimen plants in bloom for Easter delivery and every one should have a few of this grand rose novelty. It is an unusually strong grower and the most prolific bloomer of any of the climbing roses. The color is a beautiful rose pink with tips of petals lightly tinged with white and a white disc in the center of the flower. It is the ideal variety for either forcing or for outside decoration. Specimen plants, 5-inch, 6-inch and 7-inch pots...$8, $9, $12, $15, $18, $24 and $30 doz.

THE ART OF FLOWER ARRANGEMENT

By FRED C. W. BROWN

CLUSTERS AND BOUQUETS.

Their Special Freedom of Outline.

In this installment of my discussion on flower arrangement, I shall try to tell how art may be embodied and recognized in the arrangement of clusters and bouquets, but before I launch into the subject I want to impress the minds of my readers with some idea of the difficulty of this class of work; I want them to realize that the hardest task I have attempted in this little series of articles is to demonstrate art in the arrangement of bouquets and funeral clusters. We are left fancy-free and are not restricted in any way except by the nature of our material. We are not restrained or guided by the conventional lines of the wire frame or the suggestive confines of a basket, but are thrown entirely on our own resources and are compelled to give a practical demonstration of our power to create.

The greatest error we fall into is that of a stiffly symmetrical outline. We wire our blooms and select some ferns; then, with a thoughtlessness born of familiarity, we arrange our materials with more or less mathematical accuracy. This is inartistic and conveys no meaning; aside from the natural, pleasing beauty of the flowers themselves, it is without attraction.

It is difficult to give any set rules for such work, beyond that of emphasizing the necessity of using good, sane and substantial reasoning, and being natural. Let your flowers follow, as much as possible, the direction of their natural growth; that is, do not do too much wiring and, with rare exceptions, see to it that you do not have a symmetrical outline.

In the illustration of the lily cluster it is not difficult to fathom the meaning or read the story, and there is sufficient care exhibited to prove that the attempt was made to arrange a cluster of lilies tied with a bow of ribbon. There is no great tax on the imagination to determine what has been attempted.

The idealist in art would tell you that you would never pick up a bunch of lilies in the form shown, that the bunch has the appearance of "being made," and that it should have the appearance of an armful of flowers that have merely been cut from the plants, laid on a table and drawn together with a bow of ribbon for a tie. That would be the argument of the idealist.

Our answer to such an argument would be to thank the critic, for the very idea that the maker desired to convey was that care and thought had been exercised in the arranging, but the point that is really open to doubt and criticism is whether the natural grace of the flowers has been impaired by the outline of the whole cluster. The the ribbons as a tie are quite apparent.

There is no limit to the different forms that we might originate for bouquets and clusters, and the individuality of the maker will stand out clearly in this class of work, but whatever you attempt, with whatever material, in whatever form, always keep before you the fact that simplicity is the keynote of success.

At this stage of the discussion it may be well to review and epitomize what has already been said, so as to see what is the sum total of the requirements of art and determine whether the embodying of art in our work is of greater advantage than the haphazard methods employed by all too many of our florists.

We may summarize our argument by repeating, substantially, what we said at the beginning—that art comprises these three requirements: First, simplicity; second, balanced proportion; third, harmony of coloring.

The simplicity of our work makes it unnecessary to tax the mind to discover our meaning. And simplicity, on account of its economy of material, is also of financial advantage. The balanced proportion is pleasing to the eye and does not detract from the object attempted or the story we have tried to tell; it leaves a pleasing impression on the mind, because the eye is not taxed to make connections between too great differences. The harmony of coloring we agreed to accept as correct.

Furthermore, a knowledge of art gives a reason for our existence as members of a profession; it sustains our arguments in favor of the patronage of stores that make a specialty of "flowers only." Art also practically proves the superiority of our claims for patronage, as compared with those of the street faker, or the corner grocer with his bargain blooms, and demonstrates to our customers that ours is not a mere business, but a profession requiring study and thought.

Art also insures a greater demand for flowers, which means increased business, for artistic productions are full of pleasant surprises, thus attracting the public to our wares and creating a desire for possession.

The economy of art, alone, should be sufficient to cause all our florists to give the subject the serious thought it demands.

A Spray of Lilies That Tells its Own Story.

ribbon is in its natural position, where all the lines converge, and thereby its use is proved. The whole cluster is simple and tells a simple story.

In the illustration of the bouquet the blooms are all given a sense of direction and you would not hesitate to call it an arm bouquet. It has the appearance of an armful. The gardenias are grouped at the point of greatest opposition, and the reason and excuse for While thus reviewing my entire argument I wish to express the hope that those of you who have read these articles will accept them in the spirit in which they have been offered, for they have been written for the benefit of those who are desirous of advancing our trade. They have been written in the hope of a greater awakening with reference to the possibilities of our materials and with reference to the importance of common sense and reason in the construction of all our work. They have been written in the hope of creating, finally, a greater public interest in our wares, an interest that would naturally result in great benefit to us all.

As to the illustrations that have appeared in these articles, I do not make any claim for the pictures or the things pictured, beyond their power to illustrate a point, but the principles of which I have written are concrete and fundamental, and scarcely admit of contradiction. Fied C. W. Brown.

SALTFORD SAYS IT PAYS.

"We are glad to see that you have taken up the matter of special days for the retailer and the different ways that he can help his own business," writes W. A. Saltford, secretary and treasurer of the Saltford Flower Shop, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. "Commencing about February 1, we enclosed a St. Valentine's day card with every box of flowers that was sent out, and in every bill and letter that left our office. Post cards were sent out about February 10 to our mailing list. We find it pays.

"Referring to newspaper advertising, we use a fixed space in our most prominent paper and change the copy every day, keeping the copy right up to the minute. We have found that it is a lot of work to keep the copy alive, but it has paid us big returns."

The Saltford St. Valentine's day cards were neatly printed, of course. The idea was conveyed simply and directly: "Flowers make the best valentines." In smaller type was the question, "Why not send your message through us?" Underneath the corporate name, the Saltford Flower Shop, were the words, "Better known as the Shop Beautiful." Similar cards are used in advance of all special flower days.

A GEORGIA ORCHID WREATH.

The accompanying illustration shows a wreath of magnolia leaves embellished with cattleyas, valley and Farleyense. It was made by the Idle Hour Nurseries, Macon, Ga., of which D. C. Horgan, well known in the trade, is manager. They are growing a house of orchids and find them extremely useful in high class work of all kinds. The wreath illustrated, on the easel, stood five feet high.

SCABIOSAS AND CENTAUREAS.

Please advise me as to culture of Scabiosa maxima plena, also Centaurea imperialis. I would like to have a cut for Decoration day if possible

G. D. F.

No time must be lost in sowing these if you want a cut for Memorial day. A house such as you would use for snapdragons, chrysanthemums or even violets will answer. Use soil containing plenty of well rotted manure. Sow the seeds thinly in rows eighteen inches apart. If they germinate thickly, thin them out. Give the plants plenty of fresh air; they will not stand anything in the nature of coddling. A night temperature of 45 to 48 degrees is sufficient, and it should not exceed 50 degrees. Water carefully and loosen the soil between the rows frequently. As the plants commenced to bloom, a top-dressing of sheep manure scratched in will be of benefit. These plants are not much subject to insect attacks. If fumigating, do it lightly, as they are rather easily injured. C. W.

GOOD DAHLIAS FOR CUTTING.

Can you tell us what are the best white, yellow and pink dahlias to grow for cut flowers? G. V. B. & B.

In reference to the best white, yellow and pink dahlias to grow for cut flowers, it would be a hard matter for us to center our opinion on just one particular variety for each color, considering we have so many different varieties and classes of dahlias. In order that we may give the three principal classes, cactus, decorative and show dahlias, their proper credit, we list below what we have found to be the finest in their respective classes:

Cactus Dahlias.—White, Rheinkönig and Pius X; yellow, Prince of Yellows and Mrs. Ed. Mawley; pink, Princess and Rosine.

Decorative Dahlias.—White, Henry Patrick, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and Perle de Lyon; yellow, Yellow Duke; pink, Delice and Sylvia.

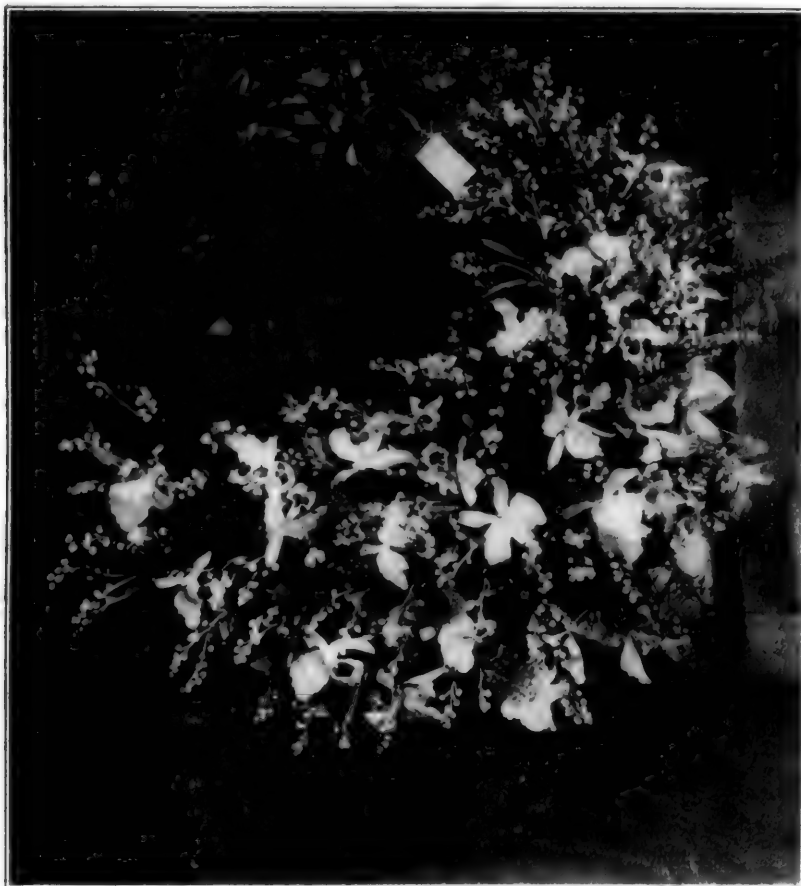

Show Dahlias.—White, John Walker, White Swan and Storm King; yellow, Lemon Beauty; pink, John Thorpe and A. D. Livoni.

In selecting the foregoing list we have taken into consideration every point that goes to make up a truly commercial variety, including freedom of blooming, length of stem and good shipping quality. The last mentioned is an especially important point, unless the flowers are to be disposed of locally, and in this event we could not fail to mention the peony-flowered dahlias, which are the most artistically arranged of all dahlias, but, like all single dahlias, are poor shippers, being particularly soft.

David Herbert & Son.

CHLORIDE OF LIME IN WATER.

Many of our cities and towns are using chloride of lime in the water now supplied to consumers, for the purpose of destroying bacteria injurious to human health. A question now arising is: While this process may be beneficial to animal life, may it not be injurious to plant life? This question would apply especially to plants grown in pots, where, on account of the restricted space, a much stronger amount of the chloride of lime may accumulate than when plants are grown in the open bed, and this accumulation of the chloride may destroy the bacteria so necessary to the growth of plants. It is said that the amount used by the water companies is from one-twenty-fifth to one-tenth of a grain to the gallon, but it has also been stated, and proved, that frequently the solution is much stronger, and if the chloride accumulates in the soil of pot-grown plants, may it not be extremely injurious?

Wreath of Cattleyas and Valley by Idle Hour Nurseries.

An Arm Bouquet That Leaves no Doubt as to the Use for Which it Was Intended.

I shall be glad to have this question answered through The Review, by a man fully competent. If there is danger of harm at all, in what strength would the chloride be injurious to pot-grown plants, such as palms, etc., and what would be the apparent result? Would it be possible to counteract any such effect, and by what means?

J. W. B.

It is impossible to detect a trace of active chlorine, by chemical methods, in water treated with an ordinary amount of chloride of lime, except at short distances from the place of application and shortly after application. This is due to the fact that it is usually applied as a part of the process of filtration and that the strength of the chlorine is rapidly destroyed by any organic matter present. The organic matter in the soil in greenhouses would act as a successful filter, and for this reason it is not probable that any small amount of chlorine that might be present in the water would exert any deleterious influence on the vegetation.

BUXTON'S SILVER PINK.

In describing, for the benefit of the readers of The Review, our method of cultivating our strain of Silver Pink snapdragon, permit me as an introduction to say that we do not claim to be the originators of this valuable variety, as it was the production of J. F. Hammer, of whom we purchased it seven years ago, and at the solicitation of several of the best growers about Boston we were induced to offer it to the general trade.

We have planted seed from our own plants grown under glass, and are positive it will not come true from seed. The results from seeds are some bronze and darker pink sorts. As to the crop, I would say that it is quite even as to time of coming in, and the average length of stem will not vary six inches.

In the cultivation of our Silver Pink snapdragon we have found the following rules to work most satisfactorily: For winter blooms we propagate so as to have good, strong rooted cuttings to pot into 2½-inch pots April 15. As soon as the weather will permit—here, in New Hampshire, about May 20—we plant outside in strawberry baskets, plunging the baskets in the soil about one inch below the rim. Keep the plants cut back until August 1, and then house them, taking up basket and all. By this method all danger of a check is obviated, and no fungous growth from the wood of the baskets makes its appearance in the bench. From stock handled in this manner we average five spikes, for which we obtain $1.50 per dozen in the Boston market until after Easter.

This crop was followed by another for Memorial day, with about 1-foot stems, which brought 50 cents per dozen, but the average was six spikes to a plant. Do not bother to thin out after April 1; let the shoots come as they will, and Silver Pink will turn you out more dollars than all the ten weeks' stocks you can plant, for you are sure of every one and only eighty per cent. of your stocks will come double. Feed your plants liberally and keep the temperature at 50 to 52 degrees.

We last season planted a bench February 15, with plants from 2¼-inch pots, and got an average of four spikes thirty inches in length for Memorial day, for which we received $1.50 per dozen. These plants were planted in old soil, eight inches apart, and were kept disbudded. The plants housed in the month of August, after blooming for the first crop, should be thinned out to carry not over five shoots.

PRIMULA OBCONICA.

Enclosed are two diseased leaves of Primula obconica. This is the first year my primroses have been affected. They were the worst from October to December. Lately they are growing more or less out of it. I kept picking off the diseased leaves and threw out the worst plants. They were grown in a cool house during the summer. Please state the cause. M. B.

This does not look like a disease, but appears, rather, to be sun scald. Perhaps you grew your plants rather heavily shaded and then gave them full sunshine in a light, sunny house. This would cause the burnt-like foliage. If this is not due to sun scald with water on the foliage, I am at a loss to account for it, as I have seen no disease attack the leaves in this way. Another year remove the shading gradually and do not subject the plants to a change from shade to clear sunshine. P. obconica is naturally a clean growing plant. Some yellowing around the leaf edges is due to overfeeding, but this is quite different from your trouble. C. W.

A PEORIA STORE.

The special reason for publishing the accompanying illustration in this issue is that next week the Illinois State Florists' Association meets, March 4 and 5, at Peoria, the second city, in size, in Illinois. The illustration shows the retail store conducted in Peoria by George A. Kuhl, of Pekin. A large attendance is expected at next week's meeting. There will be an exhibition in conjunction.

them in on time, this treatment will, and, of course, they need all possible sunshine.

Dutch Bulbs for Easter.

It takes an average of three weeks to flower hyacinths, tulips and narcissi for Easter after being housed. Do not give any of them a warm house. They do not need it and it will only draw them up. In some places the plants will, no doubt, come on sufficiently fast in cold-frames, but not in the more northerly states, where temperatures as low as zero or below sometimes occur in March. The colder the plants can be grown the sturdier they will be. It is difficult to lay down any hard and fast rule about these bulbs. A few hot days in March may forward them far beyond any of the present expectations, and we must guard against these possibilities by abundant ventilation and some shade on the glass. The floor of a good cellar comes in handy for these plants and they can be retarded easily for eight or ten days in such a place, even when in flower.

Allow the double tulips, like Murillo and Couronne d'Or, a little more time than Yellow Prince, Keizerskroon or La Reine, and do not forget to lay newspapers over any of the tulips on hot, sunny days, when their flowers are opening.

Stevia.

Do not forget, in the pressure of other duties, to start a good batch of cuttings of stevia. No country florist can afford to be without it and, while it may be an easily grown and cheap flower, we would hate to have to give it up. Throw away the old stock plants once you have taken plenty of cuttings. You can easily secure more plants, if wanted, by striking the tops of these early cuttings.

The Propagating Bench.

There should be no vacant places in the propagating benches these days. If you are doing a business in bedding plants, cuttings of various kinds will require considerable space now. Such varieties as scented geraniums, zonal geraniums, salvias, heliotropes, coleus, alternantheras, verbenas, scented verbenas, petunias, etc., should be propagated in quantity. Then you should

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Rambler Roses.

A good many growers are likely to be somewhat late this year with their rambler roses for Easter, and many of the plants will not be up to the average, having been subjected to such strong heat to flower them on time. It is worth an extra effort to get at least a few blossoms open on each plant, as the demand after Easter is not robust. Do not give the ramblers over 60 degrees at night, and if time will permit, move them into a house a few degrees cooler to open their flowers. Strong heat will affect both the substance and quality. Liquid stimulants can be given once in three or four days, until the flowers are opening, when feeding should be discontinued, as it only has a tendency to take the color out of the flowers.

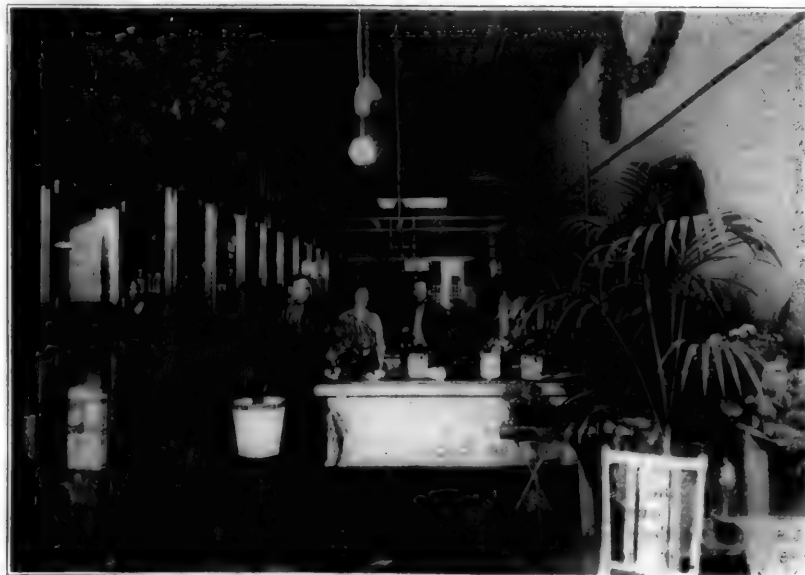

Tausendschon proved so immensely popular last year that it is being heavily grown again. Please note that this sort will come into bloom at least ten days ahead of Dorothy Perkins and Hiawatha, and should be moved to cooler quarters, with a slight shade on the glass, so that its beautiful color will not fade. Keep a sharp lookout for mildew, which is liable to attack ramblers when hard forced. Sprinkle some sulphur on the steam pipes as a preventive and dust over affected plants at once.

Easter Lilies.

Quite a few growers of Easter lilies will be kept on the anxious seat for the next three weeks. It means a great deal to the grower whether his plants are in flower or not, and it is certainly hard for many a small grower with but limited housing facilities and insufficient heat to get his plants in on time. These too early Easters make the growers devoutly wish that the festival had a fixed date, and few florists would oppose such a change. Where lilies are not now showing buds prominently it is, of course, hopeless attempting to flower them. Where the buds are two to three inches long they will need 70 degrees at night and frequent syringing to get them in. Where the buds are starting to hang down they are safe and can be kept comparatively cool. Do not, however, subject them to a sharp drop in temperature, or most of the flowers may never open.

Plants which show color within a week can easily be held back in a cool cellar. All that can be done with late lilies is to give them all possible heat, even 75 degrees at night, plenty of water at the root, and spray freely with warm water. If anything will bring work up all possible stock of such chrysanthemums as sold well last season, and of which you have a rather limited stock now. All the foliage plants will still root freely while a good bottom heat is at command, including crotons, dracenas, ficus, pandanus, acalyphas, dieffenbachias, etc.

Cyclamens.

Cyclamens that are wanted for Easter must from now on be kept in a cool, well ventilated and shaded house. A temperature of 40 degrees at night will not harm them in the least. While there is a considerable variety of flowering plants available at Easter, well grown and flowered cyclamens will always sell, provided they are of the right color. The shades which take the best are white, pink and salmon.

Do not overlook the young stock. Some may require potting, while still others need a little fussing over. A few minutes per week may not seem to amount to much, but that period of time spent in scratching the surface soil, pulling out weeds and giving the little plants, where necessary, a fresh stand, may mean a whole lot to them. A house kept at 50 to 55 degrees at night will suit the plants nicely.

Amaryllis.

Amaryllises which have the stalks a few inches high will be on time for Easter in a minimum temperature of 60 degrees. These have not, as yet, appeared much as Easter plants, but the lighter-colored hybrids, which are being greatly improved, should prove a welcome addition to the more critical flower buyers. Amaryllises which are well supplied with roots need liquid manure twice a week as the flower spikes are developing, and it should be supplied right through the growing season to any unsold plants, as amaryllises are fairly heavy feeders and a great difference will be noted in the size of the bulbs of plants which have been liberally fed, as compared with those supplied only with clear water.

INTERNATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

The Guarantee Fund.

The guarantee fund of the International Flower Show, to be held April 5 to 12, amounts to some $8,500. Our contract with the International Exposition Co. requires that we have a guarantee fund of $10,000. By present indications we shall not have to use any of it, but a contract is a contract and I would greatly appreciate it if fifteen active members of the S. A. F., who have not yet contributed, will each guarantee $100, or if thirty florists will guarantee $50 each.

I would much like to get this matter settled before March 15 and take this method of doing so publicly, to obviate the necessity of writing so many personal letters.

PRESIDENT ILLINOIS STATE FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION

CHARLES LOVERIDGE.

THE annual meeting of the organization of Illinois Florists is to be held next week at the home city of the president of the association, Peoria. It also is the second city of the state, but it is not often the scene of a gathering of the trade and a rather better attendance than usual is expected on that account. Mr. Loveridge has the largest range of glass at Peoria and is a man of excellent standing in the community. All Peoria florists are backing him in his plans for a hospitable reception. Mr. Loveridge was vice-president of the Illinois State Florists' Association during the presidency of C. L. Washburn and was advanced to the chair at the meeting at Joliet last year.

ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION.

The Illinois State Florists' Association will open its annual exhibition in the parlors of the Hotel Jefferson at Peoria, Ill., at noon Tuesday, March 4. The program for the annual meeting is as follows:

TUESDAY, MARCH 4.

Opening session, 2 p. m.
Address of welcome, Mayor E. N. Woodruff, Peoria.
Response, Vice-president C. W. Johnson, Morgan Park.
President's address, C. Loveridge, Peoria.
Report of secretary, J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville.
Report of treasurer, F. L. Washburn, Bloomington.
Report of secretary of Advisory Committee for the Illinois Florists' Experiment Station, W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park.
Unfinished business.
New business.
Election of officers.
The annual banquet will be served at the Jefferson hotel, at 7 p. m.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5.

Reports of work at the experiment station, by H. B. Dörner, F. W. Muncie, G. L. Peltier, Urbana.
Report of auditing committee.
Report of judges.
Address on landscape gardening and permanent planting of shrubs, etc., by W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

There has been discussion regarding the large prize offered by Moore, Hentz & Nash, a cup valued at $50, for six roses at the National Flower Show. Mr. Moore says some small grower may have just a few fine flowers, as fine as grown in the largest establishments, and it is just here that he has his chance against the big man. "A small bunch spreads the offer far more widely, and that is what we want to do, if it gets more exhibitors and gets a medley of varieties and sets people talking about such a valuable prize for 'only six roses,'" he says. No stem is to be longer than twenty inches, not over two roses of any one variety, the roses of each variety to be judged on their own merits and not by comparison with the other varieties.

HYBRID TEAS FOR EASTER.

Please give me a list of hybrid tea roses best for forcing in pots for Easter. J. M.

The following are good hybrid tea roses for the Easter trade: Mme. Abel Chatenay, carmine rose, shaded salmon; White Killarney, Bessie Brown, creamy white; Mrs. Christie Miller, blush, shaded salmon; Caroline Testout, satin rose; Killarney, light pink; Prince de Bulgarie, renamed Mrs. Taft, silvery flesh, shaded salmon rose; Viscountess Folkestone, creamy pink; Mme. Jules Grolez, satin rose; Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, white, tinted lemon; Mrs. Aaron Ward, deep Indian yellow, and La Tosca, silvery pink.

You cannot, of course, start and flower these for the coming Easter, which arrives at the earliest date for over half a century, March 23.

ROSES BADLY MILDEWED.

I have a bed of American Beauty roses and a bed each of Killarney and White Killarney, which, owing to a draughty house and poor soil, are badly mildewed, in spite of the fact that I have sprayed and fumigated them and have had sulphur on the pipes all the time. As there had been no provision made for the changing of soil during the winter—not having been here myself in time—I could make no change in the beds. I intend to clean the house thoroughly and put new soil in the benches as soon as possible, but that probably will not be before April. I should like to have some roses by July 1. What would you advise as the best means of attaining this end? A. F.

If the roses are in as poor condition as described, it would seem as if it would hardly pay to carry them over until April. It is fairly evident that they will never amount to anything, so why not clean them out and get ready to replant earlier than intended? If you have soil prepared to go into the benches, I would refill them as soon as the necessary repairs and planting are done. If this house is a draughty one, it will never prove suitable for winter roses, so why not use it as a summer house, to bloom from July until November, and let it rest during the winter? If you can get your benches refilled by early in April, you could plant dormant stock of Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, My Maryland or Souvenir du President Carnot. These are all good summer roses, better than the Killarneys. I would not plant any American Beauty; it wants quite different treatment from the other roses and is not a profitable sort for small growers to have. If you prefer to plant Killarney and White Killarney or other roses suitable for winter flowering, and can plant these by the middle or end of April, you would get a small crop of short-stemmed flowers in July from them.

Rosa.

ROSES IN A SMALL HOUSE.

We have a small house for rose growing, in which we grow Richmond, Reid and the Killarneys. On account of the smallness of the house, the Killarneys, both white and pink, are subject to mildew, but Richmond and Reid do well. Are there any other good white or pink varieties which we could grow to advantage? W. M. R. S.

It is difficult to get a variety of roses to succeed well in the same house, especially when it is a small one. The Killarneys are, so far, the best of their respective colors that I have. There is really no other white forcing rose but White Killarney grown now, Bride being dropped by nearly all growers.

Maryland is somewhat similar to Killarney in color, but would probably be a failure with you, like that variety. I would advise you to restrict yourself to the two Killarneys as bread-and-butter roses, or to the two red sorts, Richmond and Rhea Reid, if you have a better call for these. C. W.

RAMONA, THE RED CHEROKEE.

The advent of the new single red rose, Red Cherokee, or Ramona, as it has been aptly named, is an event of unusual interest to rose growers, and a few historical facts relating to it ought to be in order. Its place is in the rose garden, where it is a free and continuous bloomer. The rich color of the petals is strikingly shown up by the mass of golden yellow stamens. The foliage is said to be free from mildew. Those who have watched its behavior under glass say that as a forcing rose it will undoubtedly take a high place. On a dark November or December day a house in full bloom makes a splendid sight.

Ramona first appeared as a sport of the pink Cherokee in a Los Angeles garden and came to the attention of Henry Turner, of the firm of Dietrich & Turner, of Montebello, Cal., who from this single branch, or twig, it might almost be called, raised in a little over a year 120,000 plants. As a propagating feat this is probably unequaled in the annals of rose growing. Howard & Smith, always to the front in anything pertaining to rose culture on the coast, and with the finest facilities for disseminating a variety of this caliber, made Dietrich & Turner such a tempting offer for the entire stock that they could not well refuse. It is reported that a large number of plants had been sold to those who had heard of the variety by word of mouth before any general offer was made to the trade.

STARVATION.

I send today by parcel post four geranium plants from 3-inch pots. The leaves turn red. Last year they did the same thing, but after being planted out they got green again. Kindly let me know what the trouble is and the remedy for it. There are just a few that are getting red. I would like to prevent the balance from getting the same way. I used a light soil and no manure. Last year I blamed the soil. Do you think spraying with Bordeaux mixture would help them? Do you think the use of a little nitrate of soda would help keep them green? J. Y.

The foliage on the plants received shows no trace of disease whatever. Starvation at the root, added, perhaps, to one or two dryings out, is undoubtedly the cause of the red foliage.

While the use of manure is often overdone, and its use causes a soft, rank growth, and often disease, it is necessary to use some fertilizer in the soil or the plants will soon present a starved appearance. At succeeding pottings add a 4-inch pot of fine bone to each bushel of soil, or, if you have some old, well decomposed and dried cow manure, add one part of this to five parts of loam. Shredded cattle manure or pulverized sheep manure may also be used, but do not make the soil so rich as you would for chrysanthemums.

To improve the plants, nitrate of soda at the rate of one pound to fifty gallons of water, applied once a week, will do well. Other suitable foods are the Imperial Plant Food, Clay's Fertilizer and Bon Arbor. Soot water is excellent for greening up the foliage. It can be placed in a bag and used at the same time as the other chemicals named. Use a peck in each 50-gallon barrel. C. W.

GREENHOUSE INSURANCE.

We have just completed our new range of greenhouses, consisting of two houses of King construction, each 25x100; also one house of wood construction, 20x96 feet. Our workroom is 16x50, with a cellar under all of it. In the erection of these buildings great care has been taken to protect from fire by careful arrangement. They are heated by hot water, with the smoke pipe entering the chimney in the cellar, which, by the way, is solid from the cellar bottom, thirty-two feet high. Electric lights were installed by careful men. We have ready access to four hydrants of city water, with unlimited water supply, with a pressure of 150 pounds. We also have excellent fire companies, with headquarters only two minutes away.

We now come to our point; that is, the insurance. The representative of the board of underwriters has been here and fixed our rate at $1.50 per hundred for one year. This we consider exorbitant, as we insure our dwelling and barn, with contents, at 60 cents per hundred for three years. Can you not give us some information relative to insurance, fire, hail, etc., with rates others have to pay; also how to force these fellows to come down? Are there any companies exclusively for greenhouse men? Also, on our store, with small greenhouse attached, and separated from our residence by only twelve feet, they ask 75 cents per hundred a year.

J. L. B.

The question of insurance is one that each greenhouse owner must handle for himself. The insurance companies look upon greenhouses as hazardous risks. Indeed, it is only within the last few years that it has been possible to get them to accept such risks, regardless of rate. The insurance men, as a rule, still have the old-time greenhouse in mind, but as they are beginning to appreciate the difference in the character of construction in the modern greenhouse, they have become willing to accept such risks, although they charge rates that seem extremely high in comparison with rates on other risks. No one can blame an insurance company for not wanting to risk its money on the old-style greenhouse establishment, but it seems that a well-built, modern greenhouse plant is a far safer risk than the average dwelling.

The Review in its issue of April 13, 1911, went rather exhaustively into this subject, showing the reasoning used by the insurance companies in considering the features of construction that determine the character of the risk, and pointing out that for several reasons those who build greenhouses should give consideration to making the establishment as safe a risk as possible. For instance, the rate varies, not only in accordance with the character of the construction of the boilerhouse, but in accordance with its location. A range in which the boilerhouse is practically surrounded by greenhouses pays a much higher rate than one at which the boilerhouse is at the end of the greenhouses, and lowest of all is the establishment with

JOHN BAUSCHER.

FLORISTS are well known as great joiners, but The Review challenges the trade to produce a man with a record to beat that of John Bauscher, of Freeport. Here is a list of the organizations he belongs to: Society of American Florists, Germania Society, Democratic Club, Kranken Unterlutzungs, Deutsche Kranken, Mutual Life Insurance Co., Travelers' Insurance Co., Columbian Knights, Plattdeutsche Guild, Loyal Order of Moose, Anchor Society, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Northern Star, Order of Mutual Protection, National Protection Legion, Order of Eagles; Freeport Council, Excelsior Lodge, Eastern Star, Beautiful Sunshine Club, Freeport Consistory, Outdoor Club, Elks, Masonic Club, Verein of Germania, Unterstutzung Verein, Aetna Life Insurance Co., Freeport Lodge of Homesteaders, Order of Red Men, Modern Woodmen, Loyal Order of Rams, Court of Honor, Knights of Khorassan, Knights of Security, Deutsche Militar Verein, United Commercial Travelers, Knights Templar, Freeport Chapter, Capernaum Shrine, Mystic Shrine Tebala, Loyal Order of Owls, Royal Palace. Forty-four! Count 'em! Forty-four! In addition Mr. Bauscher is serving his fourth term as a county supervisor. Is it any wonder he has no trouble getting elected? Mr. Bauscher will be 40 years of age March 1. He has a splendid range of 100,000 feet of glass at Freeport, his individual property, and does a fine trade. He is the introducer of the new geranium, American Beauty.

the detached boilerhouse, with no wood in walls or floors.

There is no use trying to go away from home to get fire insurance on a greenhouse. Any of the responsible companies will write insurance through their local representatives, and all at the same rate. Any outside insurance would be of questionable value. If the local rate is not satisfactory, the thing to do is to get in touch with the insurance inspector for the district and with him go over the establishment that is to be insured. He should be willing to point out the conditions that affect the rate; or it is possible that he has not given the place a thorough inspection and does not know how thoroughly fireproof it is.

The local insurance agents also will write tornado insurance. A few companies write hail insurance, but they are not able to compete in rate with the Florists' Hail Association, John G. Esler, secretary, Saddle River, N. J., which is a mutual affair, operated practically without management expenses.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

The Lenten season did not seem to interfere with the activity of business last week, for the conditions were satisfactory all around. The shortage of roses is a thing of the past and there is now plenty of stock of all kinds and colors, with the exception of red. Bulbous stock is quite plentiful and of good quality.

Various Notes.

On Thursday, March 6, the regular meeting of the Milwaukee Florists' Club will be held at the Quiet House and will undoubtedly bring out a good attendance, for roses and other miscellaneous stock, except carnations, will be on exhibition. Any out-of-town grower who has anything, either in pot plants or cut flowers, of really good quality, is invited to send them to the club, in care of C. O. Pollworth, City Hall Square, Milwaukee.

Arthur Senn, who has been in the employ of the board of park commissioners for the last twenty-six months as tree warden and park forester, has resigned and leaves the service March 1, to engage in business for himself. He is a graduate in landscape gardening and will establish a downtown office.

Word has been received of the death of William Nero's son, aged 24, at the home of his father at Cedarburg, Wis. Loeffler & Benke, of Watertown, Wis., are sending to the Holton & Hunkel Co. sweet peas of exceptionally fine quality, and it goes without saying that the flowers move right along.

Walter Maas, of Walter M. Maas & Co., who conduct a store at 128 Oneida street, stole a march on his most intimate friends by getting married one day last week. The couple left on a wedding trip to parts unknown.

J. Rindfleisch, of Beloit, was a visitor last week.

Gust Rusch & Co. report business in the supply line as steadily on the increase.

Both the Holton & Hunkel Co. and the C. C. Pollworth Co. report business rushing for the last week. They have lots of stock and lots of work to keep it moving. E. O.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

Last week was springlike and business was good. A large number of funerals and some social affairs kept the florists busy. Roses and carnations are scarce; many have bought large quantities from other sources. Sweet peas, violets, lily of the valley, etc., are plentiful.

Various Notes.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. has had good cuts of all flowers. Their business continues to be excellent.

Julius Niednagel & Sons are enjoying a good business. Their cuts are good, but none too many for their own use.

J. C. Elsperrmann is enjoying a brisk business. He buys quantities of roses and carnations nearly every day. His Easter lilies are used as fast as they bloom.

Henry Seymour was buying carnations last week, his supply running short.

Austin Wallace is cutting some nice carnations.

Miss Nellie Goodge has improved in health lately.

Karl Zeidler has been appointed trustee of Locust Hill cemetery by Mayor Heilman.

It is rumored that Chicago parties will open an up-to-date flower shop near Second and Main streets.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

The Market.

After a few pleasant days the winter weather has started in again, which makes us get back to heavy wrapping and packing for flowers. This being the third week of Lent has not made much difference in business. Everyone reports business satisfactory. There has been a big demand for roses in the last few days, especially for Taft, Cardinal and Sunburst, which are scarce. Richmond and the Killarneys are coming better. The market was overstocked with carnations and daffodils and it was impossible to sell them at any price. This caused considerable loss to the growers. Violets are plentiful and are selling lower than ever. Sweet peas are in heavier supply and are the best seen in the market for some time. Tulips are coming better, there being quite a demand for red and yellow, which are rather scarce. Valley, marguerites and forget-me-nots are plentiful. Lilies are coming better than ever, with long stems and good flowers. The Easter stock in the greenhouses is looking fine.

Various Notes.

David Murphy, of P. R. Quinlan's South Salina street store, is visiting friends in Canada.

Chester Harris reports business satisfactory for the Lenten season, in his new location. He is kept busy with funeral work.

W. E. Day Co. is showing some attractive window decorations, using baskets of spiraea and pussy willows. Mr. Day says it pays to put some effort into window decorations.

C. W. Bourne reports business satisfactory. He has fine primulas. His Easter stock is looking well, especially Tausendschon roses. They are fine plants and well budded. Ramblers and standards are good. He is thinking of putting up more glass. He is a grip victim this week.

Bard & Davis are kept busy with funeral work. They have a fine lot of lilies that will be ready for Easter.

Miles Henckle is satisfied with business. He has quite a demand for bulbous stock.

The Baker Floral Co. is cutting some fine valley, the best seen in the market for some time. Cattleyas and gardenias also are being cut, of excellent quality.

Walter Meneilly & Son are cutting fine freesia. Their new houses are looking better than ever.

Phillips & Kocher have a fine stock of blooming plants. Their lilies are coming nicely.

G. Bartholme's new greenhouses are in fine shape. He is cutting some fine pansies.

Bellamy Bros. report business brisk. They have quite a demand for blooming plants.

Harold Brown, grower for the Baker

Floral Co., is visiting friends in Utica, N. Y.

P. R. Quinlan is spending a few weeks at Palm Beach, Fla. W. C. M.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Notwithstanding the Lenten season, the retail florists in this vicinity are maintaining a higher scale of trade than ever before. Cut flowers are more generally worn on the streets and also enter more prominently into small family affairs. While funeral work continues at a high mark, regular sales are following a better plane. Notwithstanding the earliness of Easter, there will be plenty of flowers of all kinds, early offerings of bulbous stock being unusually good.

Various Notes.

Washington's birthday proved a busy day for the florists because of the numerous dinners, teas and patriotic gatherings.

J. H. Cushing, of the Quidnick Greenhouses, Quidnick, returned last week from a vacation trip to Newport News, Va., and vicinity.

The city of Pawtucket has made an appropriation of $8,790 for the maintenance of its public parks during the current year.

The J. A. Budlong & Sons Co., at Auburn, has cut a large crop of ice from Blackamore pond, for storage, to be used during summer in packing flowers and produce.

S. J. Reuter, of S. J. Reuter, Inc., Westerly, was a recent business visitor in Boston.

Mrs. A. J. Olsen, of Brookside Greenhouses, East Providence, is bringing in some fine carnations and callas.

The trade in this vicinity received a call last week from W. P. Snyder, representing the Edwards Folding Box Co., of Philadelphia.

The greenhouses of Stephen Toher, Concord street, were badly damaged a few nights ago by fire.

At the annual meeting of the Western Board of Trade last week, Louis J. Reuter was made a member of the reception committee and Conrad Schultz of the retail trades committee.

T. J. Johnston Co., E. J. Brooke, proprietor, had several table decorations at the Crown hotel on Washington's birthday.

S. Kinder & Bro., of Bristol, had a large decoration at the Rhode Island Country Club on Washington's birthday.

Frederick B. Luther has returned home from a several weeks' trip to St. Augustine, Fla.

The Rhode Island Horticultural Society added ten members to its roll at its monthly meeting February 19.

Felix Pocaro has been granted permission to erect a greenhouse in the rear of 25 Victor Emanuel avenue.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Various Notes.

Charles G. Hull, Daniel E. Sullivan, Martin W. King, George N. Lovitt and Arthur J. Leary, gardeners, were all drawn for jury duty last week.

D. J. Coughlin was a business visitor in Boston last week.

Prominent members of the summer colony are among the donors of premiums for the first annual combination flower exhibition of the Newport Horticultural Society and the Newport Garden Association, to be held next June, on the grounds of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown.

A. Schultz has been enjoying an unusually good business during the winter season.

Large quantities of fine valley are shipped daily by William Jurgens to Boston, New York and Philadelphia markets.

Conservatories are to be built in the immediate future for the Misses Ellen F. and Ida M. Mason, on Walnut street.

The building of the George W. Weaver Co., which was recently destroyed by fire, is to be rebuilt on the same site. The new structure will be a three-story brick.

A greenhouse 22 x 122, costing $7,000, is under way at the Stuart Duncan estate.

Work on the three new houses for Stewart Ritchie is being pushed rapidly. They will be used for asparagus and other greens for the local market.

COOK COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The attendance at the meetings of the Cook County Florists' Association, held at the Tavern, Chicago, the third Thursday of each month, is excellent. Fifty-three members and several guests were present February 20, when officers for the ensuing year were chosen, principally reëlections, as follows:

President—A. C. Kohlbrand.

Vice-president—Allie Zech.

Secretary—A. T. Pyfer.

Treasurer—John Zech.

Sergeant-at-arms—M. Fink.

Trustees—Walter Scott, E. C. Amling, H. N. Bruns, A. Henderson, W. J. Keimel.

Otto Strobach, E. W. Siebrecht, John Swanson and Fred J. Ross were elected to membership and applications were received from Henry Luebbe, Everett R. Peacock and E. F. Kurowski.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul was designated by unanimous vote of the meeting as the official route to the Minneapolis convention and an invitation was extended to all S. A. F. members who will pass through Chicago to join with the Chicago party. Secretary Pyfer said it is the plan to run a special section of the Pioneer Limited, as it is thought hardly anybody will want to go by any less direct route or ride on a less famous train, since fares are the same.

The Michigan Central was designated as the official route to the National Flower Show. Train leaves at 12:05 a. m., April 4, reaching New York at 7 a. m., April 5.

The exhibits of the evening were especially fine and numerous. They were as follows:

The Albert F. Amling Co., Maywood, Ill., showed a vase of a winter-blooming type of the Countess Spencer sweet pea, often called the Butterfly pea in the Chicago market. It was considered by many as the finest vase of sweet peas ever seen in Chicago in February. It is said that as yet only two growers have it, but that eventually it is sure to displace all other pink peas for winter forcing.

Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., sent Carnation Wm. Eccles, a large scarlet that has been well received in the east,

PRESIDENT OF THE COOK COUNTY FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION

A. C. KOHLBRAND.

AS a reward for efficient services in the last year, the members of the Cook County Florists' Association have returned A. C. Kohlbrand to the president's chair for 1913. Mr. Kohlbrand is a Cincinnati and he will be 47 years of age tomorrow, the last day of February, 1913. His entire business life has been spent in the flower trade. He started with the Cincinnati Floral Co., conducted by Davy & King. Later he was with Sunderbruch's and later with Cook's Nursery. He removed to Chicago in 1890 and for a number of years was with Klehm's Nursery, in both the retail and wholesale departments. For the last eleven years he has had charge of the shipping orders of E. C. Amling and the E. C. Amling Co. In the early days of The Review Mr. Kohlbrand achieved fame over the pen name of Fritz Bleumenschneider. He is possessed of a vein of humor that makes him a popular entertainer wherever florists gather.

where it has been widely shown, and Lady Northcliffe, a salmon pink of English origin. These flowers arrived the day preceding the meeting and Eccles was considered as not at its best for judging, but Northcliffe was given a certificate.

From J. D. Cockcroft, Northport, L. I., came Carnation Northport, cerise, that evidently is a traveler, as it showed up in first-class shape and was awarded a certificate.

James Aldous & Son, of Iowa City, Ia., sent several promising seedling carnations.

The Blackman Floral Co., Evansville, Ind., sent blooms of three seedling carnations, among them an excellent medium pink that was awarded a certificate. The flowers had previously been on exhibition at the store of the Chicago Carnation Co.

From Avard Anderson, Moline, Ill., came several seedling carnations, among them a promising scarlet of good size that was awarded a certificate. There also was a pink of unusual size.

The Chicago Carnation Co., Joliet and Chicago, staged a fine vase of The Herald, which already has the association's certificate; also a Scott shade of pink, No. 246, that was awarded the certificate. With these were excellent vases of White Wonder and Gloriosa.

Unfortunately, a shipment of the new pink rose, Mrs. Charles Russell, from the Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass., and a box of Carnation Philadelphia, from Thomas Browne, Greenfield, Mich., failed to arrive until the morning after the meeting.

ST. LOUIS.

The Southwestern Market.

The retail business must have fallen off considerably, to account for the stock left over last week. Of course this condition made prices suffer on everything except roses. These are just beginning to come in again, as all of our local shippers were off crop for quite a while. Richmond, Killarney, Bride, Maid and Beauties are of splendid quality. The market has been strong on violets and sweet peas. These had a run, in big lots. Violets sold as low as $1.50 per thousand and sweet peas $2 and $3 per thousand. At that, quite a lot of them were left unsold.

Carnations have been coming in rather heavily of late, with quality extra fine and the price ranging from $15 to $20 when sold in thousand lots. Enchantress, White Wonder, Washington and Sangamo are among the best. In bulbous stock shipments are heavy. Among the best sellers are Easter lilies and callas, valley, Von Sions, jonquils, freesias and tulips. The supply of this stock for this market is expected to be large from now until after Easter.

The uptown retailers say last week was not any too brisk and only a lot of funeral work kept it from being called dull. The greenhouse men are kept busy watching their stock of blooming plants, with Easter only four weeks away.

Various Notes.

Frank Thost, son of G. M. Thost, of De Soto, Mo., spent a day here with the trade last week.

Fred Foster received word last week of the death of his father in Scotland. The trade extends sympathy.

Fred Ammann, secretary of the Illinois State Florists' Association, has extended an invitation to all members of the Florists' Club to attend the annual convention of the association, which takes place March 4 and 5, at Peoria, Ill., and quite a few will make the trip.

Edward P. Cizkowski, known as the Cass avenue florist, has had quite a good run of business in funeral and wedding work. Mr. Cizkowski also is in the employ of the city forestry department.

The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. is having quite a run on white enameled wooden easels of its own make.

At the seed stores the mild weather has started trade with a rush.

R. J. Windler, C. Pergstermann and Carl Beyer, the Florists' Club's publicity committee, are hard at work getting things in shape for Easter advertising. The fund for this is becoming quite large.

A. W. Gumz, secretary of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co., was on the sick list last week.

Moskapf & Irish Co., Chas. Fullgraf, Wm. Fouche and L. Baumann, our landscape architects, all say they have a busy season before them, with plenty of orders ahead.

Hugo Werner, of Werner Bros., at Clayton, rose growers for this market, says that they will have a full crop for Easter.

At the last meeting of the Retail Florists' Association, February 17, the chair requested Fred H. Weber to prepare a paper for the next meeting on "The Daily Routine Work of a Retail Florist." Mr. Weber has consented. This meeting takes place a week before Easter.

It has been rumored that efforts will be made to bring the American Carnation Society's meeting to St. Louis in 1914. The Convention Bureau is preparing an invitation and has asked the Florists' Club to work with it in the matter.

The town of Kirkwood, long a florists' center, will add considerable glass this summer. From what we can understand, some of the growers will take to roses. Until now only carnations, violets, sweet peas, mums and bulbous stock have been grown there.

We hear that Mr. Crepe Puller is getting quite active again. We might try a dose of that Pittsburgh medicine that Scribe Clarke speaks of in his notes in the issue of February 13 and see if that won't kill him off. This fellow always becomes active when stock is plentiful and cheap.

Paddy Patton's latest for St. Patrick's day advertisers:

Remember, boy, you're Irish.
So wear your colors gay;
A green carnation on your coat;
It's a boost for St. Patrick's day.

Foster, at King's highway and Delmar avenue, reports that he has leased the entire basement of the building, which will be transformed into a tea garden this summer. The new lease is for ten years.

Grimm & Gorly and Alex. Siegel say they had a great run of transient trade last week. Violets and peas had a big call.

Wm. Schray & Sons, John Held, Chas. Beyer, Geo. Windler and the Bourdet Floral Co., who furnish the local retailers with their blooming plants, will all be in fine shape for Easter.

Frank H. Gorly will read a paper at the March meeting of the Florists' Club on "The Benefits Derived from the Florists' Telegraph Delivery," by request from Albert Pochelon, secretary.

A. W. May, of Kirkwood, was awakened early February 24 to find his home in flames. He and his family barely escaped. They took shelter from the cold in the greenhouses. The house and contents was a complete loss, but was covered by insurance. Mr. May is a consignor to the Windler Wholesale Floral Co. J. J. Beneke.

LOUISVILLE.

The Market.

Stock continues to arrive in splendid shape, particularly bulbous stock. Killarney and White Killarney roses are elegant. Good valley and orchids are also to be had. Weather conditions have changed considerably since last week, when the thermometer registered as high as 70 degrees; it is now down to freezing and the town is covered with a beautiful blanket of snow.

Various Notes.

The 25-cents-per-dozen carnation sales are still in full blast. This condition is due to the support given by some of the Chicago wholesalers. The carnation grower is entitled to more consideration. Our local growers have no trouble in disposing of their carnations at $3 per hundred.

Philip Schupp, the hustling manager of J. A. Budlong's Chicago store, spent several days in Louisville last week, hunting Indian relics. Mrs. Schupp, a most amiable little woman, accompanied her husband.

Nearly all the downtown stores are displaying a fine assortment of spring flowers. The C. B. Thompson & Co. window is full of small baskets and flower holders filled with freesias, tulips, hyacinths, primulas, roses, etc. Wm. Walker is featuring Primula malacoides, well grown. Henry Fuchs, F. Walker & Co., and Nanz & Neuner are displaying tulips, hyacinths, azaleas, etc. Schulz's Flower Shop is featuring baskets and hampers filled with calendulas tied with ribbon to match, also boxes and baskets of bulbous stock.

The regular monthly meeting of the Kentucky Society of Florists will be held at the residence of G. E. Schulz March 5. G. E. S.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Market.

Business has been good the last two weeks, considering the Lenten season usually puts a damper on the flower trade. St. Valentine's day was a busy one for all the large florists. The old-fashioned colonial bouquets were in great favor this year and many were sold. Violets and fancy baskets were used as valentines.

Bright, cool weather improved stock considerably last week and carnations are arriving in large quantities. American Beauties are much better and in demand. Sweet peas are plentiful and good in quality, with long, firm stems. Killarneys are not especially good. A few of the new rose, Hilda, have made their appearance, and are rather popular. They resemble My Maryland somewhat, but are much deeper in color and more elongated in the bud. Yellow marguerites, myosotis and freesias are used a great deal. Violets, both single and double, are excellent and are selling well. Gardenias and catleyas are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Miss May French, of Aitken's store, is visiting in Toronto, Can.

Osterman & Steele report their St. Valentine's trade good and that violets sell best. They had a novel display Washington's birthday.

Charles Isselee spent Sunday, February 23, in New York city.

N. F. Higgins has closed the Flower Mart for the present.

Meacham & Hassell's Washington's birthday window was most attractive, with a large cherry tree in the center surrounded by numerous smaller cherry trees. Various other novelties made up this unique display.

T. F. Sheehan is to move into the larger store, corner State and Willow streets, March 1. The store is being remodeled and repainted.

Visitors: Valen G. Milloy, of William B. Lake, Philadelphia, Pa.; H. A. Tobey, of the Madison Basketcraft Co., Madison, O.

The tulip show will be held May 6 and 7, and the rose exhibit June 17 and 18, by the Amateur Horticultural Society. The following committee has been named to arrange for schedules, prizes, kind of entries and their classes: J. Allen Davis, Joseph Aumer and Willis E. Blodgett. E. C. A.

OBITUARY.

Abraham Moltz.

Abraham Moltz, who was well known in the cut flower trade in New York city, died at his home, 1178 Forty-fourth street, Brooklyn, February 20, at the age of 45 years. He was born in Russia, but came to New York at an early age. He entered the cut flower business as a youth and for some years carried on a business on his own account. He had been employed by Henry M. Robinson & Co. for several months, in the Coogan building, and had arranged to join Alexander J. Guttman just before he was seized by his fatal illness. He had been married twice and leaves a widow and three children.

Edward Bourque.

Edward Bourque, manager of the Madison avenue store of Charles A. Dards, New York city, died of pneumonia at his home in Yonkers, February 20, at the age of 49 years. He had been associated with Mr. Dards for thirty years and was widely known in the trade, having been the buyer for many years. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum. He was a man of pleasing personality and had hosts of warm friends among the florists of the city. He leaves a widow but no children.

Wm. Blacker.

Wm. Blacker, florist and well known citizen at Clearfield, Pa., dropped dead of heart disease at his home, in the afternoon of February 21.

Louis Spath.

A household name, not only in the nursery trade of Germany, but of Europe, and familiar also to many in the United States, Louis Spath has passed away full of honors. His nurseries at Berlin, Germany, count among the largest in Europe and the collections of trees, shrubs and plants have few equals. The model and extensive nurseries remain a tribute to his business acumen and abilities.

Charles Siebrecht.

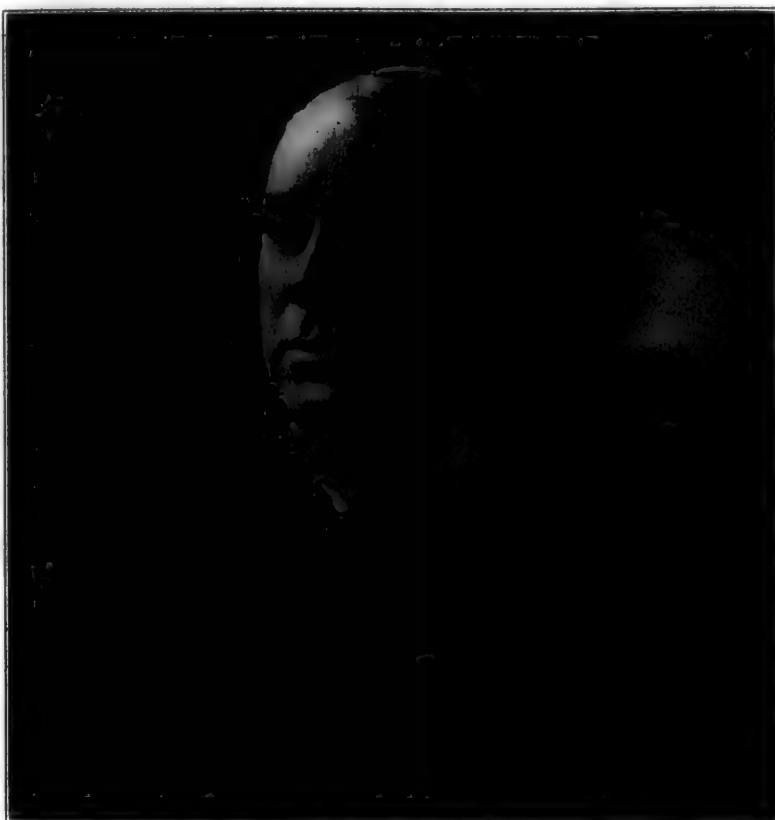

Charles Siebrecht, for thirty years a florist at Winona, Minn., died February 15, by his own hand. He had been in ill health for some time and was complaining that day, but nothing was thought of it. When he failed to appear for supper, search revealed his body hanging in the barn. He was 54 years old.

Charles Layer.

Charles Layer, of Gilman, Ill., died February 22, as the result of cancer of the stomach. His illness had been of almost two years' duration, but he had been about the place until three weeks ago, when he was compelled to take to his bed. He had been in the business for eighteen years. J. Housemann has been his manager since his health failed.

Charles A. Mason.

In the death of Charles A. Mason, a well known florist and old citizen of Jacksonville, Fla., sorrow will be brought to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. The deceased had been ill for a number of months. A wife is the only survivor left in Jacksonville. Mr. Mason was about 54 years of age and was prominently connected with the Odd Fellows, the Masons, the Knights of Pythias, the Woodmen of the World, the Loyal Order of Moose and the Order of Owls. His pallbearers were selected from these orders. The interment was in the family lot in Woodlawn cemetery.

GREENWICH, CONN.

The first annual supper of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held in Germania hall, New Rochelle, N. Y., February 18. As was expected, keen but friendly rivalry existed in the bowling matches that took place in the afternoon. Great excitement prevailed in the Trade versus Private games. The honors were about even at the finish. Competitive games were also arranged among the members, the championship prize going to E. McKenzie. In the clash that took place for county honors, Westchester came out on top, with a score of 2,486 against 2,347.

At 7:30 about eighty members and guests took their seats at the tables in the spacious hall, to partake of the good things provided. A fine feature of this supper was the artistic decoration of the tables, finely flowered plants of Cattleya Trianae being used extensively. These were kindly lent by the Geo. E. Baldwin Co., orchid growers, Mamaroneck, N. Y. Boutonnieres of lily of the valley were provided by J. Stuart, and miniature "stars and stripes" were the favors kindly donated by Charles McTaggart.

Among the invited guests representing the trade and press were noted: H. A. Bunvard, Joseph H. Sperry, W. E. Marshall, Thomas B. Collie, Andrew Wilson, W. E. Maynard, B. Hamilton Goodsell, A. Rickards, Chas. McTaggart and Andrew Kennedy, all of New York; Robert Renison and Louis F. Milliot, of Yonkers, N. Y.; M. C. Ebel, Madison, N. J.; Edward Neubrand, of Tarrytown, N. Y.; Wm. Scott, of Elmsford, N. Y.; Thomas Wade, of New Rochelle, N. Y.

President Robt. Williamson introduced as toastmaster for the evening John M. Brown, of Stamford, Conn., who handled the office with his usual ability and tact.

In response to the request of the toastmaster, short addresses were made by the different representatives of the trade and press. M. C. Ebel spoke for the National Gardeners' Association and the International Flower Show; R. Renison, for the Yonkers Horticultural Society; H. A. Bunyard, for the National Sweet Pea Society; Joseph H. Sperry, for the press. Speeches were also made, of a congratulatory and humorous nature, by F. E. Conine, H. A. Bunyard, P. Hamilton Goodsell, Charles McTaggart, W. E. Maynard, W. E. Marshall, Edward Neubrand, A. Rickards, Geo. E. Baldwin, William Scott, President Robert Williamson, Ex-president J. Stuart and Secretary J. B. McArdle, which the company approved of in a vociferous manner.

The proceedings were enlivened during the evening with songs by H. Wild, J. M. Brown, O. A. Hunwick and A. Rickards.

Before closing, cheers were called for President Williamson, Ex-president Stuart, Secretary McArdle and the toastmaster; also for "Our Noble Selves." O. A. H.

Results bring advertising.

The Review brings results.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

THE box manufacturers' national association was in session last week at Chicago. The talk was largely of the increasing scarcity of low grade lumber and the certainty of steadily advancing prices for such shipping boxes as wholesale cut flower dealers use.

WE often are told that life is growing more complex every day, and the truth of the observation is shown by the arrival of the "Proceedings" of the Society of Iowa Florists. It is a well printed volume of 208 pages! What do you think of that for a state society?

C. W. JOHNSON, Morgan Park, Ill., secretary of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, last week issued a tabulated report of the work of the society's committees on seedlings for the season of 1912. As the work was progressing it was recorded from week to week in The Review. The number of seedlings examined in 1912 was less than in previous years.

THE St. Valentine's day trade reports show beyond a doubt that where the florist individually acted on the suggestions contained in the St. Valentine's Number of The Review, or where several acted in concert, there was a handsome increase in business—an important number, if not 10,000, enjoyed it—but that where the florist made no effort in his own behalf the business of the day showed little if any increase.

AGAIN THE RECORD.

For the third week in succession the Classified department in this issue of The Review breaks the record. Large as has been the volume of classified plant advertising in preceding issues, this week's Review carries more than any preceding issue. The growth since the first of the year has been nearly six pages of these busy little, compact liners.

The best feature of this classified plant advertising is that it comes to The Review practically without solicitation, being brought in by the knowledge the trade possesses that these are extremely efficient advertisements. They cost little, but, what is more important, they do the work.

This is the way it works:

Please stop my vinea ad before I get swamped; am all sold out.—W. B. Woodruff, Westfield, N. J., February 24, 1913.

Please cut out the varieties marked in the enclosed list, as these are sold. The Review has put me into business; I must thank you for the nice orders and checks I receive daily.—Theo. D. Kuebler, Evansville, Ind., February 24, 1913.

S. A. F. DIRECTORS.

The mid-Lent meeting of the directors of the S. A. F. is being held at Minneapolis this week and, except for the absence of Secretary Young, there is a full attendance. Those present are: President J. K. M. L. Farquhar, Boston, Mass.; Vice-president Theodore Wirth, Minneapolis; Treasurer W. F. Kasting, Buffalo; Ex-president R. Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md., and the following directors: E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass.; Harry A. Bunyard, New York city; C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; J. A. Evans, Richmond, Ind.; Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass., and A. F. Poehlmann, Morton Grove, Ill. Ex-president George Asmus, of Chicago, also is present, acting in place of Secretary Young, who was taken suddenly ill last week and is in Roosevelt hospital in New York city threatened with appendicitis.

The executive board has before it the routine business affairs of the society, the approval of the final details for the National Flower Show at New York and the preparations for the August convention at Minneapolis. The Minneapolis and St. Paul florists are offering hospitality to the directors. The meeting covers three days—February 25 to 27.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Little change has taken place on the local market during the last week and the usual Lenten business is being carried on. Stock is more plentiful and roses especially appear to be on the increase, although full crops are not yet reported. Shipping trade has been holding up well. The orders are fairly numerous, but those from the regular flower stores are not large. Big lots of cheap stock go to the special sales people. Many, if not all local houses, bemoan the falling off in the out-of-town demand for bulbous stock, which is less than ever this season. The quantities of bulbous stock now coming on the market are finding an exceedingly poor demand and the prices obtained for high grade stock will hardly cover the cost of the bulbs. Local trade has not been rushing since St. Valentine's day and until Easter there is little expected in the way of a big local demand.

Strictly first-class Beauties are scarce.

HERE IS WHERE YOU CAN GET FANCY PEAS

INCLUDING THE WONDERFUL WINTER-BLOOMING SPENCER.

WE HAVE fancy long-stemmed Sweet Peas in very large quantity—can fill orders for thousands at any time. The longest stemmed, brightest colored, special fancy Blanché Ferry and the new winter-blooming Spencer. Others will have Spencers in May—here they are in February. You can't get them anywhere else. We are the only source of supply in this market, so why not order direct?

ORCHIDS

You will find our Cattleyas the most satisfactory you can use. We pride ourselves on the quality. The supply is so large and steady you can get all you need at any time. Use them in your corsage work.

VIOLETS

We believe we have the largest Violet trade of any house west of New York, built up by years of painstaking care to see that our stock always is the best. Can quote attractive prices on thousand lots.

VALLEY

We handle Bruns' famous Chicago Market Brand Cut Valley exclusively. Can always supply.

BULB STOCK

Plenty of Jonquils, Tulips, Daffodils, Romans, Freesias.

FANCY ROSES

Our cut comes from double the number of plants we were selling from at this date last year. The stock is of the high standard on which we have built our Rose business. Mostly medium to long.

CARNATIONS

There is an abundance of Carnations in this market, but there are not so very many that are strictly good. It is not what you pay but what you get that determines value—and the more you think about it the more certain you are to order your Carnations of Amling.

LILIES FOR EASTER

Don't let anyone tell you that there will not be plenty of good Lilies this early Easter—there will be plenty—at Amling's. Now booking orders for Easter shipment direct from greenhouses.

There is a fair supply in the short and medium lengths of stem, but the longer ones are not being cut in any too large quantities. The general run of the present cut of Beauties shows buds imperfect both in shape and color; the few perfect flowers sell at stiff prices. Killarney and White Killarney are in good supply and there is little trouble being experienced in filling orders, except that some houses do not have enough shorts to supply their demand. My Maryland is being cut more freely, while Sunburst, Melody, Aaron Ward and Rhea Reid are being shipped in larger quantities. Richmond has met with good demand and there are no more being cut than are called for. Lilies were in heavy supply for a time last week and some houses were selling them as low as 6 cents, but the orders at this price were so numerous that the surplus supply was soon cleaned up and normal prices in force. Sweet peas have shown a marked improvement during the last two weeks and there has been a large increase in the pick. No one could ask finer peas than are now available in quantity, but the retailers are not buying the way the growers thought they would. Peas are moving slowly. Orchids are not in large supply, but there appears to be little demand for them and the prices have been weak. Valley is in good supply and is generally moved along without difficulty.

The houses that handle violets in quantity have found them their worst problem in the last week. Receipts have increased and demand has diminished. It has been impossible to clean up at any price. Well informed people say 200,000 were on hand Saturday night, February 22, when the wholesale houses closed.

The greens situation shows little change, though something is promised in ferns, the eastern sources of supply having notified the trade of the usual advance in price March 1.

The sleet storm last week delayed scores of telegraph orders, messages not arriving until one and two days later than they should have done.

Various Notes.

The officers and directors of the S. A. F. were in Chicago February 24 on their way to Minneapolis for the annual meeting. The day in Chicago was spent in visiting points of trade interest, including the Oechslein and Poehlmann establishments. In the party were J. K. M. L. Farquhar, Boston; W. F. Kastling, Buffalo; R. Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md.; E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass.; Harry A. Bunyard, New York city; C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; J. A. Evans, Richmond, Ind., and Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass. August Poehlmann, who is a director, and George Asmus accompanied the party to Minneapolis, going on the Pioneer Limited on the St. Paul railroad Monday evening.

Wieter Bros. have engaged Gust Wiedenhoff as foreman, to take the place of James Novak, who leaves April 1 to take hold of the Weber Beauty range on shares. Mr. Wiedenhoff comes highly recommended from Terre Haute.

T. E. Waters, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., who also is general publicity man for the United Fertilizer Co., says that Evergreen fertilizer is now being put up in ½-pound wooden boxes for retail store trade. The paper boxes formerly used were unsuitable for the nitrates and the new package is much more sightly.

E. E. Pieser, of Kennicott Bros. Co., reports the first outdoor jonquils as arriving February 22, from Booneville, Miss.

The opening of the new building of the Hub, February 24, called for the use of large quantities of stock. The Alpha Floral Co. had the firm's order for vases of cut flowers, principally Beauties, but practically every down-

Lilies for Easter

NOW READY TO BOOK YOUR ORDER

Randall's Easter crop of Lilies is famous—everybody who ever has tried them knows that there never are any finer and seldom any as good. For years and years Randall's Lilies have been the standard by which all other Lilies have been judged. Some years one grower and some years another will claim to have Lilies "as good as Randall's," but Randall's Lilies always have been acknowledged as the leader. These are true Giganteums—the best bulbs money would buy, forced by the best grower we know. Naturally, we have the best flowers. Easter is unusually early this year, and it is all the more important to place your order with the most dependable source of supply—there will be a great many over-forced Lilies on the market, stock that won't stand shipping. Our Lilies will be just right. They will be packed at the greenhouses in wooden boxes of 100 flowers each. Order as many as you need—Easter is only three weeks away.

town retailer had orders from firms that sell to the Hub. Many handsome baskets and designs were sent.

Peter Reinberg's new motor truck makes the trip from the greenhouses to the store easily in thirty minutes, where the team had to keep going to make it in an hour and a quarter.

N. J. Wietor, treasurer of the allied trades committee, says that the last of the convention bills, except one for the refreshment of the members of the committee, were paid last week. Treasurer Wietor has had something more than $2,000 surplus funds at interest for the last six months. A return to the contributors will now be made.

Frank Johnson, sales manager for the A. L. Randall Co., has this week joined the large army of wearers of spectacles. The Randall establishment is becoming a hive of industry as Easter approaches.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., says that violets have been his chief concern of late, although the high grade sweet peas are not realizing as good prices as they should. He believes the trade does not ask enough for sweet peas and thinks the public would buy as freely if better prices were required.

which arrived too late for the C. C. F. A. meeting last week, were on exhibition for several days at the store of the Chicago Carnation Co., where they attracted much attention.

Winterson's Seed Store reports an excellent response from the first mailings of its spring catalogue.

C. W. McKellar says the trade already is beginning to buy St. Patrick's day dye.

O. J. Friedman has gone into another important real estate deal. In partnership with E. C. Waller, Jr., he has made a lease for ninety-nine years on the city square occupied by San Souci park. The value of the property is said to exceed $450,000 and an average rental of nearly $23,000 is to be paid. The amusement buildings on the property have been purchased and will be replaced by stores, offices and apartments.

J. H. McNeilly says he finds the flower business so well worth attention that he has closed his Forty-third street candy shop and will concentrate his interests at Sixty-third street and Lexington avenue. He has two new salesmen in his flower department this week.

Lubliner & Trinz are offering their Columbia theater in Milwaukee for sale or rent. Their new south side house is nearly ready to open.

Joseph Fink, who died recently at 2644 Herndon street, had been in the flower business at that address for thirty-one years. He had been around the greenhouses as usual up to four days before he died, although he was 76 years of age. A widow survives, with three daughters and three sons, one of whom is Mike Fink, of the Chicago Cut Flower Growers' Association.

Stollery Bros., who appear to live extremely active lives, had a hurry-up call to make boiler repairs last week. Both Fred and George, who live together, have been kept out of their home for weeks, while the children are having scarlet fever.

F. C. Hoerber, of Hoerber Bros., was suffering from a bad cold this week, but stayed with the job with the exception of February 23. He reports stock cleaning up well and looks for a big Easter.

W. H. Pontius, of the Superior Machine & Boiler Co., was ill last week with pleurisy. His condition is reported to be improving and he is expected to be back at his desk in a short time.

Joseph Wall is planning to erect two greenhouses, at Belmont and Milwaukee avenues, as soon as the weather permits.

Local wholesalers report the death of Charles Layer, a retail florist at Gilman, Ill., February 22. The funeral took place at Gilman February 25.

Mrs. P. L. McKee and daughter are recovering from serious illnesses.

Erne & Klingel announce that trial shipments for the last few months with corrugated fiber board boxes have been so satisfactory that they will hereafter use them for all short distance shipping. The saving to the retailer on express charges has brought many favorable letters and from now on wooden boxes will be used only on the longer shipments.

The establishment of the Auburndale Goldfish Co. was entered by burglars the night of February 18. After breaking the lock off the door and spending considerable time in drilling the safe, they got only 15 cents for their trouble.

The Raedlein Basket Co. has installed machinery to turn out all the tinware used in lining its baskets. This is only one of many recent improvements. A large importation of baskets, made in its German factories, is now on the ocean.

C. L. Washburn acted as host to E. W. McLellan, the San Francisco grower, February 24. The latter visited a number of the local growing establishments and was especially interested in the new roses. Mrs. Aaron Ward, he asserts, has proved one of the best producers

The Market.

The general dullness reported last week still prevails, with a possible exception in favor of violets, which, probably under the impetus of the Lenten demands for sober colors, have been fairly active. The Fifth avenue retailers report business as fairly good for the season, though a lull is to be expected during Lent. Plants seem to be coming forward rather earlier than usual, no doubt because of the generally mild and sunny weather.

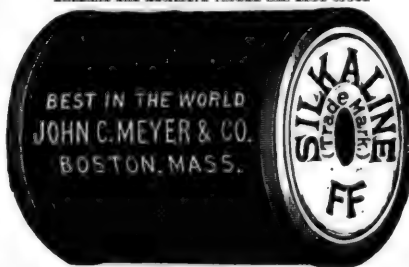

Beauties continue weak, the quality being unsatisfactory to the more exacting buyers. Bride, Maid, the Killarneys and reds all show weakness. The supply of the yellow and of specialties generally, such as Chatenay, Mrs. Ward and Lady Hillingdon, is becoming more plentiful, with a resulting shading of prices. Cattleyas are in abundant supply and, even at 30 cents, they drag. In fact, some fair orchids have sold at a price considerably under that figure. Valley is plentiful at 2 to 3 cents. Gardenias hold their own at $1 to $3. Sweet peas are plentiful and the demand does not clean up the supplies as they come in. Callas are in fair demand, but there is no lack in the supply. Bulbous flowers are plentiful and mostly of good quality; daffodils, in particular, are so abundant that quotations have sagged to $1 and $2.

they will install one. The experience of Pennock Bros., nationally known as leading retail florists of Philadelphia, is proof of the success every retailer will have with a Brunswick plant.

In May, 1907, Pennock Bros. installed our one-ton machine to cool a cut-flower display refrigerator 16½ x 9 x 3½ ft. For over five years it has run practically without expense except for the cost of electric power and oil. Formerly it cost $500.00 yearly to ice this refrigerator. Horticultural Society Show.

The monthly exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York was held at the American Museum of Natural History on the afternoon of February 22. A handsome specimen of Lycaste Skinneri alba, shown by Lager & Hurrell, shared with a display of Milady rose, shown by A. N. Pierson, Inc., in the attention excited. Silver medals were awarded to both these exhibits.

W. H. Waite, of Yonkers, and A. Bieschke, of Noroton, Conn., acted as judges, making the following awards: Silver medal to Cottage Gardens Co. for 100 carnations not yet in commerce; first prize to J. D. Cockcroft, Northport, L. I., on fifty carnations, Lawson shade; first prize to Charles Weber, gardener for Mrs. J. Hood Wright, for scarlet carnations, and second prize for Enchantress carnations; first prizes to John Canning, gardener for Adolph Lewisohn, for Winsor carnations, for Enchantress carnations, for white carnations and for white schizanthus. A number of special awards were also made to non-commercial growers.

Various Notes.

Fred Smythe, of Wadley & Smythe, sailed for Europe recently, to purchase their spring stock of shrubs, trees, etc.

William Trumper, buyer for J. H. Small & Sons, who has been ill for some weeks, having undergone an operation, is making favorable progress.

The Rising Eastern Market.

The cut flower market is gradually declining under the influence of increased receipts and light demand. Nearly all the shippers of miscellaneous flowers are sending in more and generally better stock than a week ago. This does not apply to roses. The feature of the rose market is the scarcity of Beauties, which have actually advanced on a declining market. In the other varieties, white are stronger than colored and the medium grades decidedly stronger than either fancies or shorts. Enchantress is the weak carnation; there are heavy shipments of this variety and it is not so popular as the Wards and Gloriosa. White is the strongest color in carnations. The reds were not in special demand for Washington's birthday. Daffodils are in rather shorter supply, but the price has not advanced. Tulips are in heavy supply; most houses consider them weak, but the growers with good stock and some blooms of the better varieties, Murillo, Flamingo, Couronne d'Or and Salvator Rosa, seem satisfied.

Valley is in good supply, with no special demand. Sweet peas are coming in heavily; pink is most plentiful; next, lavender; white, least so. They are exceptionally fine. Easter lilies are in heavy supply. Violets did better than almost anything else on Birthington's washday. Asparagus and adiantum are in better demand. The shipping orders are fairly good.

The Retail Meeting.

The clubroom looked familiar, yet different, on that third Thursday evening in February. There were the groups at the alleys, at the shuffleboard and at the pool table. There were well known men exchanging greetings as they passed to the cloakroom amid chatting in the aisles. The difference lay in the air of expectancy that pervaded the room, in the presence of an unusual number of retailers, so many that to think of figures was absurd, and in the appearance of a retailer in the chair. John C. Gracey called a good sized gathering to order. He then read the announcement of the object of the meeting, "To secure concerted effort of grower, wholesaler and retailer toward increasing the interest in flowers and plants and the demand for them through publicity." Robert Kift was the first speaker. He told of what might be done through newspaper notices in the same way it is done in many other businesses. He gave instances of the value of such advertising. Edward Reid said that the carrying of a good supply of stock was a retailer's best form of advertising. Flowers must be seen; then they are wanted by the public. Samuel S. Pen-nock agreed with Mr. Reid. He told a humorous story of the havoc caused in Chicago at one time by the popularity of artificial flowers. The Chicago florists bought a lot of these artificial flowers, sent them to a colored ball and then got the reporters there. The fashion soon after changed to natural flowers. Charles Henry Fox introduced the speaker of the evening, Hugh O'Donnell, business manager of the Philadelphia Press. Mr. O'Donnell said that as a newspaper man he knew a little of many kinds of business, but only a little, so that he could advise merely in a general way. Florists, he thought, were akin to tailors, whose methods are worth considering. The tailors in Chicago suffered much from the inroads made in their business by department stores. They got together and inspired a series of articles in the newspapers, describing, in convincing manner, the advantages of made-to-order clothing. These articles were paid advertisements, but bore no names or addresses. So successful were they that in a few months the department stores tried to persuade the newspapers not to publish them, on the ground that they were injuring them. This effort failed. Mr. O'Donnell asserted that all branches of florists must pull together. They must decide what is a wholesale job and what is retail, and keep within their lines. He said that success today is absolutely dependent on advertising. Advertising means everything about the plan of business, the show windows, the interior store arrangements, the boxes, the delivery, as well as the use of space in the newspapers. He said that the Retail Florists' Association could retain an advertiser in the same way that it could retain a lawyer, or it would be expensive with success problematical. Mr. O'Donnell then leaned forward and, remarking that there were no reporters present, told his audience how he thought they should set about this publicity campaign. His plan was so well received that on motion of Leo Nissen a committee was appointed to put it into execution. Mr. O'Donnell received a hearty ovation. Every member rose as a mark of respect as he left the meeting. Charles H. Grakelow praised the wholesalers for their unexcelled service and urged closer business relations with the retailers. Henry C. Herlemann made a plea that all should contribute to the publicity fund. Charles Henry Fox said that advertising is like capital; you must keep adding to it to secure results. Then the subscription list was opened, the leaders stepping forward first to sign their names. While the pen goes from hand to hand there is time to glance around the room. The wholesalers are out in force; no lack of progress there. Many of the prominent growers are scattered about the room, quite as many as could be expected at the first meeting of a body in which they are interested but to which they cannot belong. The leaders of the retail movement are out almost to a man, but the retail florists as a body make a poor showing. There is room for progress here. Mr. O'Donnell probably saw this when he said, "Your progressive men must lead." They are certainly doing so. The meeting was well arranged and well carried through. Results are bound to follow such intelligent effort maintained.

into bud, without a trace of disease." This interesting news comes from Henry F. Michell, who returned February 21 from a three weeks' trip to Bermuda. Mr. Michell said that the lily bulb growers of the island have realized their mistakes and are striving with might and main to rectify them. They depend on this country for their bulb market and mean to make good. Freesia refracta alba, onions and the three-crops-a-year potatoes were extremely interesting. Mr. Michell went all over the island, had a delightful time and was particularly pleased because it only rained at night. He returns home in splendid health and spirit, ready for an active season.

LANCASTER, PA.

The bimonthly visiting tour of the Lancaster County Florists' Club was made February 20, to florists of the city. Starting in the west end, the first stop was made at the establishment of the Wheatland Co., where carnations are grown for quality and price and both are obtained, under the efficient culture of E. F. Law, the secretary and treasurer of the company. T. F. Fries, who is a plantsman pure and simple and knows how, was next visited. B. F. Barr, another retail grower, was the third person called on, and here we found roses, carnations and a general line of stock in good shape for his business. His place is known as the Keystone Nurseries and he does quite a wholesale business in the nursery line.

Albert M. Herr, a neighbor of Mr. Barr, was next. The visitors were surprised at the quantity of geraniums grown and the immense house of coleus was something they had never seen equalled in color, vigor and cleanliness.

Rudolph Nagel was the next in line, and here were found geraniums and chrysanthemums in quantity for rooted cuttings. His place is always a model of cleanliness and order. This finished the west end, where each place visited was within easy walking distance of the next.

Taking a car for the east end, the first stop was made at our secretary's place, where roses, carnations, smilax and daisies are grown, in a set of houses arranged for the easiest possible working.

A short walk brought us to the establishment of H. D. Rohrer, where we saw the best carnations of the day and magnificent houses of sweet peas, interspersed with lettuce as handsome as the flowers. Another side line here was the parsley around the sides of the carnation beds, a paying proposition and not interfering in any way with the carnations, all of which were fine. One carnation that especially interested us was the new red, of which he has several houses which we have been watching some years. It has vigor, size of bloom and strength of stem and calyx, and when the visitors found that some out-of-town florists had been quietly buying up the cuttings, a goodly number of them placed orders for it, so that another season will find it pretty well tried out, not only in Lancaster county but over the state.

J. J. Goldbach, another retailer, was next. Here the most noticeable attraction was several houses of calla lilies, a mass of blooms and buds.

Across the street we found J. P. Siebold and his geraniums. In a compact, well built place, he has thirty-six varieties of geraniums grown for rooted cuttings, but the one he prides himself most on is Jeunesse Poitevine, an improvement on the old variety both in habit and color. When we finished inspecting the houses it was six o'clock, and Mrs. Siebold, with true German foresight, knew that we would be hungry and had prepared for us an elaborate lunch. After a vote of thanks and many expressions of good will, the day was finished.

The night was started with a trip to Frank Bachler's place, a retail plant stand established in 1837. His houses were inspected by electric light, and with the aid of some good punch, the making of which is an art with Mr. Bachler. From here to the meeting and from the meeting to the bowling alleys filled out the day. A. M. H.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Trade was more sluggish last week than at any time since last fall, with large quantities of stock of all kinds except roses, which, though getting more plentiful, are still short of the demand. Bulbous stock of all kinds is fine, but since they are so early this season and everyone who has a little glass forces his own, the wholesalers are kept busy in trying to dispose of the large quantities that are arriving. Violets, too, seemed to take a slump all at once. Washington's birthday, though a legal holiday, has not developed into a cut flower day and the only special demand was for red carnations. The wholesalers, however, have had a fairly easy season on the whole, in handling their stock, as there have really been no serious gluts of anything. The retailers, since Valentine's day, have been moving along quietly, and, except where there have been funeral orders, there has not been a great deal of business.

Pittsburgh has a good outlook for lilies for Easter. The stock is fine and the stems of flowers in general will be longer than for several years. Roses, also, which have been short, will certainly be in good shape.

Various Notes.

H. Wiggins, the Butler street florist, was robbed on Sunday night, February 16. His loss, however, was not heavy.

H. P. Joslin, the secretary of the Florists' Club, is visiting New York and other eastern cities.

Some of the retailers report getting highly satisfactory service by parcel post in the delivery of corsages of cut flowers that formerly were shipped by express.

Among the visitors this week were Geo. B. Smith, of Cleveland, O., and C. W. Cowgill, of Salem, O.

A report from the state capital, dated February 20, states that if the bill introduced that morning by Representative H. C. Jackson, of Wayne county, passes the legislature and is signed by the governor, the daisy will become the official flower of Pennsylvania and "the fourteenth day of June in each year will be known as Daisy day and be celebrated accordingly."

hardy wild flowers in our vicinity? Have you noticed the Adonis Amurensis which is in bloom now, under the snow? It will continue in bloom about a month; it arrived with the bluebirds, which are now with us.

The next meeting of the Florists' Club will be held on Tuesday evening, March 4, when the new president will be installed. Professor Otto E. Jennings will be present and will deliver his lecture, "A Tramp Along the Northern Shores of Lake Superior," with stereopticon views. This is an exceedingly interesting lecture and, as the ladies are invited, a large attendance is assured.

The bowling club of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. defeated the club of the McCallum Co. in the Duck Pin League, February 19, with a score of 1,338 to 1,330. The complete score will be found on another page, under the head of Bowling. Other games are scheduled and better scores are promised. There was too much rush in this game, as a theater party was scheduled to follow the game and the bowlers were afraid they might be late for the theater performance. Clarke.

ASTORIA, N. Y.

In a neat little house at the termination of Sixth avenue at Flushing avenue, lives an old couple who have made this place their home ever since they came to the United States, thirty years ago. It was on St. Valentine's day that Henry Pritchard and his wife, Rhoda Beven Pritchard, celebrated, with their twenty-seven children, grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, the forty-eighth year of their married life. Of their nine offspring, six are still alive and all were present with their families at the joyous gathering. Both Mr. Pritchard and his wife are 69 years of age. They were married in England in 1865. Since 1889 they have been in the florists' business at their present location.

New Hartford, N. Y.—Charles H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., was the speaker at the last meeting of the Central New York Horticultural Society. He talked on chrysanthemums and on the approaching flower show in New York. The next meeting will be held February 28, at Butler hall.

Eight Pages of Retailers' Cards

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

The Market.

Sluggishness is the main feature of the market of late. Business might be much worse, however, and for the Lenten season it is fully as good as can be expected. Practically all flowers are now abundant, including roses, which are now going much more slowly, with lower prices. Beauties are holding up well, but about every other sort shows a decline, Killarneys showing the greatest surplus. Mrs. Ward continues to lead as a yellow, but Melody is coming good. Richmond is going rather poorly. Radiance, Taft and Sunburst are still selling well.

The warmer weather we have been experiencing, with shade temperatures of 58 to 60 degrees, is making carnations softer. Benora secures top prices, along with Gloriosa and Pink Delight. In dark pink, Rosette is now coming good and St. Nicholas comes up nicely as a scarlet. Violets are selling cheaply. The quality just now is better than at any time this winter. Sweet peas are seen of about every possible grade. Some are fine, with 15-inch stems. The short-stemmed stock is hard to clear.

Snapdragons are more abundant, but continue to sell well. Lilies and callas are each in oversupply. Much of the valley arriving is of mediocre quality. All good flowers are moving well. Mignonette continues good. Freesias are getting poor as their season draws near.

a close. Dutch bulbous flowers are of grand quality, but too abundant. Emperor and Victoria sell at the highest prices among narcissi. Double Von Sions are rather a glut. Golden Spurs are also overabundant. Double tulips are now quite a feature, but sales are rather slow. Dutch hyacinths are a slow sale.

Gardenias are only selling moderately and cattleya prices are lower than are profitable. No change in green stock. Plant trade is improving. A nice variety is now to be seen in flowering plants. Prunus, genistas, acacias, ericas, rambler roses, spiræas, azaleas and bulbous plants are mostly in evidence.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Roy, of Marion, are spending a few weeks at Miami, Fla., where they report the climate as fine and fishing excellent.

J. Streifer & Son, of Weymouth, in addition to roses, now have fine daily shipments of callas, Golden Spurs, tulips, etc., at the Boston Coöperative Market.

Denzer sweet peas. The Halifax Gardens Co. supplies excellent mignonette.

N. H. Silverman, on Winter street, has one of the best arranged windows and finest equipped retail stores in the city.

D. F. Hutchinson & Sons, of Lexington, are large and successful growers of sweet peas and carnations. February 21 they sold 15,000 sweet peas at the Boston Coöperative Market.

Paul Richwagen, of Needham, is sending extra fine Mrs. Smalley and Christmas Pink sweet peas to E. J. Rogean, at the Boston Flower Exchange. Mr.
Rogean also is daily in receipt of heavy cuts of Victoria, Golden Spur and other narcissi from H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park.

Welch Bros. Co. is planning for a great Easter and is prepared for a big trade in lily plants. Of these it has over 30,000, capitally grown and in just the right condition for Easter flowering.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club will hold a field day with W. W. Edgar Co., Waverley, Saturday, March 8, leaving Park street subway station at 1:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is given to all growers, retailers, etc., to attend.
The plants at this establishment are exceptionally fine.

The Sutermeister Estate, of Readville, through William Caraher, is disposing of extra fine Emperor, Victoria and Golden Spur narcissi at the Boston Flower Exchange. The estate has, as usual, a splendid lot of bulbous stock in pans for Easter.

Donald Carmichael, of Wellesley, has this season extra good White Wonder, Pink Delight and Gloriosa carnations, in addition to mignonette and calendulas.

H. M. Robinson & Co. have made an offer for the entire basement, covering 13,000 square feet, in the new market of the Boston Flower Exchange. The Flower Growers' Sales Co. also is endeavoring to secure a part of the same.
It looks as if Winthrop square would

A. Leuthy, of Roslindale, has many thousands of lilies just right for Easter.
His other stock includes gardenias, genistas, metrosideros, azaleas, spiræas and acacias.

Members of the Horticultural Club will visit the establishment of Peirce pleased the large audience. Ernest Collins, president of the association, occupied the chair, and called upon several for short addresses, which proved most interesting.

Among the flowers displayed were Carnation Commodore, a fine deep red, sent by E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., and Carnation Enchantress Supreme, from Dailedouze Bros., Brooklyn, a particularly beautiful flower of a delicate peach pink shade.

Among other notable displays were carnations, roses and violets from the Dale Estate and R. Jennings, of Brampton; carnations from Miller & Sons, Bracondale; palms and ferns from Jennings & Co., Toronto; bulbous stock from Sir E. B. Osler; azaleas and general decorative plants from Jay & Son, Toronto, and some fine palms, begonias and ferns from Sir Henry Pellatt, honorary president of the association.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

There was a general scarcity of good cut flowers last week, though there were more roses than there had been for some time. There was enough demand for designs and house decorations to keep the cut well cleaned up. In fact, there were fewer cut flowers in the refrigerators last week than I remember having seen in the city before.

There were some good Beauty roses on the market for the first time for a month. They were readily cleaned up at good prices. Good Killarneys remain scarce. Mrs. Ward seems to be in more steady supply than any other rose grown here. There has been no large supply at any time, for there were few planted, but it does not seem to be a cropper. Carnations are still the most plentiful of the standard cut flowers. They are hardly as good as they were a month ago and there are not so many of them; so no one has a surplus. Violets are in full crop, with enough from outside to supplement the regular supply. There was so heavy a demand for them for Valentine's day that every one cleaned up pretty well. Indeed, we are beginning to realize here that we have another flower day. Some of the retailers report that the demand for cut flowers was as heavy for Valentine's day as it was for Thanksgiving.

The fine weather has made a good demand for pot plants for cemetery decorations. Snowdrops, crocus, scillas and chionodoxas are blooming and there is now and then a daffodil. In another week the latter will have to be reckoned with, as they will be found in every drug store in quantities.

The seed trade is on with a rush and thousands of gardens are being planted. The florists are beginning to get out their spring bulbs, as inquiries are already coming in for them from early planters.

Various Notes.

The proprietors of the Joy Floral Co. say they have never before seen a Valentine's day that so nearly approached a holiday demand. They have also had heavy out-of-town business and a run of funeral work. They are getting rather low on some of their leading pot plants. With Easter so near, they say they will have nothing to spare.

Frank Cornell has had a wagon on the streets for the last two weeks, selling his pot hyacinths. From now on he will be in evidence till the bedding season is over. He is offering some of the best pot hyacinths that it has been my pleasure to see for a long time.

The force at Lischey's Gardens are working overtime, planting hardy shrubbery. They have a large trade in this line and are selling a great many pot plants. They are also doing a nice lot of cut flower business, though most of their space is devoted to plants.

McIntyre Bros. are planning to build two new houses this spring. They built a new place in the fall, but find Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Charles N. Page, Des Moines, Ia.;
Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE high cost of clover is causing as much annoyance as the high cost of living.

THE law has little regard for busy seasons: J. C. Leonard, Chicago, is on the jury.

J. W. BITTENBENDER has opened a seed store in Knoxville, Ia., under the name of the All Grow Seed House.

MARKET onions are spoiling badly, according to reports. This condition is not local, but prevails generally.

VISITED Chicago: A. E. McKenzie, of Brandon, Man.; John Bodger, Jr., returning home to California from his annual eastern trip.

SOME of the trade will be interested in a bulletin issued February 10, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, entitled "Chalcidids Injurious to Forest-tree Seeds."

IT has not yet been demonstrated that the seed peas grown under irrigation will meet all requirements, but as far as appearance of sample goes they seem to be quite satisfactory this year.

THE regular spring operations have been in progress in the Holland bulb fields all through the month of February. Nearly all the bulb fields showed growth at the opening of the month, the season being even earlier than last year.

SENATOR KENYON, of Iowa, will fight the congressional free seed distribution when the agricultural appropriation bill comes up in the Senate this week. He has proposed an amendment to the bill to strike out the appropriation for the distribution.

PERHAPS a suggestion as to the possibilities of the parcel post may be obtained from the fact that the Henry Field Seed Co., of Shenandoah, Ia., recently received an order for a garden drill, to be sent by parcel post to the far west, and the implement was mailed as ordered—not in one parcel, however, but in three or four.

A. COLYN, of C. Colyn & Sons, Voorhout, Holland, was at Chicago last week on his twentieth annual trip. When he made his first rounds there were not more than a dozen Holland firms sending each a representative to America. He estimates that the business has increased tenfold in the time and that now from forty to fifty bulb growers send representatives over annually, all but three or four of them two or more men. He believes that over 100 Holland salesmen are now on tour in this country.

THE McMillan Bros.' Seed Co. was organized recently in Atlanta, Ga., with offices in the Bridge block, on South Broad street. The officers of the company are: President and general manager, Archie H. McMillan; vice-president, Robert H. McMillan; secretary and treasurer, L. D. White. Another firm of similar name, the McMillan Seed Co., has been in business for many years at 29 South Broad street and its present staff of officers is as follows: President, C. L. Fain; vice-president, W. F. Winecoff; secretary-treasurer and general manager,

THE fact that navy beans are selling at good prices is having some effect on the contracting of the garden varieties.

SOME shippers evidently haven't noted that, although cuttings do not come under the parcel post, it requires parcel post stamps before they can go through the mail.

CUSTOMERS are writing in to the seedsmen advising against the carelessness of putting too much postage on the packages. The rural folks are on to this reckless waste. They know their zones.

THE 1913 catalogue of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, contains what is claimed to be the most complete varietal descriptions of garden peas ever published in an American seed catalogue.

THE Senate has adopted without debate resolutions of Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, calling on the Postmaster General for an estimate of the expense to the government for the last four years of the carrying of seeds, plants and bulbs franked through the mails under the congressional free seed distribution, and also a resolution calling on the Secretary of Agriculture for the expense to the government during the same period of purchasing or securing seeds, bulbs, plants, trees, etc., for free distribution by congressmen, and the number of packages so furnished, and the expense of preparing the same for such free distribution and delivery to the mails. The resolutions do not have to pass the House and the information will soon be forthcoming.

THE SPENCER SWEET PEAS.

Lester L. Morse has issued "A Bulletin on Spencer Sweet Peas," from notes taken in 1912. It describes seventy-nine varieties, as well as pointing out many synonyms and too much alike varieties. Mr. Morse says:

"The past summer was one of intense interest to me in the development of the Spencer sweet pea. Just before the arrival of the frightful and destructive hot wave at San Juan, where our trial grounds, workshop and fields of sweet peas are situated, I had taken our preliminary notes and a few days later, in company with Mr. Burpee and Hugh Dickson, had reviewed and discussed them. Then a few days later I had the pleasure of a day at Mr. Burpee's sweet pea trials and experimental grounds at Floradale, and in company with Mr. Burpee and Mr. Dickson again. Thus, fresh from our California fields and and after these various discussions and reviews, that a conference was held out on Mr. Cuthbertson's lawn, at Dobbies' fields, near Marks Tey, with Hugh Dickson, Andrew Ireland, Wm. Cuthbertson, Howard M. Earl and myself, and we decided to try to agree among ourselves on a definite list of Spencer varieties of sweet peas that would include every distinct feature in the present known category of varieties. Not only we, but every one of the sweet pea folks we had met agreed that something would have to be done to cut down the list of names. In its present state it is hopeless confusion.

"So we appointed ourselves a committee to proceed with the task and, rather than submit our report to the national society, decided to work it out a season to see how it operated in practice. Now that the society's annual is out, we are able to compare our report with that of the floral committee on page 44 and we differ quite materially. But, as might be expected, I maintain that our self-appointed committee has the best, briefest and at the same time the most comprehensive list.

"We did not attempt to limit the list to but one name of one color, but tried rather to make it long enough to include every name that we think will ultimately be used by the seed trade.

"The descriptions and explanations accompanying each variety are purely my own. It was the list of names only our conference compiled."

The lists of synonyms and varieties that can be used one for the other will be of much value to the seed trade.

ONION SEED ON THE COAST.

The seed trade will be interested in an account by F. G. Cuthbertson of onion seed growing in California. Mr. Cuthbertson is the son of W. Cuthbertson, the widely known head of Dobbie & Co., Edinburgh, but has been in California for a couple of years. The extract is from a letter written a few weeks ago to a British trade paper:

"Perhaps one of the greatest seed crops in California is the onion. The germination and stock quality of Californian onions is well known. It may interest some to know a little of how the crop is handled.

"Like all other crops, there are spots where the onion does especially well. I am acquainted best with the handling of the crop in the San Juan valley and on the islands of the Sacramento river.

"The seed is planted about February, in rows twelve inches apart. The quantity sown per acre varies, but four pounds per acre on land known to produce good bulbs is about the right amount. If the seed is sown too thinly the resultant large bulbs are expensive to handle, and the size of the seed crop does not depend on the large dimensions of the bulb. The bulb, however, is allowed enough room for development, so that when harvesting time comes the grower will have a medium-sized bulb developed to its fullest character, thus enabling careful selection.

"An average onion bulb crop for seed purposes would be 250 sacks per acre, each sack weighing just over 100 pounds. I have seen a crop of Prize-taker onion grown for market, producing 450 sacks per acre. Most people imagine that a firm soil is necessary to produce fine onions, but the best onion land in California is a loose, peaty soil, so loose in fact that in summer one's foot sinks in considerably and the ground shakes as a horse walks along.

"The onions are generally ready for sacking up during October and November. A set of experienced men are employed for this work and all wrong or off types are cast aside. A few sacks of the perfect bulbs are collected for stock seed and these are planted in the center of the piece. The California grower takes great pride in the selection of his onion bulbs and he knows what is right and wrong. It takes on an average forty sacks of bulbs to plant an acre. The rows are three feet apart and the onions six to eight inches apart in the rows.

"The onions are spread by means of a wagon having two chutes in the rear, three feet apart, and a man to each chute. Soon a man can get expert in dropping just sufficient bulbs for the requirements of the row. Behind the wagon comes a gang of men placing the bulbs firmly in the ground at the proper distance. After the planting is finished the bulbs are covered by means of the cultivator. The planting is done during December. Cultivating is kept up until the end of April and after that the growth is too thick to allow of the culwagons to be spread out on large canvas sheets, usually forty feet square. Three cuttings generally will clean up a crop. A week on the sheets will serve to dry the heads in most districts. Of course the heads are turned twice a day with a rake. The up-to-date growers thresh the seed by a special machine, but there are many who thresh with a pair of horses and a large wooden roller. The horses trot round and round the sheets and in a half day will do one sheet. A good crop will be about 1,500 pounds to the sheet. After threshing, the seed is milled twice and then washed in the usual way. Of course, large tanks are used in California, for the quantities are so large. After washing, the seed is spread out on fresh canvas sheets to dry and in about three days it is ready for the final milling, and then to be sacked up. A seamless sack

Wm. McAlpine Believes that Beauties can be Grown

GEO. McALPINE

FOR some time I have been possessed with a determination to grow American Beauty Roses for the Boston market. It always seemed to me a reflection on our eastern growers that we had to send to New York and Philadelphia for Beauties.

After studying the conditions very carefully, I became convinced of the fact that the climate or soil were not the main factors in failure.

I believed the houses were wrong.

I was convinced that what the Beauty needed was lots of breathing space and freedom from draughts, and a greater uniformity of temperature than it is possible to maintain in the smaller house. So in 1911 Lord & Burnham built for me one of their Iron Frame Compression Truss houses, 60 feet wide x 400 feet long.

We first tried the house out with Pink and White Killarneys, Richmonds and Wards, which were of the finest quality.

Lord & Burnham Company

the Right Houses American own Around Boston

My brother, George McAlpine, who looks after the growing, having sort of "got the gait" of big house growing, as it were, this year tried some Beauties in the last big house. The results have been highly satisfactory in every way.

It may be a bit early to make any sweeping statements yet; still we firmly believe that Lord & Burnham have gone a long way toward making Beauty growing a success here in the east.

I believe their houses to be constructed on lines of most careful greenhouse engineering practice and a thorough understanding of growing condition requirements.

I am confident these houses of ours can withstand any of our strong eastern blows, and that they will last so that my grandchildren will be growing roses in them.

"The islands on the Sacramento river are interesting and are tremendously fertile. The land is all reclaimed and large levees keep the river out. The road runs along the top of the levee and a fine view is obtained of crops when driving along. These islands are by no means small, many of them containing 25,000 acres. The land varies. A great deal of it is rich sediment land, while much of it is peat. During dry seasons irrigating can be conveniently done by means of a siphon through the levee. On the other hand, should a wet season come there is always a perfect drainage system, so that the water can be pumped out. Occasionally a levee may break when the river is in flood, and then all is lost. A flooded island is surely a desolate sight. On one island this year I saw over 1,500 acres of onion bulbs grown for market. Never before had I seen so many onions and all in perfect condition.

"Australian Brown is one of the most popular market onions, because of its keeping qualities. Prizetaker is perhaps the next. It is a grand cropper and always looks well on the market. Yellow Globe Danvers and Yellow Danvers Flat are other popular market varieties. The firm with whom I am employed grows annually some 700 and 800 acres of onions for seed. The varieties are separated from one another as far as possible, and in the case of different colors often miles separate them. So long as Californian growers keep up the scientific method of growing onion seed, then they are always going to command the lead."

is a money-maker, being a grand variety indoors and out. Aside from a possible sport, it has never varied from the soft, silvery pink which is best in full sunshine, making it an ideal bedder. Plants like cut can be grown in three months, which, in 2½ or 3½-in. pots, will make double the money that geraniums or any other bedding plant will, from the fact that you can grow 16 plants to the square foot in 2½-in. pots and 9 plants in 3½-in. pots. Use pencil and figure profit at 75c to $1.50 per dozen. It requires 9 months for geraniums to do half so well, and a year of good growing for carnations and many other plants to equal it. Clean up a corner anywhere and fill with SILVER PINK. You can't keep it from growing.

Price of seed—my own growing—$1.00 per packet of over 500 seeds; 4 packets, $2.50, delivered. Can still supply plants for MEMORIAL DAY flowering at $4.00 per 100, $35.00 per 1000, by express. Cash must accompany all orders.

The Market.

This week finds business a little better than last, owing to a number of funerals of more or less importance. Tulips, daffodils, sweet peas and Easter lilies, as well as roses and carnations, are plentiful and blooming plants are holding their own.

Various Notes.

A. W. Brandt's new location in the Board of Trade building seems to be far better than the old one. He says that business has been double what it was in the old place and his expenses are only a trifle more. He is well pleased with the change and, as he has an attractive store, there is no reason why he should not do a good business.

The Smith & Young Co. has been handling some fine Beauties and fancy peas lately and the firm's own cut of Killarney is of superior quality.

John Rieman says business has been good with him and he has no room for complaint.

Hartje & Elder are cutting some fine carnations and daisies.

L. F. Benson says his new location is getting better all the time, and the improvements he is making from time to time support his statement.

E. A. Nelson is cutting some fine white and lavender peas and a fine lot of smilax.

The State Florists' Association will meet Tuesday, March 4, at W. J. & M. S. Vesey's, Fort Wayne. Indianapolis florists will meet at the Union station at 7:15 a. m. on that date and will leave on the 7:30 train on the L. E. & W. It is hoped there will be a large attendance from Indianapolis, as well as from all over the state.

Baur & Steinkamp are to be congratulated on their new white carnation, the Shasta. They have been busy this week shipping carnation cuttings and geranium stock. Orders are coming in fast now and it keeps them hustling to keep ahead.

HE LAUGHS BEST

who laughs last, is often the case with lily bulb buyers, who make price their sole argument in buying. The writer knows one of this type—the genuine razor-back variety—who always wanted something for nothing, and for that reason we could never sell him bulbs. Last fall this man bought some Multiflorum at a low price, from a two-cylindere salesman, who was silly enough to guarantee them 85 per cent true. Well, this florist was tickled to death with his bargain—felt just like the fellow who was wrecked on a desert island with the girl who had refused him the night before. That was last fall. Now, after the plants are grown, this particular buyer feels about the size of the nipple-end of a lemon. Swears he won't pay for the bulbs—though he will likely be obliged to. Now, even if he don't pay for the bulbs, where will he get even on his time, labor, expense and loss of business profits? It has been a good dose of business-medicine for him—the kind that cures; and he knows it. He admits he was wrong—thank goodness he's man enough to admit it. Now, he has bought Horseshoe Brand Giganteum for fall 1913. No strings on the order, no promises, and at standard prices. Our business is largely lily bulbs—we have spent years to get where we are today in the business, and we endeavor to deliver the goods instead of promises. Write for prices and the new Horseshoe Bulbology, out in March.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Wenatchee, Wash.—The Milot-Mills Co. has completed a new greenhouse, 20x200, and will use it for lettuce and other vegetables, with roses between seasons. With this addition, the company now has 25,000 square feet of glass. When the steam was turned off in order to make connections with the piping in the new house, an unexpected delay in the work endangered the stock in the whole range, as the weather was severely cold. However, no great harm was done. Tom Christenson and Frank Jennech now have charge of the growing department.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business last week showed a little increase. The call for funeral work was unusually brisk. With the increase of sunshine, flowers are becoming more plentiful, especially carnations, among which Enchantress seems still to predominate. Pink Delight, however, has proved itself worthy of more space and is making inroads on the popularity of Enchantress. Roses are improving; yet there is a scarcity of all varieties. Violets are more plentiful and hence are declining in price. Valley and orchids are about cleaned up daily. Daffodils, tulips and hyacinths are plentiful and furnish a little diversion from the general run of flowers.

Various Notes.

Hans Niklas recently came near losing his home by fire; only quick action on the part of his household extinguished the blaze.

The present outlook for lilies for Easter is discouraging, on account of the early date this year. It will keep the stock hustling to be in on time.

C. T. Kipp, of the Spokane Florist Co., Spokane, with his family, stopped over a few days en route home from an extended trip through California.

E. R. C.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Valentine's day proved to be a record-breaker this year. A great deal more fancy stock was handled than ever before. Daffodils, pansies, violets and orchids were in great demand for Cupid's festival. These and other spring flowers give the retail stores a gay appearance, while the excellent quality of the indoor stock shown is also a great help along this line. Beauty roses are doing well now, the flowers being large and fine in color. White Killarneys are also fine in substance and open up splendidly. The cool weather has evidently suited the Killarneys well, for they have never looked better than now. Carnations are good and plentiful; the outdoor stock from Japanese growers is coming in freely again. Violets are abundant; orchids are about equal to the demand and there is enough valley to go around.

The first freesias appeared last week and were soon snapped up at fair prices. Daffodils, Dutch Roman hyacinths and other bulbous flowers are coming freely, but are cleaned up well. Quantities of fruit tree branches, especially almonds, have a pretty effect in the windows and help out in the scarcity of Asparagus plumosus, the supply of which has not been equal to the demand. In plants, azaleas, cyclamens and ferns are principally shown. There is almost an entire absence of neat little specimens of tulips, hyacinths and other spring bulbous stock, and why growers do not attend to this end of the business is difficult to understand.

Various Notes.

Norris & Son have moved across the street from their old location on Washington street. They are now at the corner of Flower and Washington, the new number being 501 West Washington.

James O'Reilly, who has been with

J. W. Wolters since the opening of his new store on Hill street, has gone back to Wright's Flower Shop as designer.

The brothers Lanse, until recently gardener and orchid grower at the Doheny place, have started in business for themselves at the corner of Ardmore and Pico streets. They have been fortunate in obtaining a five-year lease on several acres of ground in this rapidly growing residence section and are building a large lath house. Two hard working, conscientious young men such as they are can hardly fail to make good under these favorable conditions.

Over at Pasadena, The Orchid is busy at both stores. At a recent dance Mr. Jaeger said they used ten dozen large bay trees, with sixty-two dozen Easter lilies as another item.

Some of the most promising Easter lilies I have seen are at the Hillcrest Nursery. Mrs. Wearé has installed a

“RAMONA”

The New Red Cherokee Rose

THIS sensational and magnificent new climbing rose occurred as a sport from the well-known Pink Cherokee (Rosa Sinica, var. Anemone). It is a stronger and more rampant grower than its parent, and produces during the spring and early summer months flowers in such profusion as to entirely cover the plant; in autumn there is a secondary crop of bloom. The flowers are much larger than either the pink or white forms, with brilliant golden-yellow stamens and broad petals of a glorious carmine-crimson color; an unusual shade, wonderfully striking and effective; the foliage is absolutely mildew-proof, a rich, glossy green, so bright that it appears as though varnished. The life-like illustration in our advertisement in The Review of February 20th, showing blooms and foliage natural size, pictures its beauty stronger than mere words.

The original sport occurred on the nurseries of Messrs. Dieterich & Turner, at Montebello, California. They, realizing its value and great beauty, propagated over one hundred thousand plants, from whom we acquired the entire stock. This is indicative of our faith in its value, and its coming popularity is attested by the fact that we have already booked orders for many thousands of plants, hence we feel that we are safe in stating that “RAMONA” will have the largest first season's sale of any new rose ever offered to the American trade.

“RAMONA”

will be of special value as a garden rose to the entire Pacific Coast, the Southwestern, Gulf and South Atlantic States; it will prove hardy as far north as Philadelphia. For planting on pergolas, pillars, porches, etc., it is a rose of unique and beautiful effect; in addition, it makes an elegant hedge plant if properly trained and pruned, affording a relief from the stereotyped privet hedges, with the added value of a rich display of color.

— We are offering plants of “Ramona” at the following prices, cash with order: —

In lots less than one hundred: From 2-inch pots, 35 cents each, $3.50 per dozen; from 3-inch pots, 50 cents each, $5.00 per dozen; from 5-inch pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per dozen.

In lots of one hundred to five hundred: From 2-inch pots, $30.00 per one hundred; from 3-inch pots, $30.00; from 5-inch pots, $60.00.

In lots of five hundred to one thousand: From 2-inch pots, $125.00 per thousand; from 3-inch pots, $150.00 per thousand.

Parties desiring to list “Ramona” can be supplied by us with copies of the colored plate shown in the Review of February 20th, at the rate of $3.50 per hundred, $30.00 per thousand; larger quantities at special rates.

new hot water apparatus in place of steam, and so well was the work timed and arranged that only fifteen minutes elapsed between putting the fire out in the old steam boiler and lighting up in the new.

At the store of the Hayward Floral Co. the Valentine's day business was remarkably heavy. "More like Christmas than Valentine's day," was Walter Garbett's report, in which Mr. Darling agreed. The window displays are quite helpful here in pulling business and are a great credit to all concerned.

The first Purity freesias of the season appeared recently at the Los Angeles Flower Market, the produce of some of the San Gabriel growers, and they were surely fine stock. Nearly 10,000 daffodils are arriving daily, but they seem to clean up well.

C. M. Turner has followed Jacques Gonzawa as bookkeeper at the wholesale store of the H. N. Gage Co. Mr. Gonzawa is now keeping the books for S. Murata & Co., the Hayward Floral Co. and other florists. Mr. Gage reports excellent business for the season, and the daffodils, jonquils and hyacinths from the new ranch are coming in large quantities.

Despite the shortage in many lines of flower seeds, the Germain Seed & Plant Co., owing to its control of the output of the Johansen ranches at Arroyo Grande, has been enabled to keep up well with orders, which are larger than ever before. The need of a reliable wholesale house for florists' lines has long been felt in southern California and Germain's is filling the bill.

Considerable alterations are going on at the store of O. C. Saakes, who hopes to get all fixed up by Easter. The removal of the ice-box farther back from the window gives a more open appearance to the store and is a great improvement.

The quality of Killarney, White Killarney and other roses now being shipped in from the Dietrich & Turner greenhouses is exceptionally good.

Walter Armacost & Co. are using large quantities of valley now and the stock is excellent. There will be quite a large number of good lilies in for Easter here.

S. Murata has bought a new thirty-one horse-power Buick touring car.

H. R. Richards.

SEATTLE.

The Market.

Business is quiet in all sections of the flower trade. Most varieties of cut flowers are in excess of demand, in carnations there is quite a glut, and prices are being cut to a preposterous extent. Bulbous stock of all kinds is plentiful and moving slowly. There are few varieties of pot plants, and it appears that the supply for Easter will not be heavy.

Various Notes.

Rosaia Bros. are importing fine acacia and other flowers from California. Their store was gay with eucalyptus and other southern products this week.

Valentine's day was not up to last year, but some stores sold out their stock, nevertheless.

The first florists' ball having proved an unqualified success, it has been resolved to hold another, and a committee

He will superintend the Risdon plant at Brighton.

Jacob Umhauff, who for several years conducted a greenhouse and nursery at Madison Park, has accepted the position of manager of the new city greenhouses in Volunteer park. While the park board will benefit by the change, the trade in this city will suffer a loss, as Mr. Umhauff has long been known to be one of the best plant growers in the city.

Charles Shaw, of Los Angeles, has been calling on the trade this week, selling nursery stock and taking orders for Bailey's cyclopedia.

Easter lilies will be plentiful this year—after Easter. The stock of giganteums promises about twenty-five per cent to be in time, and in some cases there will not be a flower out before March 23.

J. A. Sahle sold his stock of Formosas to Ralph Richardson, who has transferred them to his plant at Brighton. Ralph is making a good name for himself as a carnation grower, and is extending his business in other directions.

Peter De Long, who has been at Risdon's, has accepted a position at the Rosaia plant at Thomas. T. W.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

We are apparently in the midst of another "dry year," but that fact is not evident from the amount of flowering stock of all kinds being brought into town. If it were not for the good quantity of funeral work, which is well divided among the stores, there would be little to write about. Stock of all sorts is plentiful, cheap and good. Carnations and roses have tumbled in price even below that of last week. Daffodils and narcissi of many kinds are now at their best and everything is lovely except the prices. Violets are a glut and only a part of them are used. Sweet peas are of good color, but are not yet as low in price as they will be. Other lines of stock hold their own after a fashion, but there is little life to business. However, green goods move well. Maidenhair ferns are more plentiful than they have been, and the same can be said of asparagus. Valley and tulips are a slight drug. Freesias are scarcer.

Various Notes.

W. W. Randall, representing the A. L. Randall Co., of Chicago, has been in town.

The Alameda County Floral Society will give a spring exhibition in Oakland early in May.

E. March, for several years in the plant department of C. C. Morse & Co., is no longer with that firm.

Philip Murray, well known to the local trade, has left the flower business and taken an agency for advertising novelties.

The continued dry weather has had a depressing effect on the planting of outside stock, which has been keenly felt by the local nurserymen. G.

PANSIES FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

We should like to know when to sow pansy seed for Decoration day and how to grow them. State what temperature to keep them in at night, how to feed them and what insects trouble them. What kind of soil do they do best in, and do they do best on raised benches or in solid beds? We have a house 15 x 200 which we wish to grow pansies in. Will it pay at an average of 15 cents per dozen. C. & F.

The best pansies for Memorial day sales would have been obtained by sowing the seed last August. Seeing, however, that this has not been done, and that you are anxious to work up a good stock for that date, you should procure seed at once and sow in flats or on a shallow raised bench, in a house with a night temperature not exceeding 48 degrees. When the seedlings are of sufficient size to handle, they can be transplanted directly into the beds. The compost for pansies should be rather light, but rich. Plenty of well decayed manure should be used; that from old hotbeds answers well. Give them a temperature as near 45 degrees at night as you can and ventilate freely on every possible occasion. A close atmosphere and careless watering will cause many plants to damp off. Few insects trouble pansies. A light fumigation with one of the nicotine papers weekly will keep them clean. The plants would do better on raised benches, but fall raised stock, which is the best, would have done best in solid beds. Purchase seed of Giant Trimardeau or some good strain. Do not plant cheap seed. At an average price of 15 to 20 cents per dozen, they should prove a paying crop. C. W.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSEYMEN.

Officers for 1912-1913: Pres., Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; Vice-Pres., J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-eighth annual meeting, Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

A. WILLIS, the nurseryman of Ottawa, Kan., delivered a pointed and practical address on apple growing at the recent meeting of the Missouri Valley Horticultural Society in Kansas City, Mo.

HENRY W. KRUCKEBERG, of Los Angeles, secretary of the California Association of Nurserymen, has mailed to those interested the "Transactions and Proceedings of the Second Annual Meeting," held at Oakland, Cal., November 7 to 9. It is a well printed volume of 116 pages, not counting the advertising section.

H. F. HILLENMEYER, the veteran nurseryman of Lexington, Ky., has kept records of the weather for more than fifty years and has given much attention to meteorological data. He has been drawing attention, recently, to the abnormal rainfall in his county for January, 1913, and states that only six times in seventy-two years has the rainfall of the entire month of January exceeded that of the first eleven days of this year, in that locality.

At the annual meeting of the National Association of Retail Nurserymen, held recently in Rochester, N. Y., the association signified its approval of the past record of its officers by reelecting the whole force, as follows: President, Edward S. Osborne; vice-president, J. H. Pitkin; secretary and treasurer, F. E. Grover. The principal subject of discussion at the meeting was the Vert bill, which would require nurserymen to guarantee under severe penalties that trees sold by them are the exact variety specified on the labels, and which would oblige them to make a contract of sale in writing with each purchaser, whether one or a million trees were bought. The speakers vigorously opposed the bill, as being unjust, unworkable and unnecessary.

THE MENERAY RECEIVERSHIP.

The nursery property of the F. W. Meneray Co., at Council Bluffs, Ia., will be sold to satisfy a judgment of nearly $60,000, entered against the company in favor of the First National Bank of that city. The company has been in the hands of a receiver for several months. The judgment is for $58,168.12, added to which is an attorney's fee of $621.68. The judgment is based on promissory notes given by the nursery

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

The Market.

Bulbous stock in quantity is coming in now and the florists are making the most of it in most creditable window decorations. All report trade as being brisk, both in cut flowers and pot plants, funeral orders being quite heavy lately. The weather last week was mild, bringing stock on rapidly. Should this continue, the growers will be anxious, as it will have a tendency to bring out Easter stock too early. Roses are more plentiful now than for some time. Sweet peas are coming in and they are choice stock, too. Bulbous stock in pots and pans is abundant. Some of the local growers are sending in exceptionally good carnations.

Various Notes.

Wm. H. Long had an attractive window display of daffodils, tulips and some choice sweet peas. He also had some well flowered azaleas, pans of tulips and daffodils, which sell well.

Charles Munro had an attractive window display of exceptionally well grown specimens of azaleas and lilacs from his greenhouses on Townsend avenue. He also receives daily an exceptionally good stock of daffodils and tulips.

Lilium giganteum, tulips, sweet peas, daffodils and freesias, interspersed with pussy willows in willow baskets, make a most charming and effective window display at Champion & Co.'s. They also show a few choice orchids. Mr. Champion attended the meeting of the American Kennel Club in New York last week.

The New England Nurserymen's Association held its first annual convention in Worcester on Tuesday, February 25. E. F. Coe, of the Elm City Nursery Co., was scheduled to talk on "Travels and Observations of a Nurseryman in Japan," illustrated by the stereopticon. John Barnes, of Yalesville, was to talk on "Winter Storage Houses," and Stephen Hoyt, of New Caanan, on "The Moving of Large Trees."

Andrew McCrea had a prettily decorated window of bulbous stock in pots display of bulbous stock from their greenhouses on Sherman avenue.

A recent visit to the greenhouses of Jos. J. Sokol found this up-to-date plant in splendid shape. Mr. Sokol maintains a wholesale and retail trade in cut flowers and pot plants. He reports a rush business, with heavy orders for funeral work. The houses of Formosa lilies are looking O. K., with practically no disease this year. All will be in for was published in response to many requests from florists who felt the need for an up-to-date book that could be used in taking orders for Funeral Designs, Wedding Decorations and Bouquets, Table Decorations and all cut flower work where it was not practicable to show the customer the finished article as it would be when ready for use. With this Album you can show the finished work in beautifully printed pictures. Everything is in it—all the standard designs and many new and heretofore unpublished pieces.

96 pages, nearly 300 designs and decorations, beautifully printed on heavy glazed paper, handsomely bound in a cover that will stand wear.

Easter. Lilies are grown the year around at this place. Baby rambles are coming along nicely and will be right for Easter. A big batch of exceptionally well grown primulas were noted, which Mr. Sokol says sell fast at Easter; also a fine lot of Spiraea Gladstone, as nice a stock as anyone could wish. His carnation houses are in the pink of perfection. He finds the Enchantress family most profitable. Bedding plants are grown in immense quantities, which Mr. Sokol has no trouble in disposing of to the local trade.

Willimantic, Conn.—W. A. Dawson is debating the question of re-leasing the place he now has or building a new plant upon some land he owns in a most desirable location. It is likely he will decide upon the latter course.

The Market.

The Easter proposition is the main topic of discussion in the different stores at this time, the question being, in view of the earliness of Easter, whether or not there will be sufficient stock to meet all demands. From outward appearances it would seem as though there will be enough, and possibly more, Easter lilies, spireas, lilacs, azaleas, and some of the other flowers, but hydrangeas and ramblers, in many instances, are not setting buds to suit the growers and it is doubtful if these will be ready. Bulbous stock promises to be exceptionally good this year and will be ready in large quantities.

The cut flower market gives promise of being plentifully supplied, with few exceptions.

Various Notes.

Robert Bowdler will this week open a store at Fourteenth and I streets, N. W., following the completion of the work of decorators and electricians, who have been making numerous changes in the interior. This store was formerly occupied by George C. Shaffer, who recently moved across the street. L. L. Bowdler, who has been running one of the Center Market stands, will be in charge of this new enterprise.

Gude Bros. Co. has been awarded the contract for decorating the stand in front of the capitol where President-elect Wilson will take the oath of office; 500 yards of laurel roping, 300 wreaths and a quantity of American Beauty roses to be placed in vases on the table before which Mr. Wilson will stand, will be utilized. J. H. Small & Sons have been given the contract for the decorating of the White House stand, where President Wilson will review the parade.

Mrs. Martha Saunders, one of the oldest residents of Washington and widow of the late William Saunders, has passed away at the age of 90 years. Born in Dorsetshire, England, she came to this country in 1848. Her husband was for more than twenty-five years superintendent of gardens and grounds in the Department of Agriculture and it was he who laid out Fairmount park in Philadelphia and the Gettysburg battle-field.

Due to the fact that March 4 is inauguration day, the regular monthly meeting of the Florists' Club will be postponed until the following Tuesday, when the annual election of officers will take place. This promises to be an exciting event, due to the number of candidates for each position.

ENCHANTRESS SUPREME

THE best Sport of Enchantress up to date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguish its parent. Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching. A good all-round Carnation that retains its color at all seasons. Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. Has shown no inclination to be a burster. The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years' duration convinces us of its great value.

TOLEDO, O.

The Market.

Valentine's day trade was unusually good. Business for the last week has also been good, considering the unseasonable weather, which on some days was more like April than February.

Various Notes.

Miss Josephine Helmer has severed her connection with Mrs. J. B. Freeman, and leaves in the first part of March to accept a position with Breitmeyer's Sons, of Detroit, Mich.

A visit to Mrs. E. Suder's greenhouses found everything in fine condition. She has lots of bulb stock and some beautiful pots of lilac.

Some extra fine sweet peas are arriving from Maples Farm.

W. B. Lake, of Philadelphia, and J. J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer's, Philadelphia, were among last week's visitors.

H. E. P.

PARIS, TEX.

J. W. Goree had an unusually heavy Valentine's day business and sent out some baskets that would have done credit to a city of half a million people.

Mike Robinus, as usual, had a large share of the best class of trade in town.

E. L. Kiley, whose store is in the lobby of Grand theater, had a big funeral which cleaned up his Valentine's day trade and put him out of the running February 14. He has a miniature park on the floor of the lobby, with real grass and tiny trees and shrubbery, a little gardener with his wheelbarrow

New Single Rose IRISH FIRE FLAME

A new departure in Roses for winter forcing. Irish Fire Flame is a single rose with only five petals, and is the most striking and the best single rose Messrs. Alex. Dickson & Sons have ever raised. It flowers profusely during the winter months, producing both single flowers and sprays of from three to five buds. The bud is an intense fiery crimson scarlet at the tip, shading at the base of petals to orange salmon; the open flower is a beautiful bright salmon. It is of strong, vigorous growth, with dark green foliage, reverse of leaf deep bronze.

We have tested this rose for two years and can confidently recommend it as a sterling novelty in roses. It has been awarded a Gold Medal by the National Rose Society of Great Britain and has taken several prizes for table decoration.

NEW ORLEANS.

The Market.

St. Valentine's day, as well as Washington's birthday, brought a change in the dull Lenten season. Some of the retail stores and show windows were appropriately decorated for these occasions. Northern flowers are arriving, but orders are small. Carnations are sold by street venders and at the public markets for 75 cents and $1 per dozen. It can safely be said that the harm caused by such competition is small. The growers are preparing for the coming Easter. Some of them have hydrangeas, spiræas, rhododendrons, etc., in bloom and find ready buyers even in this advanced season. The prospect for Easter lilies is good, and all kinds of stock will be on hand.

A cold wave struck this city the second week of the month and the temperature went to the freezing point. For the first time this winter ice could be seen in many places.

The many landscape gardeners in town have a busy time now, because some of their work was delayed by the rainy season. The many beds of spring-flowering plants, such as pansies, iberis, sweet alyssum, marigolds, etc., add much to the beauty of the local gardens.

Various Notes.

One of the main features of last week was the large decoration of the Washington Artillery hall, where the automobile show is being held. Wild smilax, palms, bays and other foliage plants were used effectively. The contract for the work was awarded to U. J. Virgin. R. E.

New American Beauty Geranium

We take great pleasure in introducing to our many customers for 1913 the New American Beauty Geranium. For the first time, after working on this wonderful new Geranium for nearly three years, we are offering it for sale. It originated from a novelty collection and has stood the test now nearly three years.

Our Claim for American Beauty Geranium is that it surpasses all other Geraniums in its real American Beauty color—

1. In brilliancy of color.
2. In size of its large blooms.
3. In earliness of bloom.
4. In constancy of bloom.
5. In vigor, strength and stocky plants.
6. In propagating quality.
7. In number of large clusters of blooms.
8. In selling quality.
9. In a wonderful ability to retain its color in cool or the hottest weather.
10. In a Geranium that has come to stay as a money maker.

AMERICAN BEAUTY is semi-double, of the purest American Beauty color. It is so distinct that no difference can be detected in the color of an American Beauty Rose. The only Geranium of its color ever introduced. It flowers freely the entire season. It grows compact, medium dwarf, of stately shape with lustrous green foliage, slightly corrugated, with a brownish circle. It produces gigantic flower heads very freely the entire season. We claim it to have larger flower heads than any other variety of its kind. The individual blooms measure $2\frac{3}{4}$ inches across and have as many as eight fully opened, gigantic flower spikes and several half open and more in bud, in eight-inch pots.

The Market.

The pleasing thing about last week was the mild weather, which naturally helped everything along finely. On the roses it worked like a spring tonic, for roses during the last few weeks have been decidedly off crop. The Lenten season seems to be having its usual effect on business, as there appears to be a lull in trade. Funeral work, however, is an exception; it is doing its share toward the betterment of conditions. There seem to be plenty of flowers, in varieties to meet all requirements; also an ample supply of seasonable pot plants, which in many cases sell more readily than cut flowers. The recent warm weather is commencing to coax outdoor vegetation along, while the hyacinths, tulips and other bulbous plants have already broken through the soil.

Various Notes.

Mr. Alexander, representing Lion & Co., of Philadelphia, called on a few of the Dayton florists while en route to Columbus.

A pretty spring window was displayed at the store of the Heiss Co., last week.

We are glad to report that Mrs. B. Hendrichs is again able to be about.

James Ewing was in Richmond, Ind., last week, where he visited the establishment of the E. G. Hill Co. John Bochner was also there last week.

Miss Katherine Young was one of Dayton's busiest florists last week, largely on account of funeral work.

W. W. Horlacher says he has realized a good thing in his orchids this

There is but one SNAPDRAGON worth while—and that is

Buxton's Silver Pink

IT PRODUCES large spikes, 30 inches long. Requires no wires or stakes to hold it erect. Flowers freely and brings the top-notch price in the open market. Whether you are a wholesaler or retailer, you cannot go wrong by planting a bench of this excellent variety. See testimonials in earlier issues of The Review from leading growers and retailers that prove the merits of this sterling variety.

PREPARE FOR EASTER!

From whom will we purchase our Easter supply?

shall be our man in the future. He always treated us right before, and we can rely upon him. What he advertises is true and is no bluff.

If you would know the fairest sight your eyes can ever see Where the most perfect plants are grown, to Aschmann's come with me.
Why! ne'er since flowers began to bloom was such a glorious show
Of all the best that florists need, found in one place to grow.
The Lilies are the very best yet seen on Easter Day,
Azaleas are whole sheets of flowers, perfect in every way.

From our old friend, GODFREY ASCHMANN, of Philadelphia, of course. He was our man of the past, and he shall be our man this Easter, and, as long as he ships us good plants, he shall be our man in the future. He always treated us right before, and we can rely upon him. What he advertises is true and is no bluff.

The Araucarias, matchless are the Ferns all green,
With bulbs and plumed Spiraeas, the best you've ever seen;
And Aschmann gives a challenge: "Let every florist hear!
For flowers or prices, either, no rival does he fear;
If you wish to gather dollars like Violets in the Spring,
Then send your largest order—his plants the cash will bring."

Specialist in Araucaria Excelsa.

Araucaria Excelsa, our specialty. We have a stock of 2000, April, 1912, importation, and can meet all demands. 5, 5½, 6-in. pots, 3, 4, 5, 6 tiers, 12, 15, 20, 25 to 30 inches high, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50; specimens, 40 to 50 inches high, $2.00.

NOVELTY IN PANS

All the pans are very fine, well established, filled last fall, and can be shipped safely in or out of pans.

6-in. azalea pot or pan, filled with a large Wilsoni fern, 50c per pan.

6-in. azalea pan or pot, filled with a large Pteris Wilsoni fern, and in the center 1 large Dracaena Terminalis, red foliage, 75c to $1.00 per pan. These pans are very showy.

6-in. azalea pot or pan, filled with Albo-Lineata and other large dish ferns of the best varieties, such as Tauusimense, Mayli, Falcatum and others, 50c per pan.

6-in. azalea pot or pan, filled with Asparagus Plumosus, large size, 10 to 12 inches high, 35c to 50c per pan.

Regular 6-in. pans, filled with Asparagus Plumosus or Sprengeri or Wilsoni and table ferns, very attractive, 25c to 35c per pan.

6-in. pans, filled with Asparagus Plumosus or Sprengeri and dish ferns, and Kentia Forsteriana in center, only 35c per pan.

HYACINTHS, TULIPS, NARCISSI

All of our bulbs are of our own importation, obtained at very high prices in Holland and can not be compared with cheap bulbs floating in these markets.

Hyacinths, bulbs of our own importation, first-class. Gertrude, best pink; La Grandesse, best white; Grand Maitre, best lavender blue; King of the Blues, best dark blue, 4-in. pots, now $10.00 per 100; Easter, when in bloom, $12.00 per 100.

Tulips. Tourensol, best double, variegated red and yellow; Murillo, double rose; Imperator Rubrorum, double red; Couronne d'Or, double yellow, 3 bulbs planted in 4-in. pot, $15.00 per 100 pots; will bloom one week before Easter, just right for Easter trade.

Narcissi. Von Sion, best double yellow narcissus or daffodil, double nose bulbs, 3 bulbs in a 5½ or 6-in. pot, for Easter blooming, $3.00 per doz. pots.

Crimson Rambler Roses, 6-in. pots, right for Easter, large plants, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 per plant.

Spiraea Gladstone. We have a big house full of these, ready, in bloom and bud, one week before Easter or when desired, 6 to 7-in. pots, 35c, 40c, 50c, 75c.

Primula Obconica. We are well prepared this year, 3000 on hand, all sizes; in previous years we never could supply half the demand; the reason the demand was so large is, because they bloom all the time, are good keepers and shippers. 4, 4½, 5, 5½ and 6-in. pots, 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, 35c and 50c.

Dracaena Terminalis, red colored, 5½-in., 40c. Ficus Elastica, or Rubber Plant. We have a large stock, about 1500, American and Belgian stock, spring 1912 propagation, in fine state, 5½, 6, 7-in. pots, 20, 25, 30 inches high, 30c, 35c, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c.

Aspidistra, 6-in., green foliage, 75c to $1.00.

TWO HOUSES DEVOTED TO FERNS

All in fine condition. The 7 and 8-in. sizes are as large as a bushel basket—some as large as a washtub; ALL POT-GROWN.

Scholzelli and Whitmani ferns, 5½, 6, 7-in. pots, 40c, 50c, 75c, $1.00.

Boston Ferns, 5½-in. to 6-in., 7-in. pots, 40c, 50c, 75c, $1.00.

Scottii Ferns, 5½-in. to 6-in., 7-in. and 8-in. pots, 35c, 40c, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

Nephrolepis Glatrasii. This is a very handsome fern, resembling the Scottii, but shorter and bushier, with weeping habit, which gives it a very fine appearance and makes it valuable. 5, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 40c, 50c; 3 to 4-in., 20c to 25c.

Ferns for dishes, 2½-in., assorted, $4.00 per 100; 3-in., 7c.

Asparagus Sprengeri, large 4-in. pots, strong, 10c; 2½-in., strong, $4.00 per 100.

Asparagus Plumosus Nanus, spring 1912 sowing, large bushy 4-in., 10c; large, 3-in., 12 inches high, $6.00 per 100; 2½-in., 6, 8 to 10 inches high, suitable for edging pans of hyacinths, tulips, etc., $4.00 to $5.00 per 100.

For the last 35 years we have been in the Lily culture, and we have given the growing of Lilies for Easter our special attention; we can safely say that we have reached that point where we can declare ourselves Lily Specialists. We have three houses of the best Multiflorum with buds hanging now, just right for Easter, of medium height, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 buds to a plant, all nicely staked up, 12c per bud for those having 3, 4 and 5 buds to a plant; 10c per bud for those having 6, 7 and 8 buds to the plant.

Go to Headquarters for Azaleas.

Azalea Indica is a specialty with us, grown for us under contract by an Azalea specialist of Belgium for the last twenty years. Have four houses full of the choicest. Only best well-known American varieties are imported, and are now in excellent condition, covered with buds, just right for Easter. We ship only good stock, full of buds and flowers.

What is the name of the best double pink azalea? Mme. Vander Cruyssen is the name, originated by the well-known azalea specialist Mr. Vander Cruyssen of Belgium. Millions are raised every year and shipped to every point of the globe from Belgium. We have a big stock on hand of this so well-known and favorite variety in tiptop condition. Every plant is as round as an apple, covered with buds, just right for Easter trade, 6, 7 and 8-in. pots, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 each. NOTICE.—A portion of large size Mme. Vander Cruyssen must be ordered in connection with small sizes, because we were able to get only a limited amount of this variety in smaller sizes.

Niobe, double white, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

Paul Weber, double rose, white border, 75c, $1.00, $1.25.

De Schryveriana, double variegated pink, white border, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

Vervaeckiana, double variegated rose, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

Apollo, double red, $1.00, $1.25, $1.75 to $2.00.

John Llewellyn, double pink, white border; Simon Mardner, double pink, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

Empress of India, double variegated rose, white border; only small plants, 50c to 60c.

Deutsche Perle, double white. Stock limited of this variety, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25.

About 6 more best assorted varieties, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

If you leave the varieties to us, we shall give you a good assortment in best varieties and sizes according to price. If we are out of variety and size mentioned in your orders, we shall send the next best variety and size as near as possible.

PALMS.

We are well provided this Easter with a big stock of Kentia Forsteriana Palms. To make room for the new importation coming in from Belgium in April, we will be able to give you excellent good value in them. Just look at these low prices—a bargain seldom offered: 6-in. pots, 30, 35, 40, 50 inches high, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00; 7-in. pots, made up, a large one, about 45 to 50 inches, in center, 3 smaller ones around, $5.00, $3.50 to $4.00; single plants, 5 to 5½-in. pots, 25 to 30 inches high, 50c, 60c, 75c; 4-in., 25c.

Kentia Belmoreana combination plants, made up of 3 plants, 20 to 25 inches high, 6-in. pot, 75c to $1.00; single plants, bushy, 5½-in. pots, 50c, 60c, 75c; 4 to 4½ and 5-in. pots, 25c, 30c, 40c.

Primula Chinensis, in bloom, 5½-in., $2.50 per doz.

Cineraria Hybrida Grandiflora. Henry F. Michell Co.'s new improved strain. Our plants and flowers of this strain are twice the size of those of other years, with perfect green foliage, almost as big as a bushel basket, 6-in. pots, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c to $1.00 each.

Spiraea Gladstone. This variety, owing to the dry summer in Holland last year, will be very scarce this Easter, but we, fortunately, secured enough to fill two houses full, and they are now in fine condition, full of buds, 6 to 7-in. pots, 35c, 50c, 75c to $1.00 each; dozen or 100 the same.

Ipomoea Noctiflora, purest white moonflower, for which we have a world-wide reputation, now ready, 2½-in. pots, $5.00 per 100.

Begonia Gloire de Lorraine, 5½-in., 6-in., in bloom and bud, 35c, 40c, 50c to 75c.

Begonia Luminosa and other fine strains of Vernon type, 5½-in., 25c.

Queen Alexandra Daisies, 5½-in., 25c to 35c.

Hydrangea Otaksa for Easter, pot-grown. We have a whole house of these, 5½, 6, 7-in. pots, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

Cyclamen, 5½-in., in bloom and bud, 35c, 40c, 50c; 4-in., 25c.

All Goods Must Travel at Purchaser's Risk only. Cash With Order, Please. Please State if You Want Stock Shipped in or Out of Pots. All Plants 25 at 100 Rate.

The Market.

Trade is what can be considered fair. The supply of cut flowers meets the demand nicely, with the exception of carnations, which are coming in too heavily. Roses are more plentiful, especially White Killarney, but bring good prices. Some fine Killarney Queen are coming in. Bulbous stock is somewhat shorter than for some time. Valley and violets meet with a fair demand. Quite a few lilies are to be seen, the blooms of good quality.

Various Notes.

Morgan & Sons, of Glastonbury, are sending some fine carnations to Spear & McManus.

Thos. Dryden has some fine primulas and azaleas. At his greenhouse everything is ready for the Easter rush.

A. N. Pierson, of Cromwell, has some fine lilies. This firm grows over 300,000 and it is a sight worth seeing, as they are in good condition.

The monthly meeting of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society was held February 19, President Lee occupying the chair. Thomas Morris, James Barlow and John H. Weaver were elected active members. A splendid vase of Carnation The Herald was staged by the Chicago Carnation Co., which was awarded a certificate of merit. The dates for the fall show were fixed for November 4 to 6.

After the routine of business had been disposed of President Lee announced that the evening had been set apart for the entertainment of the ladies. A committee had arranged a musical program, which was followed by dancing, and everyone appeared to enjoy himself. At the intermission refreshments were served. The seventy-five who were present voted it a success from start to finish.

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

Last week showed an increase in the size of the cuts in practically every line. The warm weather, continuing for a large part of the week, caused some of the flowers to become soft, as well as causing the increased cut. The most noticeable feature was the large influx of giganteums and callas. Up to this time, both of these have been selling nicely. Now, however, there are more of them than are required for market necessities. Bulbous stock continues in a glut, but the quality of the stock has improved greatly. The daffodils and jonquils are, as a whole, among the finest this market has had in many a day.

The offerings of Beauties are fine, but entirely too large for local needs. As a result, most of them are finding ready sales to out-of-town buyers. Other roses are cleaned up after a fashion. To accomplish this, however, quite a few must be sacrificed. To tell of the carnation market is but to tell the same old story; the good stock finds a sale; the stock that is dumped is generally too soft to find a market.

Various Notes.

O. P. Murphy has been sending some fine sweet peas to C. E. Critchell.

E. G. Gillett is offering some elegant callas and freesias from Harry Corbett's place.

Al. Gray, formerly of the Ohio Cut Flower Co., in this city, but now of San Francisco, Cal., in a card sends his "regards to all the boys."

P. J. Olinger is getting in a heavy cut of Beauties. He has been shipping most of them to out-of-town customers.

New insurance rates for the district near Third street will affect the wholesalers there. The rate has been almost doubled.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange has for the last fortnight been receiving large quantities of Killarney.

Fred Lemon and Joe Hill, of Richmond, Ind., were in the city last week.

C. H. H.

Erie, Pa.—Wm. A Chase says trade is excellent all through this vicinity, with plenty of roses and carnations.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubes, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2 1/2-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

JOHN BAUSCHER, FREEPORT, ILL.

CARNATION CUTTINGS.

I can supply the very best carnation stock on the market. What you need is not the cheapest stuff you can buy but stock that will produce the most and best flowers next fall and winter. I use stock plants selected each year as the most vigorous ones in the field, I grow them cool and flower very little; all the vigor of the strongest plants goes into the stock you buy from me. This is my specialty. All stock is grown and shipped under my own eye, I stand back of every shipment that leaves my greenhouses, guaranteeing satisfaction absolutely.

Send for my list of varieties and prices, also my special proposition to grow your stock on until your field is ready.

Double-Glass Double Profits

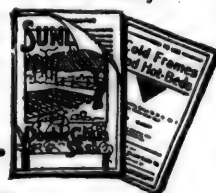

The old single layer hot-bed sash are far better than none; but they must be covered with mats, boards or shutters every evening and uncovered every morning. They are wasteful.

The new SUNLIGHT DOUBLE GLASS SASH, with two layers of glass enclosing an air space, are COMPLETE IN THEMSELVES. They eliminate all extra covers; they wipe out half the labor cost; they admit all the light by day to store warmth in the bed and then save the warmth at night.

They make plants earlier and stronger. They double final profits.

Every practical gardener or florist will see the value of this.

And it is good business for you to get our free catalog for full information. Write your address plainly and send it today; the hot-bed season is not far off. Prof. Massey's booklet on Hot-beds and Cold Frames sent for 4c in stamps.

AUTHORITY.

Some men love authority because they think it makes other men bow the knee to them.

It is a sort of human instinct to rule instead of being ruled.

It should be the pride of every man in authority that he holds authority because of his ability to govern intelligently, instead of holding his job through inheritance or marriage.

To have more authority than ability should make a man humble instead of puffed up.

It is no credit to be given the position of pipe organ player if you can't play a pipe organ.

This kind of a pipe organ player may think that his audience looks up to him because he holds that position, when in fact they are laughing at him behind his back.

The correct use of authority by men capable of using it is worthy of study and thought.

The owner of a greenhouse or flower store can increase or diminish his profits by the right or wrong use of authority.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of the Heating Department, describing their troubles or asking any questions regarding the heating of greenhouses, the piping or boiler-room. But please do not ask us to make a choice of apparatus for you. Each boiler advertised in The Review is a good boiler, and the advertisers sell them on their merits.

RELATIVE SIZES OF PIPES.

Am I getting the best efficiency from my boiler, with a 3-inch main flow connected by three 1½-inch offshoots to the manifolds under the three benches? The manifolds increase to 3-inch from the 1½-inch supply. Enclosed you will find a diagram which may make my question clearer. N. F.

The sketch shows a 3-inch main from which three 1½-inch supply pipes are taken off to feed as many manifolds. It is evident that the three 1½-inch pipes will not be able to handle as much water as can be furnished by the 3-inch main. If the coils, however, are not rather large, it is possible that each of the 1½-inch pipes will be large enough to supply its respective coil, and if so, that is all that is desired.

Regarding the capacity of a 1½-inch supply pipe, it may be said that a good deal will depend upon its length and the height above the boiler, and the actual amount of radiation will be considerably modified by the number, size and length of the pipes in the coils. While it might answer for 250 square feet of radiation if the supply pipe is short and there are only a few moderately small pipes in long coils, well above the boiler, a maximum amount would be 100 square feet if there are numerous, rather large pipes in a short coil which is but little above the boiler. This would make the combined capacity of the three 1½-inch supply pipes from 300 to 750 square feet, while that of the 3-inch main is 1,000 feet.

SIZE OF FLOW AND RETURN.

I herewith enclose a rough sketch of our hot water apparatus and I wish you to give your opinion as to whether the boiler is properly connected. The boiler was installed about four years ago and gives fairly good results, but I am of the opinion it could do better. The boiler is tapped with 4-inch openings for the flow and return. Unfortunately, when the boiler was connected I was away from home, and the steam-fitter, instead of using the 4-inch openings, used a 4-inch bushing to a 2-inch flow and return. You will see by the sketch that the 2-inch flow has to supply twelve lines of 2-inch pipe. Would the circulation not be better if a 4-inch nipple and a 4-inch tee were used on the flow, reducing it to 2-inch for each house? Would not a 4-inch return also be better? The steam-fitter argues that the circulation is more rapid through the 2-inch opening than it would be through the 4-inch. I fail to see it. G. W.

The sketch, as well as the description of the heating plant, makes it clear

BETTER THAN ALL OTHERS

I have fired boilers for the last forty years. The Kroeschell is the best I have ever used. I have two cast iron boilers, also a locomotive boiler coupled with yours, but did not need to use the cast iron boilers this winter. Your No. 7 boiler is rated at 15,000 sq. ft. of glass and carries 25,000 sq. ft. of glass until the outside temperature goes down to 10° of frost. We have no trouble to keep temperatures in our houses with easy firing since we installed your boiler. From the boiler to the farthest end of our violet houses and return is 800 feet, and circulates very quickly.

that although the flow and return ports of the boiler are 4-inch, they have been bushed to 2-inch and the main flow and return pipes are of that size. From this 2-inch main four coils, each containing three 2-inch pipes with a 2-inch return, are supplied. Everything is clear up to this point, but the omission of one fact regarding the heating plant makes it impossible to give a definite answer. If there is more than 200-square feet of radiation in the entire plant it would have been better to use a larger flow and return connection.

FROM HOT WATER TO STEAM.

pipes under the bench on the south side, ten 1 1/4-inch pipes under the bench on the north side and none under the middle bench. I wish now to use the entire house for forcing lily of the valley and have been thinking of changing my heating system to steam. Would you advise me to do this, and what change in the present piping would be necessary to get the required bottom and top heat, in this New England climate? The floor of the boiler room is six feet below the floor of the greenhouse.

F. E. S.

The present piping, if used for hot water, is not sufficient to maintain much more than 50 degrees in zero weather and would be quite inadequate for forcing lily of the valley. On the other hand, while the size and amount of pipe are better adapted for use with steam than with hot water, it will be considerable care to keep up the steam in so small a plant. If steam is to be used, the expansion tank should be removed, a safety valve and water gauge attached to the boiler, and air valves inserted near the lower end of each coil. To be used with steam, the coil should be at least two feet above the water level of the boiler.

In case the required heat is to be obtained with hot water, the amount of radiation should be nearly doubled, using 2-inch pipe for the returns. If all of the pipes are under the benches they would give about the correct proportion of bottom and top heat, but if it is found that the bottom heat is insufficient, it can be increased by partly enclosing the space beneath the benches.

ROCHESTER.

W. H. Dildine might well be called the David Harum of James Vick's Sons. He and Mort Hogan, the foreman of the Elm Grove Farm, have been buying and trading horses so much lately that we need not be surprised if we should see them driving a team of zebras through town. He is going to have all the nine teams branded with the firm trade mark.

Philip Gross is working for Wm. Galintine this winter. Next summer he and his brother, Otto, will go quite extensively into the raising of asters for cut flowers. They figure that it is more profitable to grow those that produce but three or four first-class flowers and no lateral blooms. This necessitates buying a careful selection of seed and paying a high price, because such plants are poor seeders.

At the New York State Fair last September, George Arnold put a little formalin in the water used for holding the cut flowers. This he found a great aid in keeping the water fresh and clear. This is a discovery worth the attention of florists. S. A.

COLUMBUS, O.

At a meeting February 19 the opinion was expressed that the St. Valentine's advertising was a great success, working an increase, according to location of greenhouse or store, of from twenty to forty per cent. Everyone was enthusiastic and the effort will be repeated. The belief is that it solves the publicity problem, so an organization was formed with T. J. Ludwig, of the Livingston Seed Co., as president, S. H. Wilson, of the Wilson Seed Co., as secretary, and H. M. Munk, of the Munk Floral Co., treasurer. A committee of three was appointed to draft by-laws, J. D. Seibert, Miss Howard and S. F. Stephens, and a meeting was called for February 25, at the Great Southern hotel, to complete organization. Get Interested, Mr. Florist; This Is For You

If you contemplate painting your houses this year it will be well for you to investigate the merits of which I use exclusively in the erection of the large ranges of glass that I erect on private estates and public parks. I have increased my plant to take care of the demands made upon me for this paint by florists in all parts of the country. The LUTTON reputation for high-class material is back of this product. Send for a sample free of cost, and then you will send your order. We also furnish materials for the complete erection of modern Iron Frame Greenhouses. Some of the largest growers in the country will testify to this fact.

FACTS

SASH IN STOCK, READY TO SHIP

Q. Do you consider it necessary to use sap-free cypress for hotbed sash?

A. Yes. Sap on cypress is fatal for hotbed sash as well as for greenhouse material. Every sash we sell is absolutely free of sap or defects of any kind.

Q. Why do you call your hotbed sash "the best in the United States"?

A. Because we honestly believe no other sash is as perfect in quality or manufacture. We are just as careful in making these sash as we are with our greenhouse woodwork. It is a high class product.

Q. What are some of the points of superiority?

A. As stated before, sash are free of sap. The lumber is all good straight grain stock, making a strong sash. Every sash has open mortise—the strongest and most durable construction known. Each sash is braced with a clear cypress rod through the center—better and stronger than the iron rod. Tenons are all dipped in pure white lead. Special automatic machines insure extra accurate bar spacing and a perfect sash.

Q. Do you make double-glass sash?

A. Yes. The famous Zero sash. Let us send you our new catalogue, No. 16, telling all about it.
